Democrats Launch Bill To Aid Depressed Areas

Challenge Ike's Economy Drive

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats, with some Republican support, challenged President Eisenhower's economy campaign Tuesday by launching a drive for a 375-million - dollar program of aid to areas plagued by chronic unemployment.

The legislation was introduced in the Senate by 33 Democrats and six Republicans. It was introduced in the House by several members, including Chairman Brent Spence (D-Ky.) of the House Banking Committee which was expected to hold hearings in late February or early March.

The legislation was patterned closely after a bill the President vetoed as too costly last year. It contrasted with the administration's request for a 55-million-dollar program to help depressed areas.

Veto Called "Ill-Starred"

Rep. Daniel J. Flood (D-Pa.), one of the sponsors, denounced Eisenhower's veto as "ill - starred." He told the House the economy would be much healthier today if the President had allowed the bill to become law.

Flood said he expected 100 House members to back the bill at the outset. He called it a modest "people's bill" and noted that it provided primarily for loans rather than grants or "handouts."

Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.), chief Senate sponsor, told a news conference the sponsors believed conditions were such now that the President would not veto the new version.

Revolving Fund For Loans

The legislation would establish a 100-million-dollar revolving fund for liberal low-interest loans for industrial projects in urban chronic unemployment areas. Another 100-million-dollar revolving fund would be set up for similar loans for industrial projects in rural redevelopment areas.

Still another 100-million-dollar revolving fund would be provided for loans to states, Indian tribes or organizations representing redevelopment areas. These loans, running up to 40 years, would be for public facilities to help communities attract new industries.

The bill would authorize federal grants totaling 75-million-dollars to states and other units to develop public facilities to boost chances "for the establishment or expansion of industrial or commercial plants or facilities."

Dulles Doubts Russia Wants Cold War Thaw

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles gave the nod Tuesday to a foreign ministers conference on Germany this spring. At the same time, he firmly rejected any idea that Russia is trying to thaw the cold war.

"I have seen nothing so far," Dulles told a news conference, "which leads me to feel there is a genuine (Soviet) desire to end the cold war. There is a very strong desire to delude us into thinking the cold war is ended.

"There are a series of proposals made ostensibly to help end the cold war which would, in fact, play greatly into the hands of the prosecutors of the cold war."

This attitude led reporters to ask what possible good could then be expected from any foreign ministers meeting this spring.

Dulles replied the West simply has to keep trying. Sometimes, if you are tough enough and patient, agreements fair to all can be reached, he said.

Dulles said it seems to him that Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan got the wrong idea about America's unity during his U.S. visit this month.

The trouble was, Dulles said, Mikoyan's talks with government officials got down to brass tacks —"concrete cases, concrete proposals" — while his talks with businessmen and others mostly dealt with broad generalities. The exception, Dulles said, was Mikoyan's meeting with a group of union leaders who, the secretary said, "presented their views very strongly and effectively."

Apparently what Dulles had in mind were Mikoyan's sour comments that the American people want peace but their government clings to policies which continue the cold war.

Kidnaped Baby Restored To Parents

Administration To Ask Broad Labor Reforms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower will send Congress a sweeping labor-reform bill Wednesday which would amend the Taft-Hartley Act as well as crack down on union racketeering, Republican congressional leaders said Tuesday.

The President and GOP congressional chiefs discussed the measure at a 2½ hour White House meeting Tuesday morning.

In talking to reporters afterward, the congressmen made no bones about the fact that the administration program was a frank challenge to a milder labor reform bill introduced last week by Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.).

House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana said the GOP bill would get at the real causes of labor problems. The Kennedy bill, he said, "treated only the symptoms."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen (Ill.) said later after Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell met with the GOP Policy Committee that the administration proposal would be "actually a labor-management reform bill."

Dirksen said it would call for about 10 changes in the Taft-Hartley Act and contain seven or eight other provisions.

Rep. Carroll D. Kearns (Pa.), ranking Republican on the House Labor Committee, said the administration's new bill "in the main" follows along lines of a measure he introduced last year with backing of GOP leaders. Kearns, who attended the White House conference, said the bill was "in no way anti-union" but demands "responsible" union leadership.

The administration bill calls for changes in the Taft-Hartley Act to deal with secondary boycotts and "blackmail" picketing. It also would establish regulations to protect union funds against unscrupulous leaders and free unions of racket control.

Army Moonshot Set For Feb. 28

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) —The Army has set Feb. 28 for another moon probe attempt but fears its small payload will be judged only as a pathetic entry in the U.S.-Russia weightlifting contest.

A project source told United Press International Tuesday that the new Army probe will be only a repetition of the Dec. 6 shot. Bad aim and insufficient speed foiled the attempt to send a 13-pound instrument package spinning past the moon and into an orbit of the sun.

Less than a month later, Russia's Lunik did exactly what the Army had tried to do. The important propaganda difference was that Lunik weighed 3,245 pounds — 250 times as much as the Army's little Pioneer III.

"We're not in a weightlifting contest," the project official said. "As far as propaganda is concerned, we're afraid this will have very little impact. But scientifically it's well worth doing."

Tribunal Dooms Batista Captain

HAVANA (AP)—A Batista army officer was condemned to death Tuesday in Havana's second showcase trial after one of Fidel Castro's chief lieutenants shouted "I will shoot myself" if the officer escaped the firing squad.

After 10 hours of testimony, a war crimes tribunal deliberated only 39 minutes before ordering death for Capt. Pedro Morejon on charges of assassination, homicide and robbery.

Maj. Camilo Cienfuegos, chief of the revolutionary forces in the Havana area, and one of Castro's closest associates, made the dramatic gesture of threatening suicide. He called Morejon "the most bestial killer in the world."

Morejon's trial was held in a drab army headquarters outside Havana, in striking contrast to the first major trial in the Sports Palace before jeering crowds and the glaring lights of television.

The ex-captain, who accepted the verdict stoicly, was expected to appeal. His college, Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco, who was sentenced to face a firing squad in the first big Havana public trial, also had appealed.

High Schools Basically All Right, Conant Finds

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—There is nothing wrong with U.S. high schools that the communities themselves can't fix if they put their minds to it.

That is the gist of a report Tuesday by Dr. James B. Conant after a two-year survey that carried him to every part of the country.

But Dr. Conant emphasized one point: Small high schools—those with less than 100 in the graduating class—can be satisfactory only at exorbitant expense. Their number, he said, must be drastically reduced through school district reorganization and consolidation. And, he added, nearly three-quarters of the nation's high schools fall in that category.

"Aside from this important change," he said, "I believe no radical alteration in the basic pattern of American education is necessary in order to improve our public high schools."

The Conant report came in a book, "The American High School Today," which was published Tuesday.

The distinguished educator and former ambassador said he had one general criticism of the schools he has visited: The academically talented students, who are generally in the upper 15 per cent of their class, aren't being challenged enough, don't work hard enough, and aren't offered programs with a wide enough range.

He submitted a list of 21 specific recommendations for strengthening public high schools within their present framework.

One was a basic course of studies to be taken by every student, including four years of English and three or four years of social studies. For the brighter students, the program would be considerably tougher and include four years of math and four years of one foreign language. The latter program would call for 15 hours of home work each week.

Puerto Rican Woman Held As Baby Kidnaper

NEW YORK (AP)—A kidnaped baby was restored to its mother's arms Tuesday, in a second such dramatic reunion this month. The alleged abductor in the latest case claimed she wanted an infant to replace one lost recently by miscarriage.

"That's Johnny, that's my baby," cried the child's hysterical mother, Mrs. Jose Tavarez, 31, as her 28-day-old son was shown to her in a West Side three-room basement apartment where he was found. The baby had been stolen Jan. 22 after the kidnaper sent Mrs. Tavarez on a wild goose chase for a non - existent apartment.

Held as the kidnaper of the child was Mrs. Asuncion Ortiz, 25, a Puerto Rican.

The Tavarez baby suffered from a chest cold when abducted last Thursday. He was treated at Roosevelt Hospital for bronchitis and an intestinal inflammation, apparently an outgrowth of the earlier ailment.

Recovery of the baby came after police received tips via a special telephone line set up for the convenience of anying having information on the missing Tavarez child.

A similar special line was used by a tipster who broke the earlier kidnaping case involving Lisa Rose Chionchio. Abducted 2½ hours after birth Jan. 2, the Brooklyn heild was recovered alive and well nine days later.

In the earlier kidnaping, the mother was so glad to recover her baby safely that she voiced sympathy and forgiveness for the woman kidnaper. But Mrs. Tavarez said bitterly, "I will not forgive," I cannot forget her for the terrible thing she did."

Air Force Calls For Big Buildup

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force told Congress Tuesday it must face up to the fact that Russia "has in being long-range military forces designed solely for attacks against the United States."

The only way to deter this threat, said the Air Force chief of staff, Gen. Thomas D. White, is to build strong retaliatory air power and space power.

White and Secretary of the Air Force James H. Douglas outlined defense problems, from the Air Force viewpoint, in a closed session of the Senate Armed Services Committee. That group is making a service-by-service study before tackling any military legislation.

In the nonsecret portion of their prepared testimony White and Douglas took issue with suggestions by Army and Navy spokesman that the United States should pay more attention to a readiness to fight limited wars.

The two said the ability to act quickly in limited emergencies has been demonstrated in the last year by all the armed services, including the Air Force, in Lebanon and the islands off Formosa.

White said it would be "dangerous to national survival and continued leadership of the free world" to alter U.S. policies for massive retaliation.

Khrushchev Claims ICBM In Production

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Khrushchev opened the 21st Congress of the Soviet Communist party Tuesday by announcing the Soviet Union has intercontinental ballistic missiles in serial production. But he said the main Soviet objective is to end the cold war and international tension.

The "task of tasks", he said, is to achieve nuclear disarmament, "to learn to solve contentious problems by peaceful talks" and to base international relations on peaceful coexistence.

He again said Russia is ready to ban for all time the building and testing of rockets as well as nuclear weapons, and to destroy all stockpiles of these weapons.

But he said nothing to suggest that Russia was any more ready to compromise with the West on Berlin, Germany, or other issues such as control systems that would make disarmament and a ban on nuclear tests possible.

His announcement on the production of the big missiles was in these words:

"In the Soviet Union the serial production of intercontinental ballistic missiles has been organized."

His text, as made available by the official Tass news agency did not explain what was meant by serial production. It could be construed as meaning that a succession of the weapons was coming from Soviet factories either for testing or operational purposes.

(The Premier's claim touched on a controversy in the United States where Defense Secretary McElroy on Jan. 22 disputed with critics of President Eisenhower's budget. He said the Defense Department does not believe the Soviet Union has an operational ICBM, or that she would have 300 of them in stock by 1960. The White House had no comment Tuesday on the Khrushchev statement.)

Khrushchev spoke to 1,500 delegates and Communist party representatives from 70 countries.

The principal tasks ahead, he said, are "to establish the material and technical base of communism, to strengthen further the economic and defensive might of the U.S.S.R. and, at the same time, to provide for the fuller satisfaction of the growing material and spiritual requirements of the people."

Service Chiefs Want More Men, Shun Gag Charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top Army, Air Force and Marine officers indicated Tuesday they want more men. But they stopped short of criticizing military manpower limitations imposed by the Eisenhower administration.

Their cautiously worded testimony before the House Armed Services Committee prompted Rep. F. Edward Hebert (D-La) to suggest sharply they were being gagged by higher authority.

But the gag charge got no backing from Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff; Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force vice chief of staff, or Gen. Randolph M. Pate, commandant of the Marine Corps.

The service chiefs and other Defense Department witnesses urged extension of the draft law for four years beyond next June 30.

Taylor expressed the conviction it would be impossible to maintain the Army at the desired strength without the draft, even taking account of higher pay and other incentives to voluntary enlistments.

Neither the Air Force, Navy nor Marine Corps now resorts to the draft, but spokesmen for all of them said its existence helps get volunteers for their ranks.

Big Atlas Missile Thunders Skyward

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The Air Force blasted its 19th Atlas skyward Tuesday night on the fiery start of what reportedly was another ocean - spanning, 4,000-mile space flight.

The 80-foot rocket, which carries U.S. hopes for matching Russian claims in the space race, bolted up majestically with a flash of white fire. It remained in sight six minutes.

The spectacular twilight shoot came on the heels of Premier Khrushchev's boast that Russia already is producing mighty intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Although indications pointed to a 4,000-mile shot, the missile's behavior during the early stage of flight led to speculation the Atlas may have been assigned a bigger job. What the job was was not known.

The latest launching was the second in a new Atlas series, another big step toward making the missile operational late this year. Most of the modifications in this newest model are classified but they add up to a little less weight and thus longer range capabilities.

Judge Removes Norfolk School Race Barrier

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — A federal judge Tuesday struck down a plan by the Norfolk City Council to close all junior high and high schools here instead of opening some on a mixed racial basis.

The action by Judge Walter E. Hoffman apparently struck down the last, hastily-thrown up barrier in the way of integration in public schools here—possibly as soon as next week.

Mayor W. Fred Duckworth said Hoffman's bench order "prevents the council from doing what it deems to be in the best interest of the city," but said pending an appeal the council would abide by the order.

Duckworth appealed to "every segment" of the community to conduct itself in a "peaceful and law-abiding manner." He said no violence or unlawful acts would be tolerated.

In Richmond, meanwhile, Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. prepared to go before a special session of the Legislature Wednesday to present a stop-gap program to stave off integration in Virginia. Virginia's "massive resistance" laws against intergration, which resulted in school closings in Norfolk, Charlottesville and Front Royal, crumbled a week ago under adverse court decisions.

In Charlottesville, the city council Tuesday adopted a resolution favoring a "minimum degree" of integration in preference to abolition of the schools.

In Norfolk, Hoffman held that the city council could not cut off school funds to close the schools because it fears violence if Negroes are admitted under federal court order to white schools.

He said that in attempting to close more schools, the council had "perpetrated an evasive scheme" to avoid integration.

Merger Pact Torn Up

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Bethlehem Steel Corp., and the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., Tuesday terminated their merger agreement and ended one of the biggest anti-trust battles in history.

Nixon Says Foreign Aid Slash Would Be Mistake

NEW YORK (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon said Tuesday night it would be a disastrous mistake to reduce foreign aid funds in the drive for military superiority over Russia.

Nixon called it shortsighted to condemn as "give-aways and do-goodism the vital expenditures needed to meet and defeat the Communist threat abroad."

"There is no question but that Congress will vote for and the people will support whatever level of military expenditures the best combined judgment of our national leaders indicates is necessary to protect the national security," Nixon said.

But, he added, "We can be the strongest military power in the world and still lose the struggle for the world without a missile being launched if we don't have the vision to counter the massive Communist offensive in the economic, propaganda and political areas."

Nixon spoke out in a speech prepared for a Fordham College Alumni Assn. dinner.

Earlier he received an honorary degree of doctor of laws from Fordham.

Nixon's speech came on the heels of a boast by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in Moscow that the Russians can fire missiles with pinpoint accuracy to any part of the globe.

Nixon also sought to assess the results of the recent visit to the United States of Anastas I. Mikoyan, deputy Soviet premier.

He said Mikoyan's talks with President Eisenhower, himself and other officials showed "there has been no change whatever in the positions previously taken by the United States and the Soviet Union on such major policy questions as Berlin, suspension of nuclear tests and East-West trade."

Squad Of 110 Soon Will Be Cut To Dozen

NASA Chief Tells Of Plan For Putting Volunteer In Orbit

NEW YORK (AP)—One hundred and 10 rugged young Americans have "made the squad" which will provide America's entry into the race to put the first man into orbit around the earth.

This was disclosed Tuesday night by Dr. T. Keith Glennan, U.S. space chief, in a surprise addition to a speech.

The potential American pioneers were not listed by name. Glennan said the 110 carefully chosen men will be reduced to 12 by late March.

Glennen, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, told of the plans in a talk to the Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences.

He said volunteers for this U.S. flight would be known as Mercury Astronauts; America's manned satellite venture is known as Project Mercury.

Whether one or more of these astronauts is actually the first human to go into orbit around the world will depend in large measure, of course, on whether America's program beats the Russians'.

Qualifications Listed

Glennan made his announcement in these words:

"The process has begun to select the U.S. citizen who will become our 20th century Mercury orbiting the earth in space."

Glennan gave these as characteristics of the man to be finally selected:

1. A university graduate, with a degree in the physical sciences or in engineering.

2. A graduate of one of the military test-pilot training schools, with at least 1,500 hours of flying time.

3. Younger than 40, and not taller than 5 feet 11.

4. In superb condition, with the physical and psychological characteristics best suited for space flight as determined by the aeromedical scientists who are helping NASA in Project Mercury.

"We are determined that the risks to the pilot will be no greater than those experienced during the first flight of a new, high performance airplane," Glennan said.

Animals To Precede Man

"Repeated flight of the space capsule, first carrying only instruments, and later animals, will have tested and proven the practicability of the final phase of Project Mercury—manned satellite flight—before it is undertaken."

Glennan said the first step in the selection process has been completed. This was the screening of the records of Air Force, Navy and Marine officers who have been graduated from their services' test-pilot schools.

On the basis of requirements set up by NASA's Aero-Medical Committee headed by Dr. W. Randolph Loveless of Albuquerque, N.M., the 110 most likely candidates were selected.

Starting early next month, these candidates will come to Washington in groups of about 30 to be given a full description of Project Mercury by NASA, Army, Navy and Air Force biomedical experts.

36 Volunteers To Be Chosen

Only after these briefings will the candidates be asked if they will volunteer.

Glennan said 36 will be chosen from those who answer affirmatively, for the next step in the selection process.

This smaller group will be given a series of intensive physical and psychological tests, including studies of their ability to cope with space flight stresses.

It is expected that 12 volunteers will have been chosen by late March to begin a training program that will progressively come closer to those of orbital space flight.

The 12 will be assigned to the NASA space task group at Langley Air Force Base, Va., under the project direction of Robert R. Gilruth.

Mexican Holiday For Eisenhower?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower was reported Tuesday to be considering a trip to Mexico.

Informed sources said the President's visit, if it comes off, probably would be in the nature of an informal weekend rather than a full-fledged state visit.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force told Congress Tuesday it must face up to the fact that Russia "has in being long-range military forces designed solely for attacks against the United States."

The only way to deter this threat, said the Air Force chief of staff, Gen. Thomas D. White, is to build strong retaliatory air power and space power.

White and Secretary of the Air Force James H. Douglas outlined defense problems, from the Air Force viewpoint, in a closed session of the Senate Armed Services Committee. That group is making a service-by-service study before tackling any military legislation.

In the nonsecret portion of their prepared testimony White and Douglas took issue with suggestions by Army and Navy spokesman that the United States should pay more attention to a readiness to fight limited wars.

The two said the ability to act quickly in limited emergencies has been demonstrated in the last year by all the armed services, including the Air Force, in Lebanon and the islands off Formosa.

White said it would be "dangerous to national survival and continued leadership of the free world" to alter U.S. policies for massive retaliation.

Khrushchev Claims ICBM In Production

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Khrushchev opened the 21st Congress of the Soviet Communist party Tuesday by announcing the Soviet Union has intercontinental ballistic missiles in serial production. But he said the main Soviet objective is to end the cold war and international tension.

The "task of tasks", he said, is to achieve nuclear disarmament, "to learn to solve contentious problems by peaceful talks" and to base international relations on peaceful coexistence.

He again said Russia is ready to ban for all time the building and testing of rockets as well as nuclear weapons, and to destroy all stockpiles of these weapons.

But he said nothing to suggest that Russia was any more ready to compromise with the West on Berlin, Germany, or other issues such as control systems that would make disarmament and a ban on nuclear tests possible.

His announcement on the production of the big missiles was in these words:

"In the Soviet Union the serial production of intercontinental ballistic missiles has been organized."

His text, as made available by the official Tass news agency did not explain what was meant by serial production. It could be construed as meaning that a succession of the weapons was coming from Soviet factories either for testing or operational purposes.

(The Premier's claim touched on a controversy in the United States where Defense Secretary McElroy on Jan. 22 disputed with critics of President Eisenhower's budget. He said the Defense Department does not believe the Soviet Union has an operational ICBM, or that she would have 300 of them in stock by 1960. The White House had no comment Tuesday on the Khrushchev statement.)

Khrushchev spoke to 1,500 delegates and Communist party representatives from 70 countries.

The principal tasks ahead, he said, are "to establish the material and technical base of communism, to strengthen further the economic and defensive might of the U.S.S.R. and, at the same time, to provide for the fuller satisfaction of the growing material and spiritual requirements of the people."

Service Chiefs Want More Men, Shun Gag Charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top Army, Air Force and Marine officers indicated Tuesday they want more men. But they stopped short of criticizing military manpower limitations imposed by the Eisenhower administration.

Their cautiously worded testimony before the House Armed Services Committee prompted Rep. F. Edward Hebert (D-La) to suggest sharply they were being gagged by higher authority.

But the gag charge got no backing from Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff; Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force vice chief of staff, or Gen. Randolph M. Pate, commandant of the Marine Corps.

The service chiefs and other Defense Department witnesses urged extension of the draft law for four years beyond next June 30.

Taylor expressed the conviction it would be impossible to maintain the Army at the desired strength without the draft, even taking account of higher pay and other incentives to voluntary enlistments.

Neither the Air Force, Navy nor Marine Corps now resorts to the draft, but spokesmen for all of them said its existence helps get volunteers for their ranks.

Big Atlas Missile Thunders Skyward

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The Air Force blasted its 19th Atlas skyward Tuesday night on the fiery start of what reportedly was another ocean - spanning, 4,000-mile space flight.

The 80-foot rocket, which carries U.S. hopes for matching Russian claims in the space race, bolted up majestically with a flash of white fire. It remained in sight six minutes.

The spectacular twilight shoot came on the heels of Premier Khrushchev's boast that Russia already is producing mighty intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Although indications pointed to a 4,000-mile shot, the missile's behavior during the early stage of flight led to speculation the Atlas may have been assigned a bigger job. What the job was was not known.

The latest launching was the second in a new Atlas series, another big step toward making the missile operational late this year. Most of the modifications in this newest model are classified but they add up to a little less weight and thus longer range capabilities.

Judge Removes Norfolk School Race Barrier

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — A federal judge Tuesday struck down a plan by the Norfolk City Council to close all junior high and high schools here instead of opening some on a mixed racial basis.

The action by Judge Walter E. Hoffman apparently struck down the last, hastily-thrown up barrier in the way of integration in public schools here—possibly as soon as next week.

Mayor W. Fred Duckworth said Hoffman's bench order "prevents the council from doing what it deems to be in the best interest of the city," but said pending an appeal the council would abide by the order.

Duckworth appealed to "every segment" of the community to conduct itself in a "peaceful and law-abiding manner." He said no violence or unlawful acts would be tolerated.

In Richmond, meanwhile, Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. prepared to go before a special session of the Legislature Wednesday to present a stop-gap program to stave off integration in Virginia. Virginia's "massive resistance" laws against intergration, which resulted in school closings in Norfolk, Charlottesville and Front Royal, crumbled a week ago under adverse court decisions.

In Charlottesville, the city council Tuesday adopted a resolution favoring a "minimum degree" of integration in preference to abolition of the schools.

In Norfolk, Hoffman held that the city council could not cut off school funds to close the schools because it fears violence if Negroes are admitted under federal court order to white schools.

He said that in attempting to close more schools, the council had "perpetrated an evasive scheme" to avoid integration.

Merger Pact Torn Up

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Bethlehem Steel Corp., and the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., Tuesday terminated their merger agreement and ended one of the biggest anti-trust battles in history.

Nixon Says Foreign Aid Slash Would Be Mistake

NEW YORK (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon said Tuesday night it would be a disastrous mistake to reduce foreign aid funds in the drive for military superiority over Russia.

Nixon called it shortsighted to condemn as "give-aways and do-goodism the vital expenditures needed to meet and defeat the Communist threat abroad."

"There is no question but that Congress will vote for and the people will support whatever level of military expenditures the best combined judgment of our national leaders indicates is necessary to protect the national security," Nixon said.

But, he added, "We can be the strongest military power in the world and still lose the struggle for the world without a missile being launched if we don't have the vision to counter the massive Communist offensive in the economic, propaganda and political areas."

Nixon spoke out in a speech prepared for a Fordham College Alumni Assn. dinner.

Earlier he received an honorary degree of doctor of laws from Fordham.

Nixon's speech came on the heels of a boast by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in Moscow that the Russians can fire missiles with pinpoint accuracy to any part of the globe.

Nixon also sought to assess the results of the recent visit to the United States of Anastas I. Mikoyan, deputy Soviet premier.

He said Mikoyan's talks with President Eisenhower, himself and other officials showed "there has been no change whatever in the positions previously taken by the United States and the Soviet Union on such major policy questions as Berlin, suspension of nuclear tests and East-West trade."

High Schools Basically All Right, Conant Finds

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—There is nothing wrong with U.S. high schools that the communities themselves can't fix if they put their minds to it.

That is the gist of a report Tuesday by Dr. James B. Conant after a two-year survey that carried him to every part of the country.

But Dr. Conant emphasized one point: Small high schools—those with less than 100 in the graduating class—can be satisfactory only at exorbitant expense. Their number, he said, must be drastically reduced through school district reorganization and consolidation. And, he added, nearly three-quarters of the nation's high schools fall in that category.

"Aside from this important change," he said, "I believe no radical alteration in the basic pattern of American education is necessary in order to improve our public high schools."

The Conant report came in a book, "The American High School Today," which was published Tuesday.

The distinguished educator and former ambassador said he had one general criticism of the schools he has visited: The academically talented students, who are generally in the upper 15 per cent of their class, aren't being challenged enough, don't work hard enough, and aren't offered programs with a wide enough range.

He submitted a list of 21 specific recommendations for strengthening public high schools within their present framework.

One was a basic course of studies to be taken by every student, including four years of English and three or four years of social studies. For the brighter students, the program would be considerably tougher and include four years of math and four years of one foreign language. The latter program would call for 15 hours of home work each week.

Squad Of 110 Soon Will Be Cut To Dozen

NASA Chief Tells Of Plan For Putting Volunteer In Orbit

NEW YORK (AP)—One hundred and 10 rugged young Americans have "made the squad" which will provide America's entry into the race to put the first man into orbit around the earth.

This was disclosed Tuesday night by Dr. T. Keith Glennan, U.S. space chief, in a surprise addition to a speech.

The potential American pioneers were not listed by name. Glennan said the 110 carefully chosen men will be reduced to 12 by late March.

Glennen, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, told of the plans in a talk to the Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences.

He said volunteers for this U.S. flight would be known as Mercury Astronauts; America's manned satellite venture is known as Project Mercury.

Whether one or more of these astronauts is actually the first human to go into orbit around the world will depend in large measure, of course, on whether America's program beats the Russians'.

Qualifications Listed

Glennan made his announcement in these words:

"The process has begun to select the U.S. citizen who will become our 20th century Mercury orbiting the earth in space."

Glennan gave these as characteristics of the man to be finally selected:

1. A university graduate, with a degree in the physical sciences or in engineering.

2. A graduate of one of the military test-pilot training schools, with at least 1,500 hours of flying time.

3. Younger than 40, and not taller than 5 feet 11.

4. In superb condition, with the physical and psychological characteristics best suited for space flight as determined by the aeromedical scientists who are helping NASA in Project Mercury.

"We are determined that the risks to the pilot will be no greater than those experienced during the first flight of a new, high performance airplane," Glennan said.

Animals To Precede Man

"Repeated flight of the space capsule, first carrying only instruments, and later animals, will have tested and proven the practicability of the final phase of Project Mercury—manned satellite flight—before it is undertaken."

Glennan said the first step in the selection process has been completed. This was the screening of the records of Air Force, Navy and Marine officers who have been graduated from their services' test-pilot schools.

On the basis of requirements set up by NASA's Aero-Medical Committee headed by Dr. W. Randolph Loveless of Albuquerque, N.M., the 110 most likely candidates were selected.

Starting early next month, these candidates will come to Washington in groups of about 30 to be given a full description of Project Mercury by NASA, Army, Navy and Air Force biomedical experts.

36 Volunteers To Be Chosen

Only after these briefings will the candidates be asked if they will volunteer.

Glennan said 36 will be chosen from those who answer affirmatively, for the next step in the selection process.

This smaller group will be given a series of intensive physical and psychological tests, including studies of their ability to cope with space flight stresses.

It is expected that 12 volunteers will have been chosen by late March to begin a training program that will progressively come closer to those of orbital space flight.

The 12 will be assigned to the NASA space task group at Langley Air Force Base, Va., under the project direction of Robert R. Gilruth.

Mexican Holiday For Eisenhower?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower was reported Tuesday to be considering a trip to Mexico.

Informed sources said the President's visit, if it comes off, probably would be in the nature of an informal weekend rather than a full-fledged state visit.

Dorsey Moves To Bar Legislative Action On Proposed River Compact

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—A Maryland legislator moved Tuesday to bar legislative action on the new proposed Potomac River Compact between his state and Virginia.

State Sen. Walter B. Dorsey (D-St. Marys) introduced a bill which would require that such a compact also include lower Chesapeake Bay or be banned from consideration by the Maryland Legislature.

Legal authorities informally questioned the validity of the bill. Dorsey insisted it is constitutional.

Even if this type of bill is constitutional, Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert told a reporter, it can have no binding effect on the lawmakers. He said they could merely adopt legislation dealing only with the Potomac Compact, nullifying any previous action on the all-or-nothing Dorsey bill.

Dorsey's bill was the latest development in the sparring over the rich fishing and oyster grounds of the Maryland-owned Potomac.

Five-man teams representing each of the states have agreed on a compact to settle the ancient feud between Maryland and Virginia watermen who fish the river. This agreement would replace the historic compact of 1785, but it has not yet been presented to the Legislature. Aides say Maryland Gov. J. Millard Tawes is still studying it.

Under the new plan, a six-member commission would have jurisdiction over conservation practices in the Potomac. Dorsey's measure would require that the bi-state commission also rule over the seafood-rich lower Chesapeake Bay, which is owned by Virginia.

"This puts it up to Virginia," declared the freshman senator. "If they're really interested in conservation, they'll go ahead with us on including the lower bay too, then we can adopt a new compact."

The Potomac controversy, which has bubbled for decades, boiled over into the Supreme Court after the Maryland Legislature declared the 1785 agreement void. The compact gave Virginians equal fishing rights with Marylanders on the river, but Marylanders complained that Virginia officials were not cooperating in the arrest and prosecution of conservation law violators from their state.

Emergency Jobless Aid Plan Studied

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — The Washington County Board of Commissioners has scheduled a special meeting to further discuss a proposal that emergency aid be provided for the county's growing number of jobless persons.

The commissioners will meet next Tuesday with the county welfare board.

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—The Argentine government Tuesday took over control of six labor unions charged with instigating violence in last week's general strike.

Elkins Moves To Sidetrack U. Of Md. Probe

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The University of Maryland president popped into Annapolis Tuesday for a talk with a delegate who wants to investigate the university administration.

After huddling for more than 30 minutes the pair, Dr. Wilson H. Elkins and Del. Hervey G. Machen (D-Prince Georges), said they had agreed to huddle again later.

Machen said the session, held in a basement office of the state house, was "very friendly, very informative." He said he will continue to hold off introduction of a resolution calling for a year-long legislative study of the university administration.

The soft-spoken delegate announced Sunday he planned to introduce the resolution to "put down unrest" among university students, the faculty and their friends and to "take the university out of politics."

His announcement came after Maryland's Board of Regents, the university governing body, last week changed scholastic requirements.

These requirements had been blamed in some quarters for the decline of Maryland's football fortunes and had been a subject of controversy even among university faculty members.

By contrast, standards in effect before Elkins' arrival at the university five years ago had been criticized as too lax and were among reasons the institution was placed on probation — or qualified accreditation — by the Middle States Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Elkins told newsmen he had planned since last week to visit the Statehouse Tuesday to hear Gov. Tawes deliver his budget message.

But he acknowledged he was anxious to meet with Machen in an attempt to head off the proposed study. He said he hoped the discussion Tuesday and subsequent meetings which might include the Board of Regents would convince the delegate a study is not necessary.

"Such a study, even if it produced nothing, would cast a shadow on the university," he said.

Russians Substitute Sweets For Alcohol

MOSCOW (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev said Tuesday a campaign to cut down on drinking in the Soviet Union will result in "people consuming more sweets and less bitters."

He reported the Soviet people consumed 113 million fewer liters—roughly quarts—of strong drink in 1958 than in the year before.

Khrushchev told the Communist party Congress increased sugar production under the seven-year plan would permit people to substitute the consumption of sweets for alcohol in the future.

Batista Refused Asylum In France

PARIS (AP)—The French government has poured cold water on efforts by former Cuban dictator Fulgencio Batista to take political refuge here, a Foreign Ministry spokesman said Tuesday.

Batista had sounded out the French government through intermediaries here, the spokesman said.

He has been granted asylum in the Dominican Republic.

Anti-Castro Plot Smashed In Cuba

HAVANA (AP)—Revolutionary army officials announced Tuesday the arrest of 10 ex-army men and a civilian at San Cristobal and numbers of others elsewhere in Cuba on charges of plotting to overthrow the Castro regime.

They did not say how widespread the alleged plot may be but told of initial arrests at five places.

Large quantities of arms and ammunition were seized, they reported.

Besides those arrested at San Cristobal, unannounced numbers were ordered into detention as suspects at Los Palacios, Santa Cruz de los Pinos, Candelario and San Diego de los Banos.

Authorities said they had reports that subversive elements—presumably remnants of the regime of ousted President Fulgencio Batista — were holding reunions in various places.

Ike Farm Operator Paid $6,000 In Aid

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — A U.S. Agriculture Department official said Tuesday that almost $6,000 in federal assistance payments were made since 1953 to the operator of President Eisenhower's Gettysburg farm.

The figure was contained in an analysis of federal dealings with the Eisenhower farm compiled by J. Glenn Miller, officer manager for the Adams County office of the Agricultural Stabilization Conservation Committee.

Miller's records showed the payments were made to George Allen, who leases and operates the farm portion of the Eisenhower estate.

Miller's report showed the payments were made to Allen for operation of the farm under federal wheat price supports, corn and wheat acreage reserves and the conservation program.

Trading Stamp Thieves

CHICAGO (UPI)—The modern burglar now goes in for collecting trading stamps, police reported Tuesday.

Officers cited the burglary of a chain food store Tuesday. The thieves took 750,000 trading stamps, worth about about $2,500 in such merchandise as lawnmowers, percolators, hedge trimmers and hack saws.

Strike Sets Off Riots

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — A general strike set off rioting Tuesday. Police and strikers fought for hours in the streets. Officials estimated 100 persons, about half of them policemen, were injured.

Labor leaders called the general strike after police, acting on a court order, evicted 400 sitdown strikers from a optical works.

Russians Substitute Sweets For Alcohol

MOSCOW (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev said Tuesday a campaign to cut down on drinking in the Soviet Union will result in "people consuming more sweets and less bitters."

He reported the Soviet people consumed 113 million fewer liters —roughly quarts—of strong drink in 1958 than in the year before.

Khrushchev told the Communist party Congress increased sugar production under the seven-year plan would permit people to substitute the consumption of sweets for alcohol in the future.

Batista Refused Asylum In France

PARIS (AP)—The French government has poured cold water on efforts by former Cuban dictator Fulgencio Batista to take political refuge here, a Foreign Ministry spokesman said Tuesday.

Batista had sounded out the French government through intermediaries here, the spokesman said.

He has been granted asylum in the Dominican Republic.

Motherwell To Confer With Lawyer On Defense

FREDERICK (AP) — Larry Lord Motherwell awaited Tuesday a visit from his attorney to map the defense he will make against charges he allowed his baby daughter to suffocate.

The 42-year-old husky construction engineer, who was arrested last week in Las Vegas, Nev. after an intensive search, was brought to the Frederick County jail here early Tuesday after a 2,500 mile auto trip.

Obviously tired by the last lap of driving from Xenia, O. to Frederick, Motherwell spent the day relaxing in the jail security block playing cards with about 16 other inmates.

No date had been set for his first personal conference with the defense lawyer, John T. Reges of Washington.

Motherwell is charged with murder in the June 19, 1954 death of his Mongolioid daughter, Heather. The baby strangled to death in Motherwell's apartment here after she had been fed, police said. They said he was taking a shower at the time.

The infant was 14-months-old and had been in a Takoma Park, Md. nursing home from shortly after birth up until the day she died.

The remains of the baby were exhumed on the property of a suburban Frederick farm last Nov. 19. Motherwell had told the owner the box he buried contained a dog who saved his life in Korea.

The search for the baby was launched last summer after Washington, D.C. police were asked to locate a wealthy 72-year-old widow, Mrs. Pearl Putney. A relative said she had left Washington with Motherwell after she had received about $50,000 from her mother's estate.

Mrs. Putney is still missing, and when arrested in Las Vegas Motherwell insisted she was still alive.

The baby's mother — who was Motherwell's second wife — was drowned in her bath in Washington Nov. 7, 1953. Motherwell and his first wife were divorced. His present wife and daughter live in Washington.

Traffic Flow In Maryland Up Only 1% In 1958

BALTIMORE (AP) — If Maryland highways seem more jammed than ever in 1958, don't believe it. Traffic increased hardly at all — less than one per cent over the previous year.

The State Roads Commission Tuesday announced the results of its 24-hour-a-day traffic count at 34 key locations.

The flow of cars and truck increased only nine-tenths of one per cent over 1957. By contrast, traffic increased more than 88 per cent in the past 10 years.

The SRC gleans its information from traffic figures at the three State toll bridges and 30 photo-electric counters scattered around the state.

A commission spokesman concluded two main factors in the leveling off in 1958 were the economic recession which reduced tourist and business travel and heavy snowstorms last winter.

The Baltimore Harbor Tunnel showed a 20.5 per cent hike in traffic in December of 1958 compared with December 1957, its first full month in business.

Chesapeake Bay Bridge, which presumably lost some coastal customers to the harbor tunnel, reported a 14.3 per cent drop in traffic volume for the year.

A decline of 4.1 per cent was recorded on the Potomac river toll bridge and 2.7 decrease on the state's third fee span, the Susquehanna River Bridge.

Man Gets 9 Months On Moonshine Count

BALTIMORE (AP) — Norman P. Shaeffer, 27, of Stewartstown, Pa., has been sentenced to nine months in federal prison after pleading guilty to charges of transporting raw materials to be used in making moonshine whisky.

Shaeffer admitted in Federal Court Monday that he was carrying 770 pounds of sugar and seven cases of jars in his car stopped last Oct. 24 by Baltimore County Police.

Judge W. Calvin Chesnut was told police stopped Shaeffer near Parkton to examine his driver's license and found he was not observing certain restrictions stamped on it.

Federal agents were called in when county police noticed the contents of his car. They found all the identification numbers removed from the sugar bags.

Crater-shaped buffalo wallows still scar the plains and prairies of the American West, the National Geographic Magazine says. Formed when 60 million bison roamed the continent, the wallows provided the animals with dust baths in dry weather and mud baths when it rained. Some wallows grew to miles in length.

Mental Hospital Appeal Voiced

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maryland residents were urged Tuesday to do something about the "very distressing" problems in the state's mental health hospitals.

Dr. Charles Bagley III, president of the Maryland Assn. for Mental Health, said the public should not allow conditions to exist where patients are housed "in foul-smelling quarters" where there is a shortage of personnel and care is inadequate.

Bagley said that the state's five mental hospitals have shown a "gradual improvement over a period of years" but that conditions still need to be improved.

He said he sees hopeful signs the public is starting to wonder while the overcrowding of patients and the shortage of personnel are allowed to exist. He said this was mainly due to newspaper articles pointing out these conditions.

Eighty per cent of the persons admitted to mental hospitals, Bagley said, can be cured and returned to their families and communities — if they get the proper care and treatment.

But it can't be done without the public being willing to provide the funds, he said.

Icy Roads Bring Rash Of Mishaps

By The Associated Press

The miseries of winter driving — ice, snow, sleet, fog and slush — brought headaches, a few nightmares and injuries to Maryland motorists.

Police throughout the state Tuesday were plagued with a rash of accidents, most of them minor.

Snow continued to fall in much of the state, with Western Maryland getting the blunt of it.

Thirteen persons and the driver were injured early Tuesday when a bus skidded on an ice-slick highway in Delaware and collided with a parked tractor-trailer which had jackknifed.

However, none was seriously injured.

Even pedestrians found the going hazardous. Many a slip and a fall brought painful hurts and a few broken bones.

The weatherman didn't give much hope the misery would end soon. Below-freezing temperatures were expected to continue.

But skies were forecast to clear over most of the state Wednesday.

Yale university was named after Elihu Yale, the retired East India merchant who gave the school a large gift in 1718.

A Fishing Creek, Md., girl was pinned in her car after it skidded, went into a spin and landed almost on its top in a marshy ditch.

Miss Rebecca Clayton, 19, escaped with only a few scratches—but wet and miserable. Two passers-by got her out of her car. The accident occurred about 10 miles south of Cambridge on Maryland 335.

Mission To Quit Cuba

HAVANA (AP)—The 40-man U. S. military training mission in Cuba is expected to pull out early in February, informed sources reported Tuesday.

Rebel chief Fidel Castro has repeatedly said the mission is not wanted here because it helped train the Batista regime's armed forces in their fight against the rebels.

Bird Club Discusses June Camp

A discussion on whether or not to hold the "Nature and Conservation Camp" featured the meeting of the Allegany County Bird Club, held at the Board of Education building with William Leeson presiding. Most of the business session centered on the report by Edgar Reynolds, chairman of the committee which is working on details and making plans for the camp, which was held in previous years at Pleasant Valley in June. A final conclusion will be made at the meeting February 18, after a complete committee report.

Kenneth Stone, who is with the Soil Conservation Service here, was guest speaker. He discussed the value of conservation of the soil.

Seventeen members attended.

Older 4-H To Meet

Square dancing and folk games will feature the meeting of the Older Youth 4-H Club, which will be held February 4. It is to be at the home of Robert Schubert, Baltimore Pike, beginning at 7:30.

Mothers To Meet

The DeMolay Mothers Club will meet at 8 tonight at the Masonic temple. Mrs. James Dean will preside and new officers are to be installed.

L. G. Kotschenreuther Jr. Marries Jean Matthey

Miss Jean Matthey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erlen W. Matthey, Fairmont, W. Va., became the bride of Leo G. Kotschenreuther Jr., in a double ring ceremony in the Immaculate Conception Church, Clarksburg, W. Va., December 20. Right Rev. Msgr. John J. O'Brien officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a princess style ankle-length brocade gown. Her fingertip-length veil was held by a pearl crown. Completing her costume, she carried a bouquet of white carnations.

The bride was graduated from Fairmont State College and received her master's degree in education from West Virginia University. She is teaching at George Fox Junior High School near Annapolis.

Mr. Kotschenreuther received his B. S. degree in education from State Teachers College, Frostburg. At present he is attending Navy Officers Candidate School, Newport, Rhode Island. Prior to that, he taught mathematics at George Fox Junior High.

An open house was held at the home of the bride's parents.

Following their wedding trip Mr. Kotschenreuther returned to Rhode Island, while Mrs. Kotschenreuther returned to Annapolis. In March she will join her husband.

Among those attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Leo G. Kotschenreuther Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Arvel E. Jeffreys, Cumberland; and Mrs. Mary Kotschenreuther Lemon, aunt of the bridegroom, Baltimore.

Hears Travel Talk

Mexico and freighter travel were the topics of Mrs. A. L. Rogers and Mrs. W. H. Courtney of the Conlon Travel Agency, at a meeting of the American home group of the Woman's Civic Club recently at the club house.

The former spoke of silver making, feather work, pottery, palm furniture and linen weaving she had seen on a visit to Mexico. Telling of the popularity of a world tour, Mrs. Courtney said space has been sold out for the next three years.

A tea followed with Mrs. Fred Dodge and Mrs. Joseph Miller hostesses. They were assisted by Mrs. Lynn Lashley, Mrs. Hugo Keller and Mrs. W. A. Cooley.

Returns From Visit

Mrs. Lloyd R. Meyers, Washington Lee Apartments, South Lee Street, returned Monday evening from a visit in the South. While visiting Mrs. Edgar Vangegrift in Salisbury, N. C., Mrs. Meyers attended a party in honor of Mrs. Margaret Reitz, who resides with her daughter, celebrating her 87th birthday. It was held January 23.

Mrs. Meyers and Mrs. Vandegrift toured Florida visiting friends.

MR., MRS. LEO G. KOTSCHENREUTHER JR.

B'er Chayim Sisterhood will hold a luncheon meeting at 12:30 today in the vestry room. Mrs. Robert Little Ebert will speak on "Table Settings."

Tsemed Bible Class of St. Luke's Lutheran Church will hold a vegetable soup sale today, beginning at noon. Customers are to bring their own containers.

Ahtuhquoe Chosen By New Troop

The Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, Order of the Arrow met Saturday, at the Boy Scout Office, Union Street.

The meeting was called to order by Lodge Chief Karl Taschenberger. The meeting was called to select a name for the newly organized lodge. William Hahn Jr. submitted several names. After much discussion the Indian word, Ahtuhquoe, meaning "male deer," was selected. The deer will also be used as the totem.

It was decided to hold a spring fellowship and "ordeal" sometime in May at Camp Potomac for the new members. Each member was advised to prepare and make his own Indian costume to be used when the first ordeal will be conducted by the lodge in the spring.

Bedford Road firemen and auxiliary executive board will meet tonight to plan a sauerkraut supper.

World Day Of Prayer To Be Observed In 5 Services

Mrs. E. E. Miller, the newly elected president of the United Church Women of Cumberland, entertained the executive committee Friday at her home, at which time reports were given.

World Day of Prayer will be observed in five churches, Mrs. Lester R. Martin, chairman, reported. It will be February 13, with "Lord I Believe," written by an Egyptian woman, as the theme.

There will be one service at 1:30 and the others at 7:30. The afternoon service will be in First Presbyterian Church, 17 Washington Street, with Mrs. Ross Petty and Mrs. Donald Black chairmen.

Other services will be held in Grace Methodist Church, Virginia Avenue, near Second; Cresaptown Methodist Church; LaVale Baptist and Ridgeley Evangelical United Brethren Church. Mrs. Robert C. Nimon is chairman for South Cumberland; Mrs. Garland Paxton and Mrs. L. G. Bridgers for Cresaptown; Mrs. Raymond Swadley and Mrs. Daniel Collins, Ridgeley; and Mrs. Bruce A. Bower and Mrs. Elizabeth Moody, LaVale. The latter are being assisted by Mrs. Roy Ringler of LaVale Methodist Church; Mrs. Raymond Koontz, of Park Place Methodist Church; and Mrs. Roy Lafferty, Mrs. Harvey Herr and Mrs. Thomas Gifford of LaVale Baptist Church.

Mrs. R. C. Isiminger, chairman for the May fellowship luncheon, reported a speaker is to be obtained. Mrs. James Leader reported five new subscriptions to the Church Woman and three renewals. Mrs. E. F. Phillips asked for sustaining memberships.

Reporting on the Cumberland Council UNICEF program, Mrs. Henry T. Pyles, district chairman, announced that the 1958 collection totaled $5,345.74. Allegany County total was $1,657.80, which included $983.96, Cumberland; $113.49, Route 220, city limits to McCoo e; $162.74, LaVale, Carlos and Vale Summit; $52, Flintstone; $54, Lonaconing, Midland and Shaft; $36.34, Little Orleans; $92.18, Frostburg; $38, Mt. Savage, $41.38 Westernport and Luke; $40.80, Spring Gap; $42.91, Methodist Church, Mt. Pleasant Road. Other county totals were $1,849.46 Montgomery; $1,171.29, Frederick; $431.29, Carroll; $210.90, Washington; and $25 Garrett.

Devotions were conducted by Mrs. F. Lee Fresh, on the theme, "Service." She also told of writing to the County Commissioners in regard to having a trained person work with delinquent children, and a more suitable place to keep them while they are held in custody. The council voted to write to the commissioners urging the same. Routine reports were given by Mrs. James Leader and Mrs. Ersal Shewbridge.

First mention of windmills in Old English documents dates back to almost the end of the 12th century.

Bird Club Discusses June Camp

A discussion on whether or not to hold the "Nature and Conservation Camp" featured the meeting of the Allegany County Bird Club, held at the Board of Education building with William Leeson presiding. Most of the business session centered on the report by Edgar Reynolds, chairman of the committee which is working on details and making plans for the camp, which was held in previous years at Pleasant Valley in June. A final conclusion will be made at the meeting February 18, after a complete committee report.

Kenneth Stone, who is with the Soil Conservation Service here, was guest speaker. He discussed the value of conservation of the soil.

Seventeen members attended.

Older 4-H To Meet

Square dancing and folk games will feature the meeting of the Older Youth 4-H Club, which will be held February 4. It is to be at the home of Robert Schubert, Baltimore Pike, beginning at 7:30.

Mothers To Meet

The DeMolay Mothers Club will meet at 8 tonight at the Masonic temple. Mrs. James Dean will preside and new officers are to be installed.

L. G. Kotschenreuther Jr. Marries Jean Matthey

Miss Jean Matthey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erlen W. Matthey, Fairmont, W. Va., became the bride of Leo G. Kotschenreuther Jr., in a double ring ceremony in the Immaculate Conception Church, Clarksburg, W. Va., December 20. Right Rev. Msgr. John J. O'Brien officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a princess style ankle-length brocade gown. Her fingertip-length veil was held by a pearl crown. Completing her costume, she carried a bouquet of white carnations.

The bride was graduated from Fairmont State College and received her master's degree in education from West Virginia University. She is teaching at George Fox Junior High School near Annapolis.

Mr. Kotschenreuther received his B. S. degree in education from State Teachers College, Frostburg. At present he is attending Navy Officers Candidate School, Newport, Rhode Island. Prior to that, he taught mathematics at George Fox Junior High.

An open house was held at the home of the bride's parents.

Following their wedding trip Mr. Kotschenreuther returned to Rhode Island, while Mrs. Kotschenreuther returned to Annapolis. In March she will join her husband.

Among those attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Leo G. Kotschenreuther Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Arvel E. Jeffreys, Cumberland; and Mrs. Mary Kotschenreuther Lemon, aunt of the bridegroom, Baltimore.

Hears Travel Talk

Mexico and freighter travel were the topics of Mrs. A. L. Rogers and Mrs. W. H. Courtney of the Conlon Travel Agency, at a meeting of the American home group of the Woman's Civic Club recently at the club house.

The former spoke of silver making, feather work, pottery, palm furniture and linen weaving she had seen on a visit to Mexico. Telling of the popularity of a world tour, Mrs. Courtney said space has been sold out for the next three years.

A tea followed with Mrs. Fred Dodge and Mrs. Joseph Miller hostesses. They were assisted by Mrs. Lynn Lashley, Mrs. Hugo Keller and Mrs. W. A. Cooley.

GETTING READY FOR SWEETHEART BALL — Dance committee of the Jayncees met at the home of Mrs. Henry Sauer, Holland Street, to make decorations for the organization's Sweetheart Ball, which will be held February 13, at the Cumberland Country Club. Left to right, seated, are Mrs J. William Hill, president; Mrs. Casper Taylor Jr., Mrs. Raymond Lapp, Mrs. Edward Eyler; and standing, Mrs. Sauer and Mrs. Arthur S. Davis Jr.

A setback and 500 card party will be held in the basement of St. Anthony's Catholic Church, Ridgeley, tonight at 8:15. Refreshments will be served.

Mrs. Roy Shryock Sr. Heads Associated Women

New officers were installed and plans for the spring dinner were discussed at the luncheon meeting of the Associated Women of the Allegany County Farm Bureau which was held yesterday afternoon in the Lazarus Fountain Room. Mrs. Edgar Matthews officiated at the installation.

Mrs. Roy Shryock Sr. was installed as president; Mrs. Matthews, vice president; Mrs. Phil[illegible] Brode, treasurer; and Mrs. Theodore Stegmaier, secretary. The new directors are Mrs. Robert Apple of Oldtown; Mrs. Arthur Blubaugh, Flintstone; and Mrs. Joseph Polock, North Branch.

A report on the state convention in Baltimore was given by Mrs. Matthews. She said Charles B. Shuman, from the national bureau, and Ezra Benson, Secretary of Agriculture, were the principal speakers. Both stressed "Goal for Peace," and discussed better ways for farming.

April was set as the tentative time for the spring dinner for the Farm Bureau, Associated Women and friends. Plans will be formulated at the next meeting March 3. At that time also the group will discuss recordings of the National Anthem for public and parochial schools.

Others present were Mrs. Robert Heavner Jr., Mrs. Vernon Loar, Mrs. Charles Harvey and Mrs. Floyd Buser.

Supper To Be Served Tomorrow Evening

The Women's Society of Christian Service of Melvin Methodist Church, corner of Marion and Reynolds streets, will hold a pork and sauerkraut supper tomorrow, beginning at 5 o'clock. Home made candy will be for sale by the Kathryn Eye Circle. The Jean Rowland Circle will sell baked goods.

Party Planned

A Valentine party and 25th anniversary celebration of the B&O Women's CTP will be held in February. Plans were discussed at the meeting in the Legion Home. Mrs. Phyllis Shipley was named chairman. She will be assisted by Mrs. Edith Northcraft and Mrs. Lelia Fisher.

Mrs. Reese Arve presided. Mrs. Hallie Tracy offered the invocation and Mrs. Tillie Goberli gave the sunshine report. A social followed with games and cards played. Mrs. Vera Jewell won the award. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Mary Mallozzi. Mrs. Shirley Hough, Mrs. Virginia Murphy and Mrs. Catherine Wilson.

Easter Plans Made

Plans to send Easter gifts to the adopted boy of the Alice Moore Circle of First Baptist Church were formulated at the meeting held recently at the parsonage. Mrs. L. H. Carpenter announced a WMS covered dish supper for 6:30 Friday at the church. Each is to bring a prospective member. Yearbooks were distributed and Focus Week was discussed and reports were given.

A devotional on "Measures of Success" was led by Mrs. S. T. Morris. Others taking part were Mrs. Carpenter, "Fellowship;" Mrs. Thomas Darr, "Spiritual Life Development;" Miss Mary Moxley, "Christian Witnessing;" Mrs. H. T. Humphrey, "Leadership Training;" and Mrs. Morris, "Sharing Possessions."

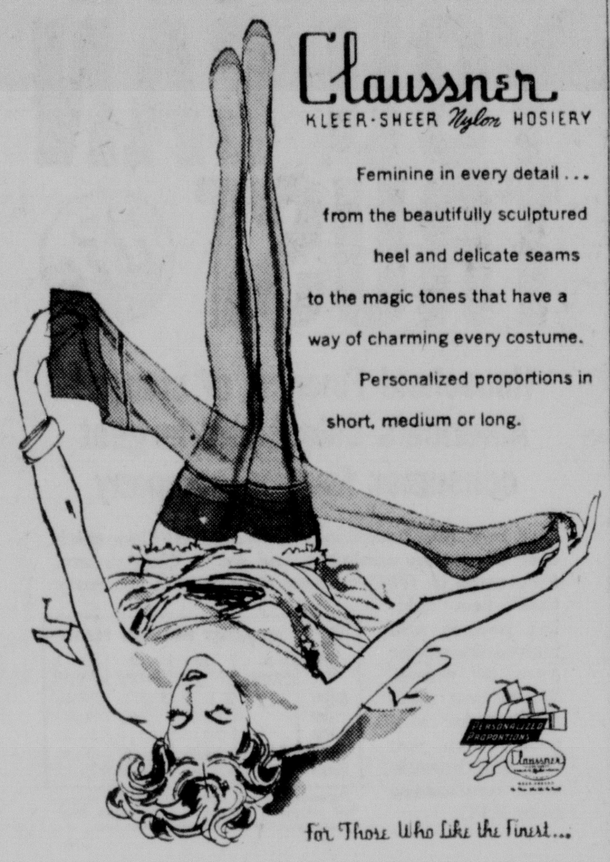

Jr. Music Festival To Be Held March 13

March 13 has been announced as the date for the annual Junior Music Festival of the National and State Federation of Music Clubs. It will be held in Allegany High School, with Mrs. Paul Gilford, chairman.

The festival is to encourage and promote interest among students through the age of 18. They may enter piano, voice, choir, vocal ensemble, folk song, organ, string, chamber music, woodwind, brass, percussion, orchestra, band, accordion, composition, musicianship and dancing.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

HAVANA—The victorious Castro forces got their tanks in a roundabout way. When 50 of them whirred and rattled into Havana it marked the end of what surely must be a record for disatnce covered by such hardware.

At the end of World War II the British gave the Egyptian army these light Staghounds, as they are called. They were hopelessly obsolete in armor and firepower, but they looked formidable enough to the army of King Farouk. Well, what with one thing and another, Farouk blew and now the tanks belonged to Gen. Haguib. Soon after that, they were Nasser's.

When the Israeli army invaded the Sinai Peninsula, there they stood — these armed jalopies — but they hardly raised their 20 millimeter voices. Their crews surrendered or fled. Now the tanks belonged to Israel, and back to Irsael they rumbled when the U.S. called off that war by a democratic vote of one.

Israel took a second look at the venerable junk and began seeking a buyer. When the U. S. cut off military aid to Batista, the customer was instantly apparent. But the deal wasn't as simple as one might expect. The tanks were first sold to dictator Somosa of Nicaragua. He prepared to sell them to Batista at a nice profit in which a New York middleman shared.

But wait. The Castro forces in the hills got wind of the deal and reacted with the only weapon then at their command.

Several of their undercover men in Havana made a sudden and furtive call on count Miguel D'Escota, Nicaraguan ambassador to the Court of St. Fulgencio. They had a simple message for him. It said, "If your country sells those tanks to Batista, we'll kill you. Understand?"

The count understood with sharp clarity. He fervently relayed the information to his foreign office and was able to assure the rebel group, the next time they called on him, that Nicaragua would never, never, dream of selling the tanks to the scourge of the Castro movement.

That same day, while motoring past an El Mariel pier, Count D'Escota noticed a freighter flying his country's flag. He paused to see what his beloved country was importing into Cuba. The rusty scow was unloading the 50 tanks, of course.

"Home, Jaime!" Count D'Escota ordered. He stopped scarcely long enough to pack a shirt and then flew off to Miami and put up at that obscure little hideaway named the Fontainbleu Hotel. All was serene for a few days. His chauffeur arrived from Havana with the new Cadillac. Life went on.

Then, a phone call. "Wherever you are, we'll get you," a voice said, and hung up. The voice wore a beard.

"To hell with this job!" cried the distressed victim of the international arms business. Diplomacy had lost a jewel.

The tanks were sent to Santa Clara for the decisive battle of the Cuban revolution. There, intact, they were captured by Castro's 1st Army, commanded by the Argentine doctor, soldier of war, and well-known leftist, "Che" Guevara. And Castro rode one into town.

Members of the American Bar Association who were invited by Dr. Castro to sit in on the trial of Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco at the Sports Palace last week are still somewhat unnerved. There were, let us say, a few opportunities for the defense to ask a mistrial.

For eample, the president of the tribunal, the judge, led things off impartially by calling the prisoner a murderer, thief and assassin. One witness's testimony was interrupted by a prosecutor who bawled, "I call for the death penalty to be imposed immediately. There is no need for further witnesses."

On The Line

by Bob Considine

HAVANA—The victorious Castro forces got their tanks in a roundabout way. When 50 of them whirred and rattled into Havana it marked the end of what surely must be a record for disatnce covered by such hardware.

At the end of World War II the British gave the Egyptian army these light Staghounds, as they are called. They were hopelessly obsolete in armor and firepower, but they looked formidable enough to the army of King Farouk. Well, what with one thing and another, Farouk blew and now the tanks belonged to Gen. Haguib. Soon after that, they were Nasser's.

When the Israeli army invaded the Sinai Peninsula, there they stood — these armed jalopies — but they hardly raised their 20 millimeter voices. Their crews surrendered or fled. Now the tanks belonged to Israel, and back to Irsael they rumbled when the U.S. called off that war by a democratic vote of one.

Israel took a second look at the venerable junk and began seeking a buyer. When the U. S. cut off military aid to Batista, the customer was instantly apparent. But the deal wasn't as simple as one might expect. The tanks were first sold to dictator Somosa of Nicaragua. He prepared to sell them to Batista at a nice profit in which a New York middleman shared.

But wait. The Castro forces in the hills got wind of the deal and reacted with the only weapon then at their command.

Several of their undercover men in Havana made a sudden and furtive call on count Miguel D'Escota, Nicaraguan ambassador to the Court of St. Fulgencio. They had a simple message for him. It said, "If your country sells those tanks to Batista, we'll kill you. Understand?"

The count understood with sharp clarity. He fervently relayed the information to his foreign office and was able to assure the rebel group, the next time they called on him, that Nicaragua would never, never, dream of selling the tanks to the scourge of the Castro movement.

That same day, while motoring past an El Mariel pier, Count D'Escota noticed a freighter flying his country's flag. He paused to see what his beloved country was importing into Cuba. The rusty scow was unloading the 50 tanks, of course.

"Home, Jaime!" Count D'Escota ordered. He stopped scarcely long enough to pack a shirt and then flew off to Miami and put up at that obscure little hideaway named the Fontainbleu Hotel. All was serene for a few days. His chauffeur arrived from Havana with the new Cadillac. Life went on.

Then, a phone call. "Wherever you are, we'll get you," a voice said, and hung up. The voice wore a beard.

"To hell with this job!" cried the distressed victim of the international arms business. Diplomacy had lost a jewel.

The tanks were sent to Santa Clara for the decisive battle of the Cuban revolution. There, intact, they were captured by Castro's 1st Army, commanded by the Argentine doctor, soldier of war, and well-known leftist, "Che" Guevara. And Castro rode one into town.

Members of the American Bar Association who were invited by Dr. Castro to sit in on the trial of Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco at the Sports Palace last week are still somewhat unnerved. There were, let us say, a few opportunities for the defense to ask a mistrial.

For eample, the president of the tribunal, the judge, led things off impartially by calling the prisoner a murderer, thief and assassin. One witness's testimony was interrupted by a prosecutor who bawled, "I call for the death penalty to be imposed immediately. There is no need for further witnesses."

tices except those affected by negotiated changes in the labor contract.

"The union would not accept the company's proposed five-year plan.

"Yesterday, in an effort to open the way for further negotiations, the company offered to withdraw its proposal for a five-year contract, and bargain on the length of the contract after the other issues are settled.

Firm Awaits Call

"At present the company and union representatives are still in Philadelphia," according to Mr. White, "and the company is waiting for a call from the union to determine when the negotiations will continue on the proposal of January 26."

As to the status of Cumberland problems, Mr. White said that no separate Cumberland local meetings with management have been held since negotiations were discontinued in Cincinnati on January 6.

"Several meetings were held in Cincinnati to discuss local issues. At the outset there were approximately 50 items to be discussed and at our last meeting in Cincinnati we had reached tentative agreement or resolved most of these, such as rest and lunch periods, I.C.S. lessons, and labor pool problems. At this time there are approximately a half-dozen items not fully resolved, but which we feel can probably be resolved very quickly when an opportunity arises for another meeting.

"Although management is not overly optimistic at this time, we sincerely hope that the company's most recent proposal will be a basis for continuing negotiations and the reaching of an agreement to terminate this strike," Mr. White said.

The House also passed House Bill 42 which would repeal as obsolete a wartime provision eliminating a 48-hour waiting period for marriage licenses issued to servicemen.

The Senate passed SB 115, sponsored by Sen. See that would make certain Maryland standards for aid to needy persons to conform with certain federal standards.

The bill would provide that the first $50 of income earned by a blind person, or such amount as may be fixed by federal public assistance statutes, shall be exempt in determining the eligibility of a blind person for aid under a state law regulating public assistance to the needy blind.

The House also passed HB 50, which would provide for a state referendum on whether counties over 250,000 in population should be divided into two legislative districts, each entitled to a senator and six delegates.

swiped another train. There were no serious injuries, he added.

Veteran Traveler

Over the years the retiring engineer has been doing a lot of traveling aside from being at the controls in the cab of a locomotive. He has traveled by car throughout the United States and also has driven south of the border to Mexico and northward to neighboring Canada.

And he expects to continue to travel in his leisure time. He and his wife, the former Mary A. Delbrugge, of Bridgeport, Ohio, will mark their 29th wedding anniversary on April 14.

Mr. Moore, who is a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, also is a member of Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion, having served in the Army during World War I. He is affiliated with the Methodist Church and considers gardening his favorite hobby.

Doctor Returns Home

Dr. R. Rhett Rathbone, local radiologist, who became ill on Sunday and was admitted to Memorial Hospital, has returned to his home, Longwood Avenue.

Kiwanis To Hear Heart Discussion

Mrs. Ora Mae Lewis, executive secretary of the Allegany-Garrett Heart Association, will discuss progress in combatting heart disease at the meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club at 12:15 p. m. Thursday at Central YMCA.

Mrs. Lewis addressed the club about two years ago, just before the Heart Fund drive. She plans to cite progress that has been made in the past two years.

City Recreation Sessions Cancelled

The City Recreation Department said badminton and Women's Recreation Association sessions scheduled tonight at Fort Hill gymnasium have been cancelled, due to a home game between Fort Hill and Hagerstown.

To Hold Shrimp Feed

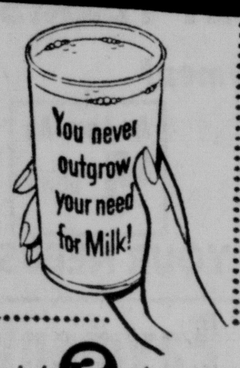

The Cumberland Optimist Club will hold a shrimp feed today at 7:45 p. m. at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Indonesia is the sixth largest nation in the category of population.

'You Must Be Nuts – It's January'

President Controls The Defense Budget

The military budget for fiscal 1960, now under study by the House Appropriations Committee, is not wholly satisfactory to the Army, the Navy, or the Air Force. No peacetime military budget ever has been. While scheduled defense spending is $145 million above planned outlays for fiscal 1959, the estimate for missiles, research, and development is up $800 million. The $655 million difference has been cut from other programs.

Notwithstanding the reductions, no rebellions by the generals or the admirals are expected this year. They were warned in a December directive that when summoned before Congressional committees officers are expected to avoid volunteering "views differing from the budget, either on the record or off the record." This does not mean that personal views must be withheld when directly asked, but witnesses are to make clear that their comments "are not to be construed as requests for additional funds."

Chances are that Congress will add substantial sums to those asked by the President without prompting by the military, either on or off the record. However, there is no way of making the President spend the additional funds if he thinks them not needed. And this fact is well known to the services.

Despite violent protests from members of Congress, President Truman refused to spend extra funds appropriated in 1949 to give the country 58 air groups. His budget had asked for only 48. Last year Congress added some $600 million to the budget estimate for the Polaris program, but only about half of this will be laid out this year. The President has balked also at spending funds appropriated by Congress to prevent scheduled reductions in strength levels of the Army and the Marine Corps.

New Under Secretary Of Commerce Was Attorney For Chinese Gambler

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Before Chairman Warren Magnuson of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee confirms Ike's newly appointed Under Secretary of Commerce he ought to give him a very careful once-over.

John Allen, the ex-Congressman from California who got this coveted post, was once under investigation by the Justice Department for the part he played as attorney for the king of Northern California gamblers, Chin Bok Hing. Congressman Allen, a resident of Berkeley, Calif., had set up a so-called trust fund which the Chinese gambler used to evade around $100,000 of income taxes.

After the scheme was exposed in Federal Court, Chin Bok Hing took it on the lam and forthright Attorney General James McGranery began a probe of the Congressman. After Herbert Brownell replaced McGranery as Attorney General, the probe of the Republican Congressman quietly evaporated.

Came last November and Allen was defeated for re-election.

Shortly thereafter, ex-Congressman James Patterson of Connecticut, another Republican who lost out in the Democratic landslide, was given an OK by Vice President Nixon to be Under Secretary of Commerce in charge of transportation.

Suddenly west coast shipping interests got busy. They want a man in charge of transportation friendly to them. Some of them quietly suggested to Nixon's office that they had been heavy contributors to the grand old party in California. Overnight Patterson found himself out of the running, while another lame duck, John Allen of California, was in the running.

That was how the man under investigation for setting up a "trust fund" for Chin Bok Hing got into the Eisenhower little cabinet.

Teamsters Insurance Bonanza

The McClellan Rackets Committee is scheduled to rehash an old, old story on Jimmy Hoffa told in this column as early as April 13, 1954, with new evidence reported on March 18, 23, and 28, 1957. It's an important story and is worth rehashing — if the Republican Senators on the committee will dig a little deeper into some of their own very close friends.

The story pertains to the manner in which Jimmy Hoffa, together with a local of the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, placed around $20,000,000 of union welfare funds in the hands of the union insurance agency between 1948-52, an agency operated by Rose and Allen Dorfman, wife and son of Hoffa's intimate friend, Paul Dorfman, who is boss of the Waste Material Handlers Union in Chicago and an intimate of gangster Johnny Dio.

Rose and Allen Dorfman turned the business over to the Union Casualty Co., and for this simple little transaction received commissions in excess of $1,000,000 between October, 1949, and June 30, 1953.

Significantly, when the House Government Operations Committee began proving this, their probe was mysteriously called off. It was called off at about the time they were digging into the embarrassing question of what happened to a check for $102,000 payable to Allen Dorfman which was not deposited to his insurance agency's bank account.

When Congressmen asked Dorfman if he had paid this or any part of it to Jimmy Hoffa, he refused to answer. Time after time he pleaded the 5th Amendment.

Who Pulled The Wires?

Then suddenly, as the House Committee was striking pay dirt, its probe abruptly ended. I reported at the time that the probe was terminated as the result of a deal whereby Jimmy Hoffa and the Michigan Teamsters would support Sen. Homer Ferguson, Republican, for reelection. Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield, then Republican boss of Michigan, is credited with arranging the deal — though he denies this.

However, the deal was made. Said committee Counsel William F. McKenna: "We were silenced before we could make public certain important financial-legal aspects of the teamsters operations."

Said GOP Congressman Clare Hoffman of Michigan: "Our subcommittee on labor racketeering and welfare funds had barely entered upon its investigation when apparently for political reasons it was liquidated."

Said another Republican Congressman, Wint Smith of Kansas, when asked where the pressure was coming from: "Farm so high that I can't even discuss it."

Rep. Charlie Halleck of Indiana, now GOP leader of the House, was the one who carried "the word" to call off the probe.

But if that probe had been continued, a lot of racketeering complained of today would not have taken place. A lot of welfare funds would have been better protected. The probe, however, was cancelled.

Significantly, Republican members of the Senate Rackets Committee are now demanding that they have equal voice with the Democrats on the committee. They claim they don't trust the Democrats to be tough investigators. Sen. John McClellan of Arkansas, who frequently votes Republican, supports them.

Republican Senators Mundt and Goldwater, who are on the committee, could easily prove their sincerity by calling Summerfield, Halleck, Hoffman, and other Republicans involved, and get to the bottom of why the Hoffa probe was called off.

Watch and see what happens.

Tom Lamphier, Former Attack Leader, Worried

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

The day they brought the major in, the forward airbase in East China staged a celebration. The Japs had shot Rex Barbour down north of the Yangtze River. He had been too badly injured to walk. He had been carried several hundred miles on the backs of Chinese guerillas. He had had several hairs-breadth escapes from Jap patrols. Altogether, a celebration was in order.

Later in the evening, after a good many "kan peis" of the local white mule, someone said, "Rex, tell us about how you got the Japanese admiral." An odd look crossed the major's handsome young face. Perhaps he was tired of describing the last seconds on earth of Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto, commander of all the Japanese Emperor's ships in the Pacific. Yet he told it well, all the same.

One all but saw the brilliant interception—the two little American fighters coming in on the flank of the big Jap bombers and their six escorting Zeroes, just at the planned interception point over a steamy, palm-fringed South Pacific island. One all but watched the grim fight against these fearful odds — the Americans' quick, deadly first attack, the two bombers flaming and falling, then fighters diving and twisting in the bright air, and the Zeroes also bursting into quick, hot flame, and the two American planes turning for home at last, their mission miraculously accomplished. One held one's breath, indeed, until the major finished:

"But the man who got the Admiral was Tom Lamphier. I was his wing man. He led the attack. We each got a bomber, but he took the first one, and the first one had Yammamoto on board."

There is a current reason for digging this snapshot of the forgotten past out of memory's album. This same Tom Lamphier, whom the major talked about for much of the rest of that happy, long ago evening, is again being talked about here in Washington. But this time Lamphier is being discussed in very different language, by men on the highest level of the American Government.

Primarily, Lamphier is being discussed because he is a very worried man, and because he has attacked the thing that worries him with the same devil-may-care, go-for-the-lead-bomber determination that he showed when Yamamoto met his end. But the thing that worries Lamphier happens to be the Eisenhower Administration's complacency about the missile gap. So this new fight against odds is unlikely to be rewarded with the Navy Cross, the Silver Star, and the Distinguished Flying Cross, as the last fight was.

When Sen. Stuart Symington was Secretary of the Air Force, Tom Lamphier was his Assistant Secretary. Lamphier is still Symington's close friend; and in the last months Symington and Lamphier, with Lamphier feverishly spurring Symington on, have desperately pressed for a cold, hard, new look at the changes in the military balance between the United States and the Soviet Union.

This was a wholly private effort. It was only the failure of the private effort that drove Symington to speak out in public, with bitter eloquence, in the Senate last Friday. Twice before the private effort failed, Symington saw President Eisenhower himself, to beg for bold action to meet the challenge of Soviet progress in ballistic missiles.

Twice Symington and Lamphier also saw the director of the Central Intelligence Agency, Allen W. Dulles, whom the President told off to soothe the anxious Senator. On the second occasion, which had been planned as a fairly grandiose briefing, Lamphier all but broke up the party by declaring that his own manufacturing experience proved the dangerous over-optimism of the official estimates of Soviet missile output.

Lamphier knows most of the secret facts that are withheld from the American public, precisely because he is a manufacturer of ballistic missiles. But as vice-president of Convair, which makes the Atlas Intercontinental Missile, Lamphier has an obvious interest in bigger Atlas orders from the Air Force. Thus a good many men on the higher governmental level are smugly saying that Tom Lamphier has just been "selling a bill of goods with his furious, worried talk about the missile gap."

That is one way to look at. The other way to look at it also involves a snapshot from the forgotten past — the tragic picture of Winston Churchill and Sir Austen Chamberlain going to plead with Stanley Baldwin for British rearmament to match Hitler's rearmament, and getting a smug, dusty answer to their anguished and far-sighted pleas. The two ways of looking at it are diametrically opposed; and the choice between them deserves further investigation.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

"What was it like," Gayle Peggy said, "when you were my age?" She says this with an air of tolerance, as though she expected to be amused by recollections of "the good old days." I'm certain that she counts on me to start off with an eye-witness account of the arrival of the Nina, the Pinta and the Santa Maria.

I was her age in 1924. Instead of telling her what it was like, I showed her an old newspaper of June 1924. It turned out to be so interesting that I snatched it away so that I could take another look at the world when I was 15.

The lead story said that Lieut. Russell L. Maughan, "the daring air pilot," flew from Long Island to San Francisco in 23 hours. A wife raided an apartment and found her husband in a closet. He said he was searching for liquor. The young lady who rented the apartment said that liquor, in prohibition times, is hard to find.

The Democratic Party was in mid-convention at Madison Square Garden. The leading candidates were Alfred E. Smith, William Gibbs McAdoo and James M. Cox. The politician who placed the name of Smith in nomination was Franklin D. Roosevelt. In Italy, Benito Mussolini had been in power two years. His ambition was to make the trains run on time.

Mrs. Edith Lewis, of 427 Park Avenue, denied that she would marry Harry K. Thaw, a rich man who never got the same total twice when he counted his mental marbles, and she also denied that Mr. Thaw had brought a group of rabbits as a gift. Hans Kjarabick went to court and charged that, while he was kissing a girl in a taxi, she lifted $400 from his wallet. He admitted that he was holding only one of her hands.

A Miss Dever sued for $100,000, charging that her wealthy fiance backed out on a promise to marry her. The boy friend, in court, made matters worse by telling the judge that he was now ready for the wedding bells. The Prince of Wales was 30, "just quitting the joyous twenties." Sir Martin Conway returned from a visit to Moscow to announce that the Russian crown jewels were safe in the hands of the Communists.

Hearns was selling mohair suits for $12.75 and men' best quality shirts for $1.19. Rudolph Valentino completed a series of articles explaining how he preserved his masculine beauty. Melcier, the Fifth Avenue photographer, would make six portraits for $2.

Macy's was selling crepe kimonos for $2.74 and summer frocks for $6.94. Phonograph records were 33 cents. Bed spreads were $1.39. Wurlitzer had a two-day sale of player pianos for $275 and tossed in the latest music rolls, a bench, a music cabinet and a floor lamp with silk shade and hanging fringe for nothing.

Charles the Bobber announced that he had bobbed 100 heads in one day. Poland submitted a new plan for paying the $189,000,000 she owed the United States. Russeks was selling 500 dressy dresses at $25. apiece. Madame X was peddling a rubber girdle which, she claimed, would massage fat away. President and Mrs. Coolidge were back in Washington after a weekend cruise on the Mayflower.

The Daily Mirror had an editorial which began "Wide-open saloon, shiny bar, brass rail, big mirrors, young fool drinking in front, wise bartender that knows too much to drink, standing behind—these are gone. They are no longer public legal cesspools in our civilization." Dr. Louis Bisch wrote a column called "Are We Ever Too Old for Marriage?" and Patrolman Stuart Miller was assigned to Coney Island to measure the amount of skin the women were showing in the new daring bathing suits that came only halfway to the knee.

Commissioner of Plants and Structures Grover A. Whalen announced the opening of a new radio station, WNYC. Spear's sold a de luxe ice box for $32.50, drip pan free. Davega advertised a new "electric" radio set, "no more batteries." Douglas Fairbanks Sr. was opening at the Liberty in a movie called "The Thief of Bagdad." There was a photo of Leatrice Joy and the caption read: "Thou Shalf Not gaze upon the visage of sweet Leatrice Joy without the information that she is the charming maiden whose art enthralls all who view "The Ten Commandments" at the George M. Cohan Theatre."

Ann Pennington was in the new Ziegfeld Follies. Eddie Cantor was in "Kid Boots." Mary Boland starred in "Meet The Wife" and the Marx Brothers were a success in "I'll Say She Is." "Abie's Irish Rose" was in its third year and Warner Fabian's book "Flaming Youth" topped the best seller lists.

Gayle put her gloves on. "Those prehistoric times must have been fun," she said. "Yes," I said, "they were fun all right. Why don't you go out and play with some of your idiot friends?"

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

A Teen-Ager Protests

Every generation has its own tastes and styles and old folks often feel that the world is going to the dogs. It has always been so. Nevertheless, to anyone who has lived long enough, the standards of the current generations are not as sure or as satisfying as were the standards, let us say, of those who lived at the beginning of this century.

Young people who call themselves "beatniks" or the "beat generation" admit to a spiritual illness which we did not encounter. Ours were buoyant, joyous generations, by which the go-getter was regarded as a hero. Our way of life might have been rigid but it was more peaceful than that of the young people today. A young lady from Clintonville, Wisconsin, writes to me:

". . . . It is true that we don't have to walk ten miles a day to get some education, or do the countless little chores that our Moms and Dads had to do, but I honestly don't see why they have to constantly bring that up. What are we? Lazy, shiftless brats that look for money, cheap thrills, and trouble, just to get attention? I hardly think that's an explanation. Not a suitable one anyway. I always thought that our parents worked and did those things, to get ahead and make things easier for the up coming generations. Naturally there are going to be hardships, but because they had them, are we too supposed to have them. We've got our own hardships to iron out for our up coming generation."

The complaint is understandable. The parents having made life for the child more comfortable, the child is weary of being told that life can be less comfortable. It is for most of the human race. Abundance, such as our children enjoy today in this country in all stages of society, is unknown in any other country. But this material abundance does not satisfy the teen-agers. They are, on the whole, a dissatisfied generation and the reason probably is that they do less for themselves than any other people on this Earth.

They are not even good at sports. They are observers, not participators. They sit in grandstands and watch others play; most sports are now professionalized and some are so inadequately supported as to have practically disappeared. In an earlier generation, young people were proud of their appearance. It made for cleanliness and exactitude and a sense of decorum to dress in a manner that showed respect and a due regard for the opinion of others. Older people are not a little surprised when they come to a college campus to see the girls in shorts or in blue jeans and the boys unshaven and without jackets. I am told that in some classes the students smoke while the professor lectures and that they even eat sandwiches. It all seems so sloppy and undisciplined.

The young lady who wrote to me and asked why she is supposed to have hardships because her parents had hardships hardly understands what kind of a world she is moving into. Of course, she will suffer hardships when she grows up and accepts responsibilities because she lives in a world which knows no peace and in which money is losing its value and therefore it will be necessary to skimp and to lower standards to meet the necessities of a permanent war. There will also be the frustrations of postponements, even of postponed marriages as the men-folk are drafted.

But that is no reason why a girl's room should always look as though a cyclone hit it. Let me see a girl's top drawer and I know her character. The young lady who is sloppy and careless is likely not to be either a good wife or a good mother. I fear that what my young friend's parents complain about is that she does not do her share within the family as a social unit.

Many educators feel that the courses should be tightened in the colleges. More than that is needed to straighten out our young people. They need to know the meaning of respect and duty and family unity. They need to know that life is something more than a telephone, a hot-rod and an opportunity for premature investigation of sex. They need to know that they are expected to pay their way.

Dress Warmly To Prevent Frostbite Attacks

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

People who know winter best are able to live, work, and protect themselves in relative comfort. They have learned how to dress and the importance of preventing frostbite.

The underclothing should provide warmth, whereas the outer garments must be windproof. Avoid cumbersome, heavy duds; they encourage perspiration which does more harm than good because the accumulated sweat becomes cold and may even freeze. The newer lightweight materials afford warmth and freedom of motion. They are made to order for those who enjoy winter sports such as skiing and ice skating.

Dampness accentuates the cold. Those who live in the snow belt have learned that shoes and socks must be removed if sweating has occurred, because wet feet freeze quicker than dry feet. Under emergency conditions, shoes and socks can be dried before a fire or over canned heat, a truck, or an airplane motor. Even the exhaust pipe can be used as a temporary measure.

If there is a chance that the feet have frozen, it is unwise to remove the shoes and hose until arrival at the destination. More than one hunter or soldier has broken this rule only to find his feet too swollen to replace the footgear.

The northerner realizes he must keep moving when exposed to frigid weather and never permit himself to fall asleep out of doors. A seldom publicized rule is to bathe and put on clean clothes and socks before going out into the cold, on the off-chance that frostbite will occur. If it does, cleanliness may prevent infection of the frozen tissues.

The best treatment for frostbite is to re-warm the affected parts quickly. Put the hands and feet in hot water until circulation returns to normal. Dry off and rest quietly, with the extremities exposed to the air in a warm room. A physician should be called when an individual has been over-exposed to subzero weather or if the nipped areas swell, blisters form, or the skin darkens.

TOMORROW: Clean living Adventists.

CREEPING ERUPTION

Mrs. T. writes: My young daughter has larva migrans. Does it take long to cure?

REPLY

No. In larva migrans, or creeping eruption, the larvae of certain worms burrow under the skin and produce a rash wherever they go. These parasites migrate at the rate of one-half inch a day. As the eruption advances, the old lesions fade. In treatment, a freezing preparation is sprayed on the skin to kill the invaders. Cure should not be too difficult unless the precise location of the parasites cannot be found.

OUT OF TOUCH

C. D. writes: What would make a person lose the sense of touch?

REPLY

A disorder of the spinal cord or of a nerve going to the surface of the body is the most likely cause. A neurological examination is advised because there are various reasons why nerves become involved in this way.

ALCOHOL FOR THE EARS

M. W. writes: Is it better to clean the ear canals with alcohol rather than water to discourage a fungous infection of these parts?

REPLY

Soap and water is the standard way to clean the ears. If a fungous infection exists professional help is needed because the condition requires a more specific remedy than alcohol.

FOOD FADDIST

E. F. writes: I went to a natural foods convention and was surprised to learn that the protein we consume burns up the liver. I love meat but now worry about eating it.

REPLY

The liver thrives on protein, despite the crazy notion of food faddists.

THE ARTERIES

T. L. writes: Could high blood pressure bring on hardening of the arteries?

REPLY

Yes. Arteriosclerosis may appear at an earlier age in hypertensives than in those with normal or low blood pressure.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

From the notebook of Rolfe Peterson, oracle of Salt Lake City:

"When you think you're going down for the third time — just remember: you may have counted wrong."

"Build a better mousetrap and maybe the only result will be that you'll catch a higher type of mice."

"If you're waked up in the morning feeling groggy and listless, just remember you're ahead of the game if you wake up at all!"

A tramp knocked warily on the door of a moderately large residence, and bowed meekly when a powerful lady answered the summons. "Sure and what does a miserable runt like you be comin' round to bother me about?" she demanded with an obvious Harvard accent.

"If you'd be so kind," said the tramp humbly, exhibiting a small object in the palm of his hand, "I'd like to get a coat sewed on to this button."

Shortly thereafter, ex-Congressman James Patterson of Connecticut, another Republican who lost out in the Democratic landslide, was given an OK by Vice President Nixon to be Under Secretary of Commerce in charge of transportation.

Suddenly west coast shipping interests got busy. They want a man in charge of transportation friendly to them. Some of them quietly suggested to Nixon's office that they had been heavy contributors to the grand old party in California. Overnight Patterson found himself out of the running, while another lame duck, John Allen of California, was in the running.

That was how the man under investigation for setting up a "trust fund" for Chin Bok Hing got into the Eisenhower little cabinet.

Teamsters Insurance Bonanza

The McClellan Rackets Committee is scheduled to rehash an old, old story on Jimmy Hoffa told in this column as early as April 13, 1954, with new evidence reported on March 18, 23, and 28, 1957. It's an important story and is worth rehashing — if the Republican Senators on the committee will dig a little deeper into some of their own very close friends.

The story pertains to the manner in which Jimmy Hoffa, together with a local of the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, placed around $20,000,000 of union welfare funds in the hands of the union insurance agency between 1948-52, an agency operated by Rose and Allen Dorfman, wife and son of Hoffa's intimate friend, Paul Dorfman, who is boss of the Waste Material Handlers Union in Chicago and an intimate of gangster Johnny Dio.

Rose and Allen Dorfman turned the business over to the Union Casualty Co., and for this simple little transaction received commissions in excess of $1,000,000 between October, 1949, and June 30, 1953.

Significantly, when the House Government Operations Committee began proving this, their probe was mysteriously called off. It was called off at about the time they were digging into the embarrassing question of what happened to a check for $102,000 payable to Allen Dorfman which was not deposited to his insurance agency's bank account.

When Congressmen asked Dorfman if he had paid this or any part of it to Jimmy Hoffa, he refused to answer. Time after time he pleaded the 5th Amendment.

Who Pulled The Wires?

Then suddenly, as the House Committee was striking pay dirt, its probe abruptly ended. I reported at the time that the probe was terminated as the result of a deal whereby Jimmy Hoffa and the Michigan Teamsters would support Sen. Homer Ferguson, Republican, for reelection. Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield, then Republican boss of Michigan, is credited with arranging the deal — though he denies this.

However, the deal was made. Said committee Counsel William F. McKenna: "We were silenced before we could make public certain important financial-legal aspects of the teamsters operations."

Said GOP Congressman Clare Hoffman of Michigan: "Our subcommittee on labor racketeering and welfare funds had barely entered upon its investigation when apparently for political reasons it was liquidated."

Said another Republican Congressman, Wint Smith of Kansas, when asked where the pressure was coming from: "F-m so high that I can't even discuss it."

Rep. Charlie Halleck of Indiana, now GOP leader of the House, was the one who carried "the word" to call off the probe.

But if that probe had been continued, a lot of racketeering complained of today would not have taken place. A lot of welfare funds would have been better protected. The probe, however, was cancelled.

Significantly, Republican members of the Senate Rackets Committee are now demanding that they have equal voice with the Democrats on the committee. They claim they don't trust the Democrats to be tough investigators. Sen. John McClellan of Arkansas, who frequently votes Republican, supports them.

Republican Senators Mundt and Goldwater, who are on the committee, could easily prove their sincerity by calling Summerfield, Halleck, Hoffman, and other Republicans involved, and get to the bottom of why the Hoffa probe was called off.

Watch and see what happens.

Tom Lamphier, Former Attack Leader, Worried

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

The day they brought the major in, the forward airbase in East China staged a celebration. The Japs had shot Rex Barbour down north of the Yangtze River. He had been too badly injured to walk. He had been carried several hundred miles on the backs of Chinese guerillas. He had had several hairs-breadth escapes from Jap patrols. Altogether, a celebration was in order.

Later in the evening, after a good many "kan peis" of the local white mule, someone said, "Rex, tell us about how you got the Japanese admiral." An odd look crossed the major's handsome young face. Perhaps he was tired of describing the last seconds on earth of Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto, commander of all the Japanese Emperor's ships in the Pacific. Yet he told it well, all the same.

One all but saw the brilliant interception—the two little American fighters coming in on the flank of the big Jap bombers and their six escorting Zeroes, just at the planned interception point over a steamy, palm-fringed South Pacific island. One all but watched the grim fight against these fearful odds — the Americans' quick, deadly first attack, the two bombers flaming and falling, then fighters diving and twisting in the bright air, and the Zeroes also bursting into quick, hot flame, and the two American planes turning for home at last, their mission miraculously accomplished. One held one's breath, indeed, until the major finished:

"But the man who got the Admiral was Tom Lamphier. I was his wing man. He led the attack. We each got a bomber, but he took the first one, and the first one had Yammamoto on board." There is a current reason for digging this snapshot of the forgotten past out of memory's album. This same Tom Lamphier, whom the major talked about for much of the rest of that happy, long ago evening, is again being talked about here in Washington. But this time Lamphier is being discussed in very different language, by men on the highest level of the American Government.

Primarily, Lamphier is being discussed because he is a very worried man, and because he has attacked the thing that worries him with the same devil-may-care, go-for-the-lead-bomber determination that he showed when Yamamoto met his end. But the thing that worries Lamphier happens to be the Eisenhower Administration's complacency about the missile gap. So this new fight against odds is unlikely to be rewarded with the Navy Cross, the Silver Star, and the Distinguished Flying Cross, as the last fight was.

When Sen. Stuart Symington was Secretary of the Air Force, Tom Lamphier was his Assistant Secretary. Lamphier is still Symington's close friend; and in the last months Symington and Lamphier, with Lamphier feverishly spurring Symington on, have desperately pressed for a cold, hard, new look at the changes in the military balance between the United States and the Soviet Union.

This was a wholly private effort. It was only the failure of the private effort that drove Symington to speak out in public, with bitter eloquence, in the Senate last Friday. Twice before the private effort failed, Symington saw President Eisenhower himself, to beg for bold action to meet the challenge of Soviet progress in ballistic missiles.

Twice Symington and Lamphier also saw the director of the Central Intelligence Agency, Allen W. Dulles, whom the President told off to soothe the anxious Senator. On the second occasion, which had been planned as a fairly grandiose briefing, Lamphier all but broke up the party by declaring that his own manufacturing experience proved the dangerous over-optimism of the official estimates of Soviet missile output.

Lamphier knows most of the secret facts that are withheld from the American public, precisely because he is a manufacturer of ballistic missiles. But as vice-president of Convair, which makes the Atlas Intercontinental Missile, Lamphier has an obvious interest in bigger Atlas orders from the Air Force. Thus a good many men on the higher governmental level are smugly saying that Tom Lamphier has just been "selling a bill of goods with his furious, worried talk about the missile gap."

That is one way to look at. The other way to look at it also involves a snapshot from the forgotten past — the tragic picture of Winston Churchill and Sir Austen Chamberlain going to plead with Stanley Baldwin for British rearmament to match Hitler's rearmament, and getting a smug, dusty answer to their anguished and far-sighted pleas. The two ways of looking at it are diametrically opposed; and the choice between them deserves further investigation.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

A Teen-Ager Protests

Every generation has its own tastes and styles and old folks often feel that the world is going to the dogs. It has always been so. Nevertheless, to anyone who has lived long enough, the standards of the current generations are not as sure or as satisfying as were the standards, let us say, of those who lived at the beginning of this century.

Young people who call themselves "beatniks" or the "beat generation" admit to a spiritual illness which we did not encounter. Ours were buoyant, joyous generations, by which the go-getter was regarded as a hero. Our way of life might have been rigid but it was more peaceful than that of the young people today. A young lady from Clintonville, Wisconsin, writes to me:

". . . . It is true that we don't have to walk ten miles a day to get some education, or do the countless little chores that our Moms and Dads had to do, but I honestly don't see why they have to constantly bring that up. What are we? Lazy, shiftless brats that look for money, cheap thrills, and trouble, just to get attention? I hardly think that's an explanation. Not a suitable one anyway. I always thought that our parents worked and did those things, to get ahead and make things easier for the up coming generations. Naturally there are going to be hardships, but because they had them, are we too supposed to have them. We've got our own hardships to iron out for our up coming generation."

The complaint is understandable. The parents having made life for the child more comfortable, the child is weary of being told that life can be less comfortable. It is for most of the human race. Abundance, such as our children enjoy today in this country in all stages of society, is unknown in any other country. But this material abundance does not satisfy the teen-agers. They are, on the whole, a dissatisfied generation and the reason probably is that they do less for themselves than any other people on this Earth.

They are not even good at sports. They are observers, not participators. They sit in grandstands and watch others play; most sports are now professionalized and some are so inadequately supported as to have practically disappeared. In an earlier generation, young people were proud of their appearance. It made for cleanliness and exactitude and a sense of decorum to dress in a manner that showed respect and a due regard for the opinion of others. Older people are not a little surprised when they come to a college campus to see the girls in shorts or in blue jeans and the boys unshaven and without jackets. I am told that in some classes the students smoke while the professor lectures and that they even eat sandwiches. It all seems so sloppy and undisciplined.

The young lady who wrote to me and asked why she is supposed to have hardships because her parents had hardships hardly understands what kind of a world she is moving into. Of course, she will suffer hardships when she grows up and accepts responsibilities because she lives in a world which knows no peace and in which money is losing its value and therefore it will be necessary to skimp and to lower standards to meet the necessities of a permanent war. There will also be the frustrations of postponements, even of postponed marriages as the men-folk are drafted.

But that is no reason why a girl's room should always look as though a cyclone hit it. Let me see a girl's top drawer and I know her character. The young lady who is sloppy and careless is likely not to be either a good wife or a good mother. I fear that what my young friend's parents complain about is that she does not do her share within the family as a social unit.

Many educators feel that the courses should be tightened in the colleges. More than that is needed to straighten out our young people. They need to know the meaning of respect and duty and family unity. They need to know that life is something more than a telephone, a hot-rod and an opportunity for premature investigation of sex. They need to know that they are expected to pay their way.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

"What was it like," Gayle Peggy said, "when you were my age?" She says this with an air of tolerance, as though she expected to be amused by recollections of "the good old days." I'm certain that she counts on me to start off with an eye-witness account of the arrival of the Nina, the Pinta and the Santa Maria.

I was her age in 1924. Instead of telling her what it was like, I showed her an old newspaper of June 1924. It turned out to be so interesting that I snatched it away so that I could take another look at the world when I was 15.

The lead story said that Lieut. Russell L. Maughan, "the daring air pilot," flew from Long Island to San Francisco in 23 hours. A wife raided an apartment and found her husband in a closet. He said he was searching for liquor. The young lady who rented the apartment said that liquor, in prohibition times, is hard to find.

The Democratic Party was in mid-convention at Madison Square Garden. The leading candidates were Alfred E. Smith, William Gibbs McAdoo and James M. Cox. The politician who placed the name of Smith in nomination was Franklin D. Roosevelt. In Italy, Benito Mussolini had been in power two years. His ambition was to make the trains run on time.

Mrs. Edith Lewis, of 427 Park Avenue, denied that she would marry Harry K. Thaw, a rich man who never got the same total twice when he counted his mental marbles, and she also denied that Mr. Thaw had brought a group of rabbits as a gift. Hans Kjarabick went to court and charged that, while he was kissing a girl in a taxi, she lifted $400 from his wallet. He admitted that he was holding only one of her hands.

A Miss Dever sued for $100,000, charging that her wealthy fiance backed out on a promise to marry her. The boy friend, in court, made matters worse by telling the judge that he was now ready for the wedding bells. The Prince of Wales was 30, "just quitting the joyous twenties." Sir Martin Conway returned from a visit to Moscow to announce that the Russian crown jewels were safe in the hands of the Communists.

Hearns was selling mohair suits for $12.75 and men' best quality shirts for $1.19. Rudolph Valentino completed a series of articles explaining how he preserved his masculine beauty. Melcier, the Fifth Avenue photographer, would make six portraits for $2.

Macy's was selling crepe kimonos for $2.74 and summer frocks for $6.94. Phonograph records were 33 cents. Bed spreads were $1.39. Wurlitzer had a two-day sale of player pianos for $275 and tossed in the latest music rolls, a bench, a music cabinet and a floor lamp with silk shade and hanging fringe for nothing.

Charles the Bobber announced that he had bobbed 100 heads in one day. Poland submitted a new plan for paying the $189,000,000 she owed the United States. Russeks was selling 500 dressy dresses at $25. apiece. Madame X was peddling a rubber girdle which, she claimed, would massage fat away. President and Mrs. Coolidge were back in Washington after a weekend cruise on the Mayflower.

The Daily Mirror had an editorial which began "Wide-open saloon, shiny bar, brass rail, big mirrors, young fool drinking in front, wise bartender that knows too much to drink, standing behind—these are gone. They are no longer public legal cesspools in our civilization." Dr. Louis Bisch wrote a column called "Are We Ever Too Old for Marriage?" and Patrolman Stuart Miller was assigned to Coney Island to measure the amount of skin the women were showing in the new daring bathing suits that came only halfway to the knee.

Commissioner of Plants and Structures Grover A. Whalen announced the opening of a new radio station, WNYC. Spear's sold a de luxe ice box for $32.50, drip pan free. Davega advertised a new "electric" radio set, "no more batteries." Douglas Fairbanks Sr. was opening at the Liberty in a movie called "The Thief of Bagdad." There was a photo of Leatrice Joy and the caption read: "Thou Shalt Not gaze upon the visage of sweet Leatrice Joy without the information that she is the charming maiden whose art enthralls all who view "The Ten Commandments" at the George M. Cohan Theatre."

Ann Pennington was in the new Ziegfeld Follies. Eddie Cantor was in "Kid Boots." Mary Boland starred in "Meet The Wife" and the Marx Brothers were a success in "I'll Say She Is." "Abie's Irish Rose" was in its third year and Warner Fabian's book "Flaming Youth" topped the best seller lists.

Gayle put her gloves on. "Those prehistoric times must have been fun," she said. "Yes," I said, "they were fun all right. Why don't you go out and play with some of your idiot friends?"

Dress Warmly To Prevent Frostbite Attacks

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

People who know winter best are able to live, work, and protect themselves in relative comfort. They have learned how to dress and the importance of preventing frostbite.

The underclothing should provide warmth, whereas the outer garments must be windproof. Avoid cumbersome, heavy duds; they encourage perspiration which does more harm than good because the accumulated sweat becomes cold and may even freeze. The newer lightweight materials afford warmth and freedom of motion. They are made to order for those who enjoy winter sports such as skiing and ice skating.

Dampness accentuates the cold. Those who live in the snow belt have learned that shoes and socks must be removed if sweating has occurred, because wet feet freeze quicker than dry feet. Under emergency conditions, shoes and socks can be dried before a fire or over canned heat, a truck, or an airplane motor. Even the exhaust pipe can be used as a temporary measure.

If there is a chance that the feet have frozen, it is unwise to remove the shoes and hose until arrival at the destination. More than one hunter or soldier has broken this rule only to find his feet too swollen to replace the footgear.

The northerner realizes he must keep moving when exposed to frigid weather and never permit himself to fall asleep out of doors. A seldom publicized rule is to bathe and put on clean clothes and socks before going out into the cold, on the off-chance that frostbite will occur. If it does, cleanliness may prevent infection of the frozen tissues.

The best treatment for frostbite is to re-warm the affected parts quickly. Put the hands and feet in hot water until circulation returns to normal. Dry off and rest quietly, with the extremities exposed to the air in a warm room. A physician should be called when an individual has been over-exposed to subzero weather or if the nipped areas swell, blisters form, or the skin darkens.

TOMORROW: Clean living Adventists.

CREEPING ERUPTION

Mrs. T. writes: My young daughter has larva migrans. Does it take long to cure?
REPLY

No. In larva migrans, or creeping eruption, the larvae of certain worms burrow under the skin and produce a rash wherever they go. These parasites migrate at the rate of one-half inch a day. As the eruption advances, the old lesions fade. In treatment, a freezing preparation is sprayed on the skin to kill the invaders. Cure should not be too difficult unless the precise location of the parasites cannot be found.

OUT OF TOUCH

C. D. writes: What would make a person lose the sense of touch?
REPLY

A disorder of the spinal cord or of a nerve going to the surface of the body is the most likely cause. A neurological examination is advised because there are various reasons why nerves become involved in this way.

ALCOHOL FOR THE EARS

M. W. writes: Is it better to clean the ear canals with alcohol rather than water to discourage a fungous infection of these parts?
REPLY

Soap and water is the standard way to clean the ears. If a fungous infection exists professional help is needed because the condition requires a more specific remedy than alcohol.

FOOD FADDIST

E. F. writes: I went to a natural foods convention and was surprised to learn that the protein we consume burns up the liver. I love meat but now worry about eating it.
REPLY

The liver thrives on protein, despite the crazy notion of food faddists.

THE ARTERIES

T. L. writes: Could high blood pressure bring on hardening of the arteries?
REPLY

Yes. Arteriosclerosis may appear at an earlier age in hypertensives than in those with normal or low blood pressure.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

From the notebook of Rolfe Peterson, oracle of Salt Lake City:

"When you think you're going down for the third time — just remember: you may have counted wrong."

"Build a better mousetrap and maybe the only result will be that you'll catch a higher type of mice."

"If you're waked up in the morning feeling groggy and listless, just remember you're ahead of the game if you wake up at all!"

A tramp knocked warily on the door of a moderately large residence, and bowed meekly when a powerful lady answered the summons. "Sure and what does a miserable runt like you be comin' round to bother me about?" she demanded with an obvious Harvard accent.

"If you'd be so kind," said the tramp humbly, exhibiting a small object in the palm of his hand, "I'd like to get a coat sewed on to this button."

Brewery Official Named Director Of Local Bank

L. N. Duncan, Vocke Road, local brewery official, yesterday was elected a director of First National Bank, A. W. Tindall, president, announced.

Mr. Duncan is general manager and a director of the Queen City Brewing Company and is vice president and general manager of the Cumberland Brewing Company.

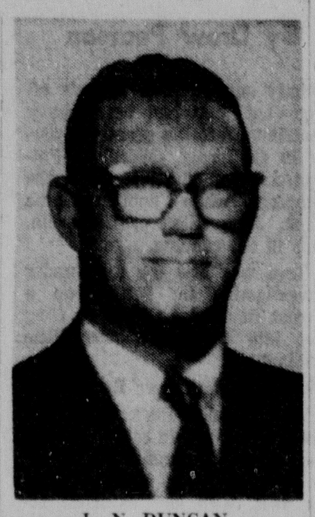

A native of Marion, Ind., Duncan, 41, is married to the former Helen Townsend whose father, M. Clifford Townsend, served as governor of Indiana.

He began his career in the brewing industry as an apprentice in the Kiley Brewing Compan, Marion, Ind., and Berghoff Brewing Corporation, Fort Wayne, Ind., and was graduated from the Wahl-Hinius Institute of Fermentology, Chicago.

Duncan returned to Berghoff as assistant brewmaster. Later he became brewmaster of the T. M. Norton Brewing Company, Anderson, Ind., and the Peter Fox Brewing Company, Grand Rapids, Mich.

After supervising production of high proof alcohol for armed services, he became brewmaster of the Falls Breweries, Fergus Falls, Minn. About 10 years ago he came to Cumberland as brewmaster of the Queen City Brewing Company and subsequently was appointed to his present positions with the two local breweries.

The Duncans have three children, Mrs. Edward Dove, Baltimore; Mrs. Robert Kirtley, Winter Haven, Fla., and Max Duncan, at home.

Youth Jailed, Fined On Motor Violations

James Richard Abe, 19, of Kensington, was found guilty Monday of four motor violations and sentenced to six months in County Jail and fined a total of $225.

Magistrate Morris Baron of Trial Magistrate Court found Abe guilty of operating a vehicle while under the influence of alcohol, reckless driving, no registration card in possession and operating a vehicle without a license. It was his second drunk driving conviction.

Abe was given a six-month term on each of the first two charges, but Magistrate Baron ruled the sentences could run concurrently. One other charge against Abe was dismissed by Magistrate Baron.

Abe was arrested early Sunday morning on Columbia Street by Officer Donald Boggs, Oliver Cook and Thomas Andrews.

Local Man Held In Liquor Theft At Tavern Here

The state's attorney's office indicated yesterday that Andrew L. Robinson, 48, of 118 South Lee Street, will be charged with the breaking and entering of Geatz's Restaurant and Tavern, 206 Paca Street.

He will also be charged with the theft of about $125 worth of liquor and a shotgun taken from the premises. Edwin R. Lilya, Allegany County criminal investigator, said the man will probably be taken before Magistrate Morris Baron today for the purpose of setting bond.

Robinson, who claims to have spent more than 30 years in prisons, was arrested Monday night by city police and was questioned until about 3:30 a. m. yesterday before admitting the entry.

He was questioned extensively by Det. Kenneth Morrissey Monday night.

Robinson informed authorities that he has spent approximately 31 of his 48 years in various lockups. He recalled serving two years in the Maryland Penitentiary, six years in the Western State Penitentiary at Pittsburgh, eight years at another Pennsylvania prison and also several different terms in the Maryland House of Correction.

The entry at the West Side tavern was reported to city authorities on the morning of January 15.

Robinson informed Det. Morrissey Monday that after stealing the liquor he hid it under the Washington Street Bridge.

He also informed police that he had loaned the shotgun to a local man for $5. The weapon was recovered.

In another case reported Monday night, Det. Morrissey apprehended a local man for stealing a number of items from four local youths who were playing basketball at Carver High School.

Being held in the City Jail in connection with the case is William Rhodes who had several items in his possession when arrested.

Police said Carl Brown, Bill Rice, Gary Smith and Fred Meeks reported that while they were playing basketball on the Carver court someone entered the dressing rooms and stole their possessions.

The items taken included a billfold, two class rings, a wedding ring, and a blue zipper jacket.

Det. Morrissey said Rhodes was arrested by Officer Clarence Valentine and during questioning at Police Headquarters he reportedly admitted the theft. Rhodes was wearing a blue zipper jacket under his own jacket and the two class rings were found in his shoes.

Rhodes will be taken to the State's Attorney's office today for questioning in the thefts. The four victims also will be summoned by police for questioning.

No charges have been filed against Rhodes pending further investigation by authorities.

Sentenced To Jail

Lester Hamilton, of Warrior Mountain, was sentenced to 30 days in the Allegany County Jail yesterday by Trial Magistrate Morris Baron.

Hamilton was arrested Monday night by Trooper Jack Browning of the Maryland State Police on two minor charges.

Frostburg Man Suggests County Operated Quarry

James A. Morgan Jr., of Frostburg, has written to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners suggesting that the county check into the savings which could be made by operating its own quarry.

Morgan said he is a salesman and gets around the county frequently. He said it has been his observation and that of others that county roads workers could be occupied during the winter months preparing stone for use during the maintenance and repair season in other months.

He said he noted that the county spends $35,000 annually for stone and believes that the county could utilize these county road workers at a quarry to prepare the stone needed at a saving.

Students Take Part In Trial

Several sixth grade students of Mt. Royal School on Monday took part in a mock trial in Trial Magistrate Court conducted by Magistrate J. Milton Dick.

Taking part in hte trial were Pat Naughton, Thomas Kyhos, Judy Dick and Janie Butts, Phyllis Klein and Melvin Spect.

Harold Naughton, local attorney, served as defense counsel for the youngsters who were charged with motor violations, and State Troopers Charles Snow and R. J. Graham also took part in the court procedure.

Trooper George R. Robinette was present in the court and answered questions from the children on criminal and motor violations.

Approximately 35 students and their teacher, Arthur Lloyd, visited the court as a part of a Social Studies unit on "How People Make a Living."

The students were originally scheduled to see two trials actually being conducted, but these were postponed until a later date.

Delivery Man Given Suspended Sentence

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris has given a suspended sentence of five years in the state penitentiary to John Gary Dawson, city, who was found guilty last week of embezzlement.

Dawson was employed as a delivery man for the Perrin Market, 501 Baltimore Avenue, when he drove off last fall with the grocery truck and $328 in money he had collected for groceries.

Some time later the truck was found abandoned in New York state. Dawson was arrested in Buffalo and returned here to answer the charge of embezzlement.

Judge Harris said that Dawson had no previous record, but he was ordered to refrain from the use of intoxicants and make restitution of the $328 to the grocery store owner.

Hearing Set Today On Pension Bill

A group of Allegany County officials and teachers will attend a hearing today at 3 p. m. in Annapolis on Senate Bill 58 which would provide supplimental pensions to certain teachers and employes of the Allegany County Board of Education.

Representatives of the Board of County Commissioners and the legislative committee of the Allegany County Teachers Association, will be on hand.

The measure would provide $50 monthly payments to veteran county teachers who, following years of low wages, have incurred pension inequities, the teachers association reports.

Families living on the steep slopes of Norway's fjords sometimes tether young children at play lest they fall down precipices.

Departments Told To Live Within Budgets

The head of each department of the county will be sent a letter by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners to check on his expenditures for the balance of the fiscal year and to operate within his budget.

A motion that this be done was unanimously passed after Commissioner John Tucker Mason said that he notes the budgets in quite a few departments are running over for the first six months ending December 31, 1958.

Mr. Mason estimated this over expenditure at $190,000. Commissioner William A. Wilson said that during the past year, since he has only been on the board for that length of time, the budgets for each department balance out each other. When one department runs over others have a surplus and that in the end the overall budget is not over spent.

Commissioner John J. Rowan said that all department heads should be given notice that they must confine their spending to their budgets.

"We need to operate on good business principles. Let's forget what has been the procedure in the past and operate the county's business on a sound business basis," Mr. Rowan stated.

The county board has been working to cut all unnecessary costs of operating the government. It has asked for preliminary budgets so that paring of various items where possible can be made before the levy is set in April.

RECEIVES AMBASSADOR

Brewery Official Named Director Of Local Bank

L. N. Duncan, Vocke Road, local brewery official, yesterday was elected a director of First National Bank, A. W. Tindall, president, announced.

Mr. Duncan is general manager and a director of the Queen City Brewing Company and is vice president and general manager of the Cumberland Brewing Company.

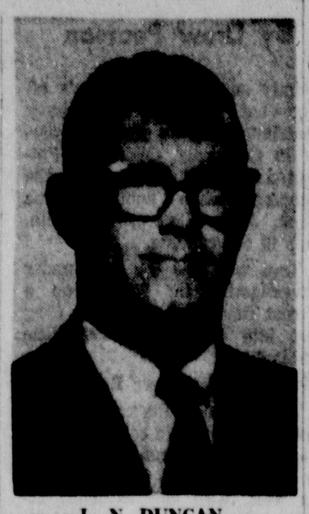

A native of Marion, Ind., Duncan, 41, is married to the former Helen Townsend whose father, M. Clifford Townsend, served as governor of Indiana.

He began his career in the brewing industry as an apprentice in the Kiley Brewing Compan, Marion, Ind., and Berghoff Brewing Corporation, Fort Wayne, Ind., and was graduated from the Wahl-Hinius Institute of Fermentology, Chicago.

Duncan returned to Berghoff as assistant brewmaster. Later he became brewmaster of the T. M. Norton Brewing Company, Anderson, Ind., and the Peter Fox Brewing Company, Grand Rapids, Mich.

After supervising production of high proof alcohol for armed services, he became brewmaster of the Falls Breweries, Fergus Falls, Minn. About 10 years ago he came to Cumberland as brewmaster of the Queen City Brewing Company and subsequently was appointed to his present positions with the two local breweries.

The Duncans have three children, Mrs. Edward Dove, Baltimore; Mrs. Robert Kirtley, Winter Haven, Fla., and Max Duncan, at home.

Youth Jailed, Fined On Motor Violations

James Richard Abe, 19, of Kensington, was found guilty Monday of four motor violations and sentenced to six months in County Jail and fined a total of $225.

Magistrate Morris Baron of Trial Magistrate Court found Abe guilty of operating a vehicle while under the influence of alcohol, reckless driving, no registration card in possession and operating a vehicle without a license. It was his second drunk driving conviction.

Abe was given a six-month term on each of the first two charges, but Magistrate Baron ruled the sentences could run concurrently. One other charge against Abe was dismissed by Magistrate Baron.

Abe was arrested early Sunday morning on Columbia Street by Officer Donald Boggs, Oliver Cook and Thomas Andrews.

Local Man Held In Liquor Theft At Tavern Here

The state's attorney's office indicated yesterday that Andrew L. Robinson, 48, of 118 South Lee Street, will be charged with the breaking and entering of Geatz's Restaurant and Tavern, 206 Paca Street.

He will also be charged with the theft of about $125 worth of liquor and a shotgun taken from the premises. Edwin R. Lilya, Allegany County criminal investigator, said the man will probably be taken before Magistrate Morris Baron today for the purpose of setting bond.

Robinson, who claims to have spent more than 30 years in prisons, was arrested Monday night by city police and was questioned until about 3:30 a. m. yesterday before admitting the entry.

He was questioned extensively by Det. Kenneth Morrissey Monday night.

Robinson informed authorities that he has spent approximately 31 of his 48 years in various lockups. He recalled serving two years in the Maryland Penitentiary, six years in the Western State Penitentiary at Pittsburgh, eight years at another Pennsylvania prison and also several different terms in the Maryland House of Correction.

The entry at the West Side tavern was reported to city authorities on the morning of January 15.

Robinson informed Det. Morrissey Monday that after stealing the liquor he hid it under the Washington Street Bridge.

He also informed police that he had loaned the shotgun to a local man for $5. The weapon was recovered.

In another case reported Monday night, Det. Morrissey apprehended a local man for stealing a number of items from four local youths who were playing basketball at Carver High School.

Being held in the City Jail in connection with the case is William Rhodes who had several items in his possession when arrested.

Police said Carl Brown, Bill Rice, Gary Smith and Fred Meeks reported that while they were playing basketball on the Carver court someone entered the dressing rooms and stole their possessions.

The items taken included a billfold, two class rings, a wedding ring, and a blue zipper jacket.

Det. Morrissey said Rhodes was arrested by Officer Clarence Valentine and during questioning at Police Headquarters he reportedly admitted the theft. Rhodes was wearing a blue zipper jacket under his own jacket and the two class rings were found in his shoes.

Rhodes will be taken to the State's Attorney's office today for questioning in the thefts. The four victims also will be summoned by police for questioning.

No charges have been filed against Rhodes pending further investigation by authorities.

Sentenced To Jail

Lester Hamilton, of Warrior Mountain, was sentenced to 30 days in the Allegany County Jail yesterday by Trial Magistrate Morris Baron.

Hamilton was arrested Monday night by Trooper Jack Browning of the Maryland State Police on two minor charges.

Frostburg Man Suggests County Operated Quarry

James A. Morgan Jr., of Frostburg, has written to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners suggesting that the county check into the savings which could be made by operating its own quarry.

Morgan said he is a salesman and gets around the county frequently. He said it has been his observation and that of others that county roads workers could be occupied during the winter months preparing stone for use during the maintenance and repair season in other months.

He said he noted that the county spends $35,000 annually for stone and believes that the county could utilize these county road workers at a quarry to prepare the stone needed at a saving.

Students Take Part In Trial

Taking part in hte trial were Pat Naughton, Thomas Kyhos, Judy Dick and Janie Butts, Phyllis Klein and Melvin Spect.

Harold Naughton, local attorney, served as defense counsel for the youngsters who were charged with motor violations, and State Troopers Charles Snow and R. J. Graham also took part in the court procedure.

Trooper George R. Robinette was present in the court and answered questions from the children on criminal and motor violations.

Approximately 35 students and their teacher, Arthur Lloyd, visited the court as a part of a Social Studies unit on "How People Make a Living."

The students were originally scheduled to see two trials actually being conducted, but these were postponed until a later date.

Delivery Man Given Suspended Sentence

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris has given a suspended sentence of five years in the state penitentiary to John Gary Dawson, city, who was found guilty last week of embezzlement.

Dawson was employed as a delivery man for the Perrin Market, 501 Baltimore Avenue, when he drove off last fall with the grocery truck and $328 in money he had collected for groceries.

Some time later the truck was found abandoned in New York state. Dawson was arrested in Buffalo and returned here to answer the charge of embezzlement.

Judge Harris said that Dawson had no previous record, but he was ordered to refrain from the use of intoxicants and make restitution of the $328 to the grocery store owner.

Hearing Set Today On Pension Bill

A group of Allegany County officials and teachers will attend a hearing today at 3 p. m. in Annapolis on Senate Bill 58 which would provide supplimental pensions to certain teachers and employes of the Allegany County Board of Education.

Representatives of the Board of County Commissioners and the legislative committee of the Allegany County Teachers Association, will be on hand.

The measure would provide $50 monthly payments to veteran county teachers who, following years of low wages, have incurred pension inequities, the teachers association reports.

Families living on the steep slopes of Norway's fjords sometimes tether young children at play lest they fall down precipices.

Departments Told To Live Within Budgets

The head of each department of the county will be sent a letter by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners to check on his expenditures for the balance of the fiscal year and to operate within his budget.

A motion that this be done was unanimously passed after Commissioner John Tucker Mason said that he notes the budgets in quite a few departments are running over for the first six months ending December 31, 1958.

Mr. Mason estimated this over expenditure at $190,000. Commissioner William A. Wilson said that during the past year, since he has only been on the board for that length of time, the budgets for each department balance out each other. When one department runs over others have a surplus and that in the end the overall budget is not over spent.

Commissioner John J. Rowan said that all department heads should be given notice that they must confine their spending to their budgets.

"We need to operate on good business principles. Let's forget what has been the procedure in the past and operate the county's business on a sound business basis," Mr. Rowan stated.

The county board has been working to cut all unnecessary costs of operating the government. It has asked for preliminary budgets so that paring of various items where possible can be made before the levy is set in April

Tri-Towns UO May Inaugurate New Services

Will Run Errands For Aged People

PIEDMONT — The Tri-Towns Organizations made plans at a meeting held recently at the office of the Chesapeake Telephone Company to add a new service to the people of the Tri-Towns area. Someone will be engaged to visit the older people who live alone and who are not able to get out to pay their utilities bills, get their groceries and do necessary errands.

The idea was presented by Alton Fortney, Boy Scout leader here, who pointed out that there is an increasing number of older people in the country and several individual cases were suggested by those at the meeting.

Wayne Ritchie, was appointed to try and secure some one, if the fee is not too large, to do the work.

Mrs. Elizabeth Thomas, executive secretary of the UO presented the annual report and revealed the expenditures for the underprivileged and the allotment from the County United Fund of $4,000 came out even to the penny. Their share has been raised to $5,460 for this year.

It was ordered that the bus fare for a child to attend a Deaf School in Frederick be provided but the parents be informed that they could not depend upon that every year in the future.

Elmer Shaver, chairman, who presided stated the money in kettles for the Salvation Army at Christmas time amounted to $350.

The nominating committee to meet February 16, was appointed as follows, Alton Fortney, chairman, Elmer J. Shaver, Mrs. Benjamin Mamolen, Charles E. Hickerson and Mrs. Mary Wilt. This committee will report at the next regular meeting February 23, and the annual election of officers will be held in March.

Teams Planned

Valley Beats LaSalle, 62-53, For 13th Straight Win

Knights Sink 25 Of 50 Shots In Game Here

20-Point Splurge In 3rd Turns Tide; Lauder Gets 23

BY BILL FAIR

Valley High School's Black Knights gave sound evidence as to why they remain as one of two undefeated area scholastic cage powers last night when they unleashed an astounding lethal shooting attack and upended a much-improved LaSalle High quint, 62-53, on the SS. Peter and Paul floor.

Coach Johnny Meyers' invaders, given a thorough scare in three of the four quarters, shot an unbelievable .500 percentage in field goal attempts, making 25 of 50 shots, to conquer the spirited Explorers. LaSalle, improving in all fundamental departments since the season's start, was victim of an "off-night" and found the range on only 23 shots in 80 tries for a .288 tabulation.

The triumph stretched the Knights' all-winning string to 13, disproving superstition, and gave the Detmolders a series sweep with the locals. Valley won the opener in a rout, 63-36.

Explorers Gain Lead

The picking wasn't as easy for Valley last night, however. The Knights trailed until seven seconds were left to play in the first quarter when big Hank Winner swished a close jump shot to knot the count at 11-11. George Lauder, making 10 field goals in 14 tries over the evening and a total of 23 points, meshed a foul shot to give Valley its first lead, 12-11, as the opening stanza closed.

Mike Mackert, LaSalle center, connected on a foul toss as the second period opened to make the score, 12-12, but "Tippy" Metts, 5-8 jump shot artist, and Jack Bahen traded buckets to make the scoreboard read 14-14.

Mickey Scaletta tossed one through the rim from the corner and Metts, after being fouled by Carroll Wilt, made two penalty pitches to once again tie the score, 16-16. But Winner came through with a one-hander to put the Knights on top for good at 18-16 about midway through the second quarter.

Lauder, finding many shot openings against the Explorers 1-2-2 first-half zone, led the way for Valley's 28-24 margin at intermission.

Score 20 In Third

But it was the third period that the LaSalle players would probably like to live over again. It was the most productive eight minutes that Valley had, tallying 20 points while LaSalle, against the Knights' 2-3 zone defense, tossed in but 11. Valley was comfortably riding a 48-35 advantage at the three-quarters mark.

With about four minutes remaining in that stanza, Lauder, Bill Garlitz, Winner and Jim Chappell netted eight points between them without LaSalle scoring, providing the biggest turning point in the contest. It was also in this period that Lauder committed his fourth personal foul and Myers elected to remove him until several mniutes had elapsed in the last quarter.

Metts Is Runnerup

The Explorers opened the fourth period with a full-court press and between ballhawks Jack Bahen and Jim Ternent, and the latter's outside set shooting, came within seven points, 60-53, but much too late.

LaSalle, managing plenty of shooting chances, was often hurried in its attempts, while the Knights, slowed down time after time by their cool-performing and play master veteran Lauder, experienced one of their better, if not best, shooting evenings.

The diminutive Metts, expertly utilizing his jump shot around the key, was runnerup to Lauder with five goals and six of seven fouls for 16 points. Carroll Wilt, with his deadly outside set, paced LaSalle with 14 tallies on seven goals, while Scaletta and Ternent chipped in 22 more markers.

The Knights were 12 for 19 at the foul line and the Explorers countered seven times in 14 tries.

The loss was the enghth for LaSalle against seven victories. Box score:

Asheville Sought For Sally League

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Definite word is expected Wednesday on whether Asheville, N. C., will be the eighth member of the Class A South Atlantic League.

Seven clubs, with major league tie-ups, already are lined up for 1959. And at last week's directors meeting it was decided to go ahead with eight clubs, instead of six as was done last year. The seven members are Charlotte, N.C.; Knoxville, Tenn.; Macon, Savannah and Columbus, Ga.; Charleston, S. C.; and Jacksonville, Fla.

North High And Sentinels, Top CVAL Teams, Meet Here

First Place Hubs Put 12-Game Skein On Line Tonight

Coach Wayne Boor's Fort Hill High School floormen will make an effort to crack the 12-game winning streak of North Hagerstown High School tonight when the Sentinels do battle with the leaders of the Cumberland Valley Athletic League tonight at 8 o'clock on the Fort Hill court.

It's a contest between Mel Henry's first place club, owning a 5-0 record and the runner-up Sentinels, who have won four of five league engagements. That only loss on the Fort Hill league record came in a 59-40 game at Hagerstown on December 13.

The concensus of opinion is that if Fort Hill is unable to stop the Hubs tonight the Henrymen could go on to sweep through their ten game C.V.A.L. schedule.

North High has beaten Allegany here, 60-56, and also whipped South Hagerstown, 60-32, Martinsburg, 50-39, Frederick, 43-29, and Fort Hill. The seven other wins were over independent foes.

Fort Hill scored wins over Frederick, 45-42, South Hagerstown, 46-44, Martinsburg, 63-62 and Allegany, 55-50. The Sentinels' overall record is eight wins and three losses.

Alex Rich and Bill Bossi, Pennsylvania officials, will handle tonight's game.

Fort Ashby At Beall

Beall High School and Fort Ashby will clash this afternoon at 1:30 in Frostburg in their only meeting this season. Coach Quentin Sayers' Eagles come to the Mountain City with a 7-5 record. Beall will be trying to break a five-game losing streak. The Mountaineers have won only three of 11 games to date.

John Shelton's Keyser High Golden Tornado will be gunning for its tenth win of the campaign when it plays the Petersburg High Vikings in a P.V.C. contest tonight in Keyser. Keyser is still in the running for the conference crown, having won seven of eight games played to date. The team's overall mark is 9-2. The Vikings dropped a 78-64 decision to KHS and are 4-6 in the league.

Shoot For Tenth Win

Ed Supak's Mountaineer High cagers also will be shooting for win No. 10 when they invade Preston County tonight to engage Aurora High School. The Tucker countians whipped Aurora earlier in the season by the score of 57-52 and they take a 9-2 record into tonight's game.

Coach Homer Brooks' Frederick High Cadets can move into the .500 circle tonight if they defeat Glenelg High School, a newcome ron their schedule from Howard County. The Cadets are 5-6 in games played to date.

Bruce Defeats Southern, 79-67

Bulldogs Score Fourth Victory

WESTERNPORT, Jan. 27—The Bruce Bulldogs broke a 55-55 tie at the end of the third period and went on to score 24 points in the final quarter for a 79-67 triumph over Southern High's Highlanders here tonight.

The victory was the fourth against eight losses for the Bruce aggregation, which avenged a 67-58 loss at the hands of Southern earlier in the campaign. The Highlanders' record is now 8-4.

Larry Crossland, Bob Kalbaugh and Bill Wiltison accounted for 60 of the winners' tallies, while the losers were paced by Dick Stuck and Terry Colaw, who obtained 17 and 15 points, respectively. Box score:

FIRST ROBIN OF SPRING—Robin Freeman, that is, and the former Ohio State basketball All-American now is looking forward to a career in law. At 5'10" tall, Robin was the scourge of the Big Ten a few years ago (he scored 1,567 points in two and one-half seasons) but a backyard accident in which he lost parts of two fingers hampered his pro cage career and his plan to be a dentist. He turned to law and will take Ohio bar exam soon.

Mount Savage Sweeps Series With Ridgeley

Amazing Indians Win Tenth, 45-40

MT. SAVAGE — Jan. 27—Mt. Savage's amazing Indians scored a sweep of their series with Ridgeley here tonight by coming behind in the final period to chalk up a 45-40 win, their tenth in 12 starts this season.

In the first meeting between the two teams, Coach Johnny Thomas' Indians defeated the West Virginians by a 54-48 count.

The score was deadlocked five times in the closely contested struggle—at 2-2, 3-3, 23-23, 35-35, and 36-all. Mt. Savage held the upper hand at the end of the first quarter, 11-7, but the Black Hawks were in command at intermission, 24-23, and at the close of the third stanza, 32-31. The Indians outscored the visitors, 14-8, in the crucial final period.

Mt. Savage lost its pivotman, Dan Williams, via the foul route in the third quarter, while Mike Detrick, 6-7 Hawk forward, exited in the fourth period.

Rich Lybarger, Fay Often, and Leroy Morris all scored in double figures for the victors, getting 14, 12, and 11 points, respectively. Big Bill Scott was the offensive star for Ridgeley with 15 markers. Box score:

Valley Beats LaSalle, 62-53, For 13th Straight Win

Knights Sink 25 Of 50 Shots In Game Here

20-Point Splurge In 3rd Turns Tide; Lauder Gets 23

BY BILL FAIR

Valley High School's Black Knights gave sound evidence as to why they remain as one of two undefeated area scholastic cage powers last night when they unleashed an astounding lethal shooting attack and upended a much-improved LaSalle High quint, 62-53, on the SS. Peter and Paul floor.

Coach Johnny Meyers' invaders, given a thorough scare in three of the four quarters, shot an unbelievable .500 percentage in field goal attempts, making 25 of 50 shots, to conquer the spirited Explorers. LaSalle, improving in all fundamental departments since the season's start, was victim of an "off-night" and found the range on only 23 shots in 80 tries for a .288 tabulation.

The triumph stretched the Knights' all-winning string to 13, disproving superstition, and gave the Detmolders a series sweep with the locals. Valley won the opener in a rout, 63-36.

Explorers Gain Leau

The picking wasn't as easy for Valley last night, however. The Knights trailed until seven seconds were left to play in the first quarter when big Hank Winner swished a close jump shot to knot the count at 11-11. George Lauder, making 10 field goals in 14 tries over the evening and a total of 23 points, meshed a foul shot to give Valley its first lead, 12-11, as the opening stanza closed.

Mike Mackert, LaSalle center, connected on a foul toss as the second period opened to make the score, 12-12, but "Tippy" Metts, 5-8 jump shot artist, and Jack Bahen traded buckets to make the scoreboard read 14-14.

Mickey Scaletta tossed one through the rim from the corner and Metts, after being fouled by Carroll Wilt, made two penalty pitches to once again tie the score, 16-16. But Winner came through with a one-hander to put the Knights on top for good at 18-16 about midway through the second quarter.

Lauder, finding many shot openings against the Explorers 1-2-2 first-half zone, led the way for Valley's 28-24 margin at intermission.

Score 20 In Third

But it was the third period that the LaSalle players would probably like to live over again. It was the most productive eight minutes that Valley had, tallying 20 points while LaSalle, against the Knights' 2-3 zone defense, tossed in but 11. Valley was comfortably riding a 48-35 advantage at the three-quarters mark.

With about four minutes remaining in that stanza, Lauder, Bill Garlitz, Winner and Jim Chappell netted eight points between them without LaSalle scoring, providing the biggest turning point in the contest. It was also in this period that Lauder committed his fourth personal foul and Myers elected to remove him until several mniutes had elapsed in the last quarter.

Metts Is Runnerup

The Explorers opened the fourth period with a full-court press and between ballhawks Jack Bahen and Jim Ternent, and the latter's outside set shooting, came within seven points, 60-53, but much too late.

LaSalle, managing plenty of shooting chances, was often hurried in its attempts, while the Knights, slowed down time after time by their cool-performing and play master veteran Lauder, experienced one of their better, if not best, shooting evenings.

The diminutive Metts, expertly utilizing his jump shot around the key, was runnerup to Lauder with five goals and six of seven fouls for 16 points. Carroll Wilt, with his deadly outside set, paced LaSalle with 14 tallies on seven goals, while Scaletta and Ternent chipped in 22 more markers.

The Knights were 12 for 19 at the foul line and the Explorers countered seven times in 14 tries.

The loss was the enghth for LaSalle against seven victories. Box score:

Asheville Sought For Sally League

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Definite word is expected Wednesday on whether Asheville, N. C., will be the eighth member of the Class A South Atlantic League.

Seven clubs, with major league tie-ups, already are lined up for 1959. And at last week's directors meeting it was decided to go ahead with eight clubs, instead of six as was done last year. The seven members are Charlotte, N.C.; Knoxville, Tenn.; Macon, Savannah and Columbus, Ga.; Charleston, S. C.; and Jacksonville, Fla.

North High And Sentinels, Top CVAL Teams, Meet Here

First Place Hubs Put 12-Game Skein On Line Tonight

Coach Wayne Boor's Fort Hill High School floormen will make an effort to crack the 12-game winning streak of North Hagerstown High School tonight when the Sentinels do battle with the leaders of the Cumberland Valley Athletic League tonight at 8 o'clock on the Fort Hill court.

It's a contest between Mel Henry's first place club, owning a 5-0 record and the runner-up Sentinels, who have won four of five league engagements. That only loss on the Fort Hill league record came in a 59-40 game at Hagerstown on December 13.

The concensus of opinion is that if Fort Hill is unable to stop the Hubs tonight the Henrymen could go on to sweep through their ten game C.V.A.L. schedule.

North High has beaten Allegany here, 60-56, and also whipped South Hagerstown, 60-32, Martinsburg, 50-39, Frederick, 43-29, and Fort Hill. The seven other wins were over independent foes.

Fort Hill scored wins over Frederick, 45-42, South Hagerstown, 46-44, Martinsburg, 63-62 and Allegany, 55-50. The Sentinels' overall record is eight wins and three losses.

Alex Rich and Bill Bossi, Pennsylvania officials, will handle tonight's game.

Fort Ashby At Beall

Beall High School and Fort Ashby will clash this afternoon at 1:30 in Frostburg in their only meeting this season. Coach Quentin Sayers' Eagles come to the Mountain City with a 7-5 record. Beall will be trying to break a five-game losing streak. The Mountaineers have won only three of 11 games to date.

John Shelton's Keyser High Golden Tornado will be gunning for its tenth win of the campaign when it plays the Petersburg High Vikings in a P.V.C. contest tonight in Keyser. Keyser is still in the running for the conference crown, having won seven of eight games played to date. The team's overall mark is 9-2. The Vikings dropped a 78-64 decision to KHS and are 4-6 in the league.

Shoot For Tenth Win

Ed Supak's Mountaineer High cagers also will be shooting for win No. 10 when they invade Preston County tonight to engage Aurora High School. The Tucker countians whipped Aurora earlier in the season by the score of 57-52 and they take a 9-2 record into tonight's game.

Coach Homer Brooks' Frederick High Cadets can move into the .500 circle tonight if they defeat Glenelg High School, a newcome ron their schedule from Howard County. The Cadets are 5-6 in games played to date.

Bruce Defeats Southern, 79-67

Bulldogs Score Fourth Victory

WESTERNPORT, Jan. 27—The Bruce Bulldogs broke a 55-55 tie at the end of the third period and went on to score 24 points in the final quarter for a 79-67 triumph over Southern High's Highlanders here tonight.

The victory was the fourth against eight losses for the Bruce aggregation, which avenged a 67-58 loss at the hands of Southern earlier in the campaign. The Highlanders' record is now 8-4.

Larry Crossland, Bob Kalbaugh and Bill Wiltison accounted for 60 of the winners' tallies, while the losers were paced by Dick Stuck and Terry Colaw, who obtained 17 and 15 points, respectively. Box score:

Everett Late Rally Tops Hornets, 58-52

HYNDMAN, Pa.—Trailing by four points at the close of the third quarter, Everett High came up with 20 markers in the final eight minutes to defeat Hyndman-Londonderry High 58-52, at Hyndman last night.

The losers led after each of the first three quarters by scores of 15-10, 29-19, and 42-38. Six consecutive foul conversions by Ronnie Diehl gained the visitors a tie count at 48-51 and sent them to the top to stay at 52-51.

Bob Bussard led all scorers as he netted 22 points for the winners. Diehl assisted with 13. Ed Thompson, with 16, Royce Waltman, with 15, and Raymond Browning, with 12, were best for Hyndman. Browning fouled out with 7:15 remaining in the contest. Box score:

Mount Savage Sweeps Series With Ridgeley

Amazing Indians Win Tenth, 45-40

MT. SAVAGE — Jan. 27—Mt. Savage's amazing Indians scored a sweep of their series with Ridgeley here tonight by coming behind in the final period to chalk up a 45-40 win, their tenth in 12 starts this season.

In the first meeting between the two teams, Coach Johnny Thomas' Indians defeated the West Virginians by a 54-48 count.

The score was deadlocked five times in the closely contested struggle—at 2-2, 3-3, 23-23, 35-35, and 36-all. Mt. Savage held the upper hand at the end of the first quarter, 11-7, but the Black Hawks were in command at intermission, 24-23, and at the close of the third stanza, 32-31. The Indians outscored the visitors, 14-8, in the crucial final period.

Mt. Savage lost its pivotman, Dan Williams, via the foul route in the third quarter, while Mike Detrick, 6-7 Hawk forward, exited in the fourth period.

Rich Lybarger, Fay Often, and Leroy Morris all scored in double figures for the victors, getting 14, 12, and 11 points, respectively. Big Bill Scott was the offensive star for Ridgeley with 15 markers. Box score:

Franklin Reels Off 14th In Row Over Circleville

Romney High Beats Paw Paw, 65 To 51; Wardensville Wins

Coach Gus Smith's Franklin High School Panthers remained out in front in the race for the Potomac Valley Conference basketball championship by registering their eighth consecutive victory at the expense of Circleville High School last night at Franklin. The score was 75-49.

The victory was the 14th for the undefeated Panthers and gave them a sweep of the series and the Pendleton county title. Franklin won the series opener by the score of 47-40 at Circleville.

Franklin collected 30 field goals to the Indians' 20 and meshed 15 of 18 free throws.

Richard Bennett was Franklin's top scorer with seven goals and 7-8 fouls for a total of 21 points. Jack Simon, Billy Wimer and Orville Rexrode garnered 14 points each. Larry Wimer and Jack Bland with 21 and 19 tallies sparked the Circleville offensive.

The loss was Circleville's fifth against a single win in conference play.

Romney Trims Pirates

Romney High School's Pioneers posted their eighth win in ten conference outings by taking the Paw Paw High Pirates into camp at Romney by the score of 65-51.

The Buccaneers battled the Pioneers to a 15-15 draw in the first period but fell behind 35-23 at halftime and trailed 53-34 at the close of the third period.

Bill Maphis rang up 30 points on 13 field goals and 4-7 fouls to spark Romney's scorers. Roscoe Dean and Dave Kirk garnered 14 and 10 points, respectively.

Tom Malcolm of Paw Paw fouled out in the final period.

Wardensville Winner

Wardensville High School (5-4) slammed in 31 field goals to crush Capon Bridge in a conference tilt at Wardensville by the score of 75-54.

Four Warriors scored in double figures with Julian Hott and Bob Brooks setting the pace with 19 tallies each. Virgil Heishman collected 17 points and Jim Fridley contributed 13 for Coach "Pete" Vance's quint. Loy Emmart with 14 markers and Kenneth Whitacre and Gary Wolford with 13 each were Capon Bridge's leading point-makers. The winners converted 13 of 19 free throws.

Oldtown Beaten By Hedgesville

With three starting players accounting for 34 points, Hedgesvill High dealt winless Oldtown High its 11th consecutive defeat last night by the score of 48-38 at Oldtown.

Hollis, Wise and Johnson tallied 12, 11 and 11 points to lead the winners' attack. Oldtown was led by Bernard Stansberry and Glee Phares, who equally divided 22 points points.

The visitors' junior varsity quint gave Hedgesville a sweep by trimming Oldtown's juniors, 27-19, in the preliminary. Box score:

Eicher, McFadden Pace Keyser Quint

KEYSER, W. Va., Jan. 27 — Potomac State's Catamounts rolled over touring Grace College of Winona Lake, Ind., here tonight by the score of 93-68. The victory was the eighth in 18 starts for the Cats this season.

Potomac State scored only four more field goals than the Hoosier State crew, but excelled at the foul line, hitting on 29 of 36 free throw attempts.

George Eicher, with 18 points, led a quintet of Potomac State cagers who scored in double figures. Dan McFadden had 16 to take runnerup honors, and Dick Niland, Frank Neal, and Joe Niland contributed 14, 12, and 10, respectively. Cleveland Has Entire 39-Man Roster Under Contract

John Podres Signs With Los Angeles

Jack Sanford Inks Giants' Contract; Lane Sets Record

United Press International

General Manager Frank Lane of the Cleveland Indians achieved his annual ambition Tuesday of making his club the first to sign all its players for the new season. In fact, "frantic Frankie" set a personal record in the process.

When infielders Woody Held and Bill Harrell and pitchers Bill Dailey and Hal Woodeshick returned their signed 1959 contracts, it brought the Indians' entire 39-man roster to terms for the coming campaign.

Lane, who customarily tried to sign his players at the earliest possible time when he was general manager of the Chicago White Sox and St. Louis Cardinals, said this was the earliest date he ever has brought a complete team to terms.

Neither Harrell nor Held did much at bat last season. Harrell hit .214 with seven homers in 101 games. Held, obtained in a June trade with the Kansas City Athletics, batted only .194 in 67 games for the Indians and .204 for the entire 1958 season. Woodeshick had a 6-6 record for Cleveland and Dailey was 7-7 for San Diego of the Pacific Coast League.

Big Name Pitcher Signs

Elsewhere in the majors, the biggest "names" among the players signed were pitchers. The list included Johnny Podres of the Los Angeles Dodgers, Jack Sanford and Billy Muffett of the San Francisco Giants, and Sal Maglie and Lindy McDaniel of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Bill Mazeroski, regarded as the best defensive second baseman in the National League, signed with the Pittsburgh Pirates for a substantial raise that brought his salary around the $20,000 level. The 22-year-old "Boy Bandit" was the 14th Pirate to sign. Mazeroski hit .275 with 19 homers last season and led the league in assists and total chances, taking part in 118 double plays.

Here is a rundown of other signings for the new season:

Cardinals — Signed Maglie, McDaniel, outfielder Joe Durham and pitcher Nelson Chittum, bringing 16 players under contract. The 41-year-old Maglie, 2-6 last season, took a pay cut to about $28,000.

Podres Signs

McDaniel, a 23-year-old former bonus baby, said he was grateful for the "vote of confidence" represented by his 1959 contract. He had a poor 1958 season, compiling a 5-7 record for the Cards and 4-1 for Omaha of the American Association.

Dodgers — Signed Podres and Rip Repulski, bringing 19 to terms. Podres received a raise despite a 13-15 record last season. Eleven of his victories came in the Los Angeles Coliseum. Repulski was obtained in a trade with the Philadelphia Phillies, for whom he hit .244.

Phillies — Signed outfielder Bob Bowman, whose pinch-hitting average of .406 was the best in the N.L. in '58. His overall mark was .288. Bowman is only the second Phil under contract.

Giants Sign Sanford

Giants — Signed Sanford and Muffett. Sanford, acquired in a trade with the Phils, slipped to 10-13 last season after being named Rookie of the Year in 1957. Muffett was 4-6 with the Cardinals.

Athletics — Signed pitcher Walt Craddock and rookie shortstop Rac Slider. A's now have 12 players under contract. Craddock saw little service with the A's last season and wound up with an 0-2 record. Slider hit .221 for Little Rock after his discharge from the service in 1958.

White Sox—Chicago signed pitcher Dick Donovan, and infielders Bubba Phillips and Don Prohovich. Donovan, who had a 15-14 record last season, took a slight pay cut. Phillips, out from June 8 to Aug. 3 last season with a broken metatarsal bone, hit .273 in 84 games and drove in 30 runs. Prohovich, a college star at Holy Cross, hit .298 with the Colorado Springs farm club and had 98 runs batted in with 21 homers.

Bill Would Split Squirrel Season

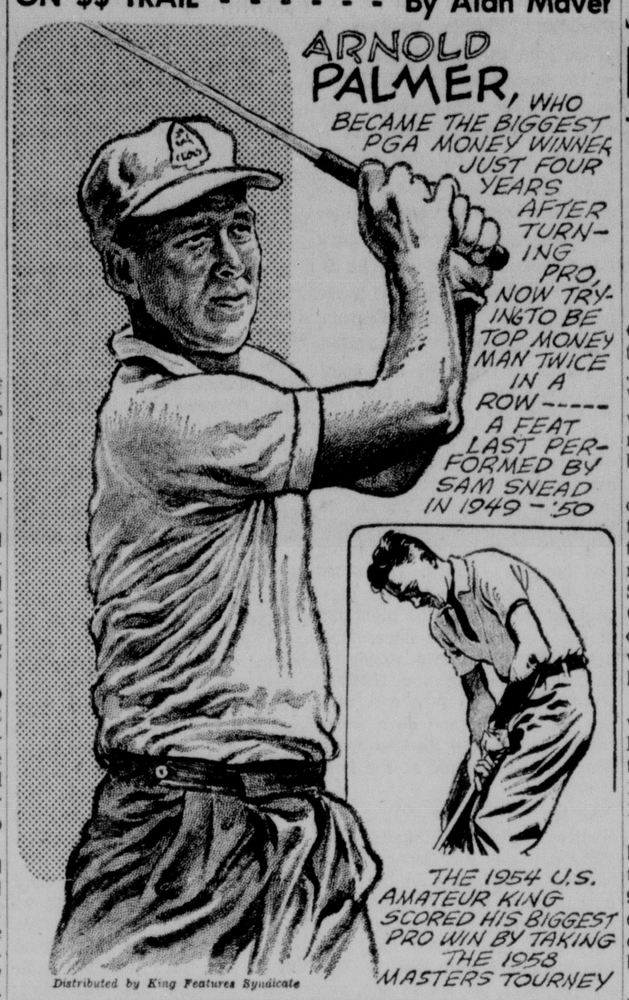

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Dels. Hobart Booth (D-Fayette) and Roy Lee Harmon (D-Raleigh) brought forth legislation Monday to require the State Conservation Commission to set up a split squirrel season in West Virginia each fall.

Under the measure, each season would be of two weeks duration, the first effective Sept. 15 and the second Nov. 11. The Mountain State now has a single season which usually begins in November.

Change Game Date

The final game of the series between Martinsburg High School and Keyser High School at Keyser has been changed from February 20 to 21, according to Coach John R. Shelton, of Keyser.

SPORT SLANTS

Tourney Dates Set — Praise For Chappell — Change In Numbering — The "Quick Frisk"

By C. V. BURNS

NORTH HAGERSTOWN High School will play host to teams from Garrett, Allegany, Washington and Frederick counties at the Maryland District No. 1 basketball tournament on March 6-7, according to Robert E. Pence.

The tourney was staged at Fort Hill last year and at South Hagerstown in 1957. Plans are under way to stage the 1960 event at Allegany High School's new gym.

This year's state tournament will be held at College Park, March 13-14.

Southern High School of Oakland has an increase in enrollment and will compete in Class A in the district tourney this year. Northern High's Huskies will remain in Class B.

The winner of the series between Oldtown and Flintstone will represent Allegany county in Class C.

THE National Federation of State Athletic Associations has amended its numbering system for high school football. The official rules now recommend the following: Backs (10-49); Ends (50-59); Tackles (60-69); Guards (70-79) and Centers (80-89).

The change was made largely because it was felt that it would be helpful to game officials if they could consider that a player wearing a number below 60 would ordinarily be eligible for receiving a forward pass.

Rules of the NFSHSAA also are used by the National Junior College Athletic Association.

JOHN KAZLO, one of the best soccer goalies ever developed at Bruce High School, and a member of the Bulldogs' 1932 state championship eleven, informs us that Bill Wiltison, current Bruce basketball ace, is a son of Adrian "Porky" Wiltison, one-time soccer star at the Westernport school.

Bill is leading the W.M.I. League in scoring, ranks 9th in scoring in the tri-state area and is an outstanding foul shooter.

"VIC" RICKER, who promoted more professional boxing shows in Cumberland than any other matchmaker, commenting on the death of Morrie Schlaifer in Omaha last week, recalled the night the Nebraska "Fighting Fool" put up a great scrap with Jimmie Jones at Youngstown, Ohio.

Ricker had K. O. Yutzy on the same card and Hammerin' Henry decisioned the hard-hitting Jimmie Muche, of Niles, Ohio. Another good scrapper who appeared in the same show was Rosy Stoy.

The Fort Cumberland Hotel tonsorial artist staged his last show here April 25, 1949—yes it's been almost 10 years ago—and one of the fellows who boxed here that night was Holly Mims who bobs up occasionally in TV bouts.

COACH Johnny Meyers of Valley High says one of the unsung stars of his team this season is Jim Chappell.

Meyers refers to Chappell as the "wheelhorse" of his classy quint and calls him one of the best rebounders in the W. M. I. League.

Incidentally, Jim is a nephew of Tom Chappell, Barton High's ballhawk in the days when Art Slocum's Braves were ruling the basketball roost.

"ECK" MIERS is going to have a basketball team at Warren County High School, Front Royal, Va., after all in spite of the fact that the school is closed and no games can be played there.

Games will be staged at the Union Hall in Front Royal.

With the high school padlocked, due to the desegregation squabble, "Eck" took over as physical ed teacher at the nearby Riverton, Va., elementary school so as not to break his contract.

Here's a coincidence. Warren county's players must be white while the Piedmont High (W. Va.) team, coached by "Huck" Miers, brother of "Eck," boasts several negro players who are standouts in the area, especially Joe Taylor.

ONE of the most faithful followers of Valley High teams is Miss Anne Sloan, who is prevented from attending the games because of illness.

A nurse of World War I, Miss Sloan served many years in Red Cross work and she is known statewide because of her connection with the child welfare program of the Maryland Department, American Legion, for many years.

Miss Marie Merrbach, secretary of Valley High, keeps in touch with Miss Anne to let her know the Valley scores after each game.

GUS BENEDICT, of the Winged Foot Golf Club, Mamaroneck, N. Y., scene of the 1959 U. S. Open (June 11-13) has perfected a gadget to help his efforts during the cold months.

An engineer, Benedict devised a metal container with a "handwarmer" which allows him to carry two extra golf balls. A warm ball travels twice as far as a cold one because of the latter's loss of resiliency, and Gus wants to get every yard possible by changing to a warm ball on each tee.

RED SMITH, the noted sports columnist of the New York Herald Tribune, refers to the action taken by the New York Racing Commission in increasing daily programs from eight to nine races as the "quick frisk."

Time between the races will be shortened so that nine races can be run in the time it now takes to run eight. The horseplayer will be returned to his loved ones each evening, poorer but not later than in the past.

Smith says that with additional races and more days of racing there will be 255 more opportunities to pick a stiff. "By betting a minimum of $2 a race, the horse player will be in a position to blow an additional $510 a year that might otherwise be squandered on milk, medical fees or shoes," he adds.

Red suggests a way to deal with those who skulk out after the daily double. "Just run the double on the first and ninth races so they are forced to stay for the entire program. There is no estimating how many millions could be sweated out of them, "Smith concludes.

Ebright To Retire

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—California crew Coach Ky Ebright, whose rowers have won six national championships and three Olympic titles, will retire at the end of next season. He reaches the retirement age of 65 in April. He has directed California crews since 1924.

Joey Giardello Is 13-5 Choice To Whip Jones

Fight Set Tonight At Louisville, Ky.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) —Joey Giardello, who used to hit like a ton of bricks, and Ralph (Tiger) Jones, who never did, meet here Wednesday night in a middleweight bout with both sorely in need of a victory to stay in the big time.

Between them, Jones and Giardello have gone zero-for-three in the past few months. Giardello, although still the fourth ranking middleweight, was whipped by Spider Webb Nov. 19 and by Joey Giambra last June 30, while Jones dropped clear out of the rankings when Rory Calhoun outpointed him Dec. 15.

Giardello stacked up a 13-5 favorite for this one, since the Brooklyn brawler already holds two decisions over Jones, one in 1954 and another in December of 1957.

The contestants between them have climbed into the ring 172 times. Giardello has a record in 98 fights of 77 victories, 28 knockouts, 15 defeats, five draws and one no-decision affair. He has been stopped three times.

Jones, with 74 fights on the books, has won 46, lost 23, and drawn four. He has won 12 by koy's, and has been stopped himself only once.

Berkeley High Beats Hancock

Indians Post 4th Triumph, 60 To 44

BERKELEY SPRINGS, W. Va. —Berkeley Springs High School rang up its fourth win of the season on its home floor last night in convincing fashion by trimming Hancock High, 60-44. The West Virginians have lost seven.

The winners' Vernon Roman was the evening's "big gun" as he slammed in seven field goals and the same number of fouls for 21 points. Kerns was his runnerup with 11. Pacing the losers' attack was forward Jones and pivotman Jim Shives, who rimmed 13 and 11 points, respectively. Box score:

Wall Wins El Dorado Golf Title

Venturi, Palmer Tie For 2nd Spot

PALM DESERT, Calif. (UPI)—Art Wall, firing some of the best iron shots of his career, spread-eagled the field Tuesday to win the two-day, $7,500 El Dorado Invitational with a 36-hole score of 137.

Wall, leading money - winner of 1959, fashioned a five under par 67 on his final round as he won the tournament first prize in the pro division. Ken Venturi, San Francisco, and Arnold Palmer, Latrobe, Pa., tied for second with 142 totals. Venturi had a 69 Tuesday, Palmer a 71.

The lean Wall, from Pocono Manor, Pa., picked up $750 for first place in the pro division and added another $350 for fourth in the pro-amateur. That brought his total money winnings for less than a month in 1959 to $11,260.

"I hit some of the nicest iron shots any person ever would want to hit," said Wall after scoring four birds on the last five holes for his 67, one stroke off the course record.

Bud Hyland Named Assistant Registrar Of The Jockey Club

NEW YORK (AP) — Appointment of Nathaniel J. (Bud) Hyland as assistant registrar of The Jockey Club was announced Tuesday by George D. Widener, chairman.

Hyland has served as an official at race tracks in New York, Maryland and Delaware during the summer, and has been connected with the jockey club registration department during winter months for more than 10 years.

"Bud" Hyland served as clerk of the scales during the 1955 race meeting of the Cumberland Fair Association.

Stengel Says:

Mickey Mantle Kept Himself From Making $125,000 A Year

Yankee Holdouts Are Warned Club Is Open To Deals

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mickey Mantle has kept himself from earning $125,000 a year, Manager Casey Stengel said Tuesday as he warned his holdout New York Yankees of a new crack the whip policy against laggards and training rule violators.

"They had better be ready to tell midnight from noon," Stengel snapped, adding that, in a mass Yankee holdout in which only Hank Bauer is signed, "habits and rules hurt some men on compensation."

Mantle and Whitey Ford, by innuendo, drew his wrath and the gnarled and garrulous Yankee skipper gave little support to Gil McDougald's demands for a substantial salary increase.

"Two players on this club should be making from $75,000 to $125,000 a year," said Stengel, obviously referring to Mantle and Ford. "They have kept themselves from earning it."

Stengel added that he didn't want any dissatisfied players and "if they don't have that 100 per cent feeling, I'd say we are open for deals."

Sees Stricter Rules

"Some individuals had better not think they are bigger than the club," he said in emphasizing that rules would be more strictly enforced this season. "If they do, a big moving van might come along and hit them right in the tail."

At the start of last season, Ford was the Yankees' number one pitcher but at year's end Bob Turley had taken over, Stengel pointed out.

"As for Mantle," he said of the outfielder who is holding out for a raise of from $75,000 to $90,000, "he led the league in three departments but should have led in five. Certainly he has the points to do it. McDougald played well in the first 16 games of the season and in the World Series but he wasn't up to two years ago over the season."

Stengel struck out sharply at those who break training and "don't put out like they should."

Issues Warning

"We shouldn't be robbed because a guy is tired from staying out too late or doing three or four other things he shouldn't," he barked. "If a man is too tired to run it out for 90 feet on this club he's going to be fined. And if they don't put out, I'll have to change my mind and get rid of two or three players I don't want to get rid of."

Stengel said the salary squabbles were out of his jurisdiction and that "it isn't a question of going to bat for anybody."

"Besides," he said, "a number of players haven't gone to the front for me. I've heard and read where some of them said they didn't like the manager."

Looking ahead to the season, Stengel said Detroit would be stronger because of added pitching; Cleveland "has a good chance to be much better;" Boston has fine pitching, and the Chicago White Sox have a manager "who has always been second or better."

"I'd like to have Jackie Jensen and Gus Triandos back," he said of the former Yankees, "but we'll do all right-and we'll hustle, too, or else."

Campers Given 68-46 Drubbing At Hagerstown

Allegany Suffers Fourth Defeat Of Campaign In CVAL

HAGERSTOWN, Jan. 27—Previously tame South Hagerstown High School rose to its greatest height of the season and pinned back the ears of Allegany's Campers, 68-46, in a Cumberland Valley Athletic League contest here tonight.

The Rebels went into tonight's battle with a lacklustre 3-9 record, which included one victory in CVAL play, a 49-47 decision over Frederick. The loss was Allegany's sixth in 11 starts and dropped the Campers below the .500 mark for the first time since their opening game 60-56 loss to North Hagerstown. The locals' CVAL record now stands at 2-4.

Allegany was never in contention in the one-sided affair, as the Rebels jumped off to a quick 13-3 lead in the opening quarter and steadily increased their advantage.

A total of 42 personal fouls was called on the two teams, with 26 being plastered on the home team and 16 on the Cumberland quint. South Hagerstown's Tom Ecton and Allegany's Gary Frisby fouled out in the final period.

Reggie Keyes tossed in 15 points to spark the winners' assault and was assisted in the scoring department by Leon Poffenberger and Johnson with 12 tallies apiece, and Cowden with 10. Gerald Horton, substitute center Bob Gaffney, and Frisby collected 13, 12, and 10 points, respectively, for the Campers. Box score:

Dukes Win, 87-50

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Duquesne scored an easy 87 - 50 victory over St. Francis of Brooklyn Tuesday night, to give the Dukes their third straight win.

High scorer for Duquesne was Bob Slobodnik with 17. Pete Schweitzer was tops for St. Francis with 12.

The win gave the Dukes a 7-7 season record.

Cleveland Has Entire 39-Man Roster Under Contract

John Podres Signs With Los Angeles

Jack Sanford Inks Giants' Contract; Lane Sets Record

United Press International

General Manager Frank Lane of the Cleveland Indians achieved his annual ambition Tuesday of making his club the first to sign all its players for the new season. In fact, "frantic Frankie" set a personal record in the process.

When infielders Woody Held and Bill Harrell and pitchers Bill Dailey and Hal Woodeshick returned their signed 1959 contracts, it brought the Indians' entire 39-man roster to terms for the coming campaign.

Lane, who customarily tried to sign his players at the earliest possible time when he was general manager of the Chicago White Sox and St. Louis Cardinals, said this was the earliest date he ever has brought a complete team to terms.

Neither Harrell nor Held did much at bat last season. Harrell hit .214 with seven homers in 101 games. Held, obtained in a June trade with the Kansas City Athletics, batted only .194 in 67 games for the Indians and .204 for the entire 1958 season. Woodeshick had a 6-6 record for Cleveland and Dailey was 7-7 for San Diego of the Pacific Coast League.

Big Name Pitcher Signs

Elsewhere in the majors, the biggest "names" among the players signed were pitchers. The list included Johnny Podres of the Los Angeles Dodgers, Jack Sanford and Billy Muffett of the San Francisco Giants, and Sal Maglie and Lindy McDaniel of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Bill Mazeroski, regarded as the best defensive second baseman in the National League, signed with the Pittsburgh Pirates for a substantial raise that brought his salary around the $20,000 level. The 22-year-old "Boy Bandit" was the 14th Pirate to sign. Mazeroski hit .275 with 19 homers last season and led the league in assists and total chances, taking part in 118 double plays.

Here is a rundown of other signings for the new season:

Cardinals — Signed Maglie, McDaniel, outfielder Joe Durham and pitcher Nelson Chittum, bringing 16 players under contract. The 41-year-old Maglie, 2-6 last season, took a pay cut to about $28,000.

Podres Signs

McDaniel, a 23-year-old former bonus baby, said he was grateful for the "vote of confidence" represented by his 1959 contract. He had a poor 1958 season, compiling a 5-7 record for the Cards and 4-1 for Omaha of the American Association.

Dodgers — Signed Podres and Rip Repulski, bringing 19 to terms. Podres received a raise despite a 13-15 record last season. Eleven of his victories came in the Los Angeles Coliseum. Repulski was obtained in a trade with the Philadelphia Phillies, for whom he hit .244.

Phillies — Signed outfielder Bob Bowman, whose pinch-hitting average of .406 was the best in the N.L. in '58. His overall mark was .288. Bowman is only the second Phil under contract.

Giants Sign Sanford

Giants — Signed Sanford and Muffett. Sanford, acquired in a trade with the Phils, slipped to 10-13 last season after being named Rookie of the Year in 1957. Muffett was 4-6 with the Cardinals.

Athletics — Signed pitcher Walt Craddock and rookie shortstop Rac Slider. A's now have 12 players under contract. Craddock saw little service with the A's last season and wound up with an 0-2 record. Slider hit .221 for Little Rock after his discharge from the service in 1958.

White Sox—Chicago signed pitcher Dick Donovan, and infielders Bubba Phillips and Don Prohovich. Donovan, who had a 15-14 record last season, took a slight pay cut. Phillips, out from June 8 to Aug. 3 last season with a broken metatarsal bone, hit .273 in 84 games and drove in 30 runs. Prohovich, a college star at Holy Cross, hit .298 with the Colorado Springs farm club and had 98 runs batted in with 21 homers.

Bill Would Split Squirrel Season

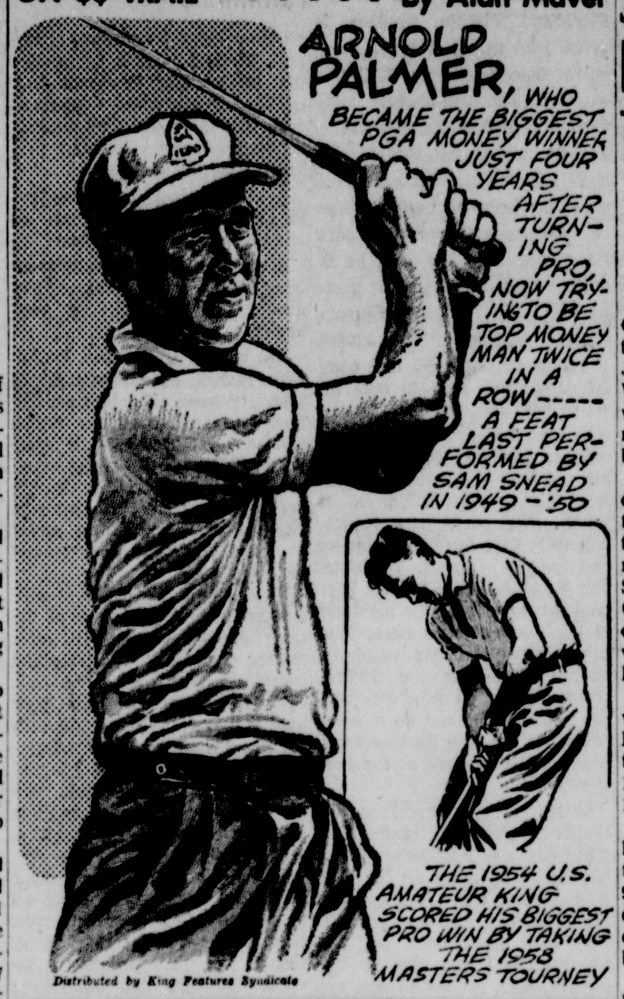

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Dels. Hobart Booth (D-Fayette) and Roy Lee Harmon (D-Raleigh) brought forth legislation Monday to require the State Conservation Commission to set up a split squirrel season in West Virginia each fall.

Under the measure, each season would be of two weeks duration, the first effective Sept. 15 and the second Nov. 11. The Mountain State now has a single season which usually begins in November.

Change Game Date

The final game of the series between Martinsburg High School and Keyser High School at Keyser has been changed from February 20 to 21, according to Coach John R. Shelton, of Keyser.

Tourney Dates Set — Change In Numbering

NORTH HAGERSTOWN High School will play host to teams from Garrett, Allegany, Washington and Frederick counties at the Maryland District No. 1 basketball tournament on March 6-7, according to Robert E. Pence.

The tourney was staged at Fort Hill last year and at South Hagerstown in 1957. Plans are under way to stage the 1960 event at Allegany High School's new gym.

This year's state tournament will be held at College Park, March 13-14.

Southern High School of Oakland has an increase in enrollment and will compete in Class A in the district tourney this year. Northern High's Huskies will remain in Class B.

The winner of the series between Oldtown and Flintstone will represent Allegany county in Class C.

THE National Federation of State Athletic Associations has amended its numbering system for high school football. The official rules now recommend the following: Backs (10-49); Ends (50-59); Tackles (60-69); Guards (70-79) and Centers (80-89).

The change was made largely because it was felt that it would be helpful to game officials if they could consider that a player wearing a number below 60 would ordinarily be eligible for receiving a forward pass.

Rules of the NFSHSAA also are used by the National Junior College Athletic Association.

JOHN KAZLO, one of the best soccer goalies ever developed at Bruce High School, and a member of the Bulldogs' 1932 state championship eleven, informs us that Bill Wiltison, current Bruce basketball ace, is a son of Adrian "Porky" Wiltison, one-time soccer star at the Westernport school.

Bill is leading the W.M.I. League in scoring, ranks 9th in scoring in the tri-state area and is an outstanding foul shooter.

"VIC" RICKER, who promoted more professional boxing shows in Cumberland than any other matchmaker, commenting on the death of Morrie Schlaifer in Omaha last week, recalled the night the Nebraska "Fighting Fool" put up a great scrap with Jimmie Jones at Youngstown, Ohio.

Ricker had K. O. Yutzy on the same card and Hammerin' Henry decisioned the hard-hitting Jimmie Muche, of Niles, Ohio. Another good scrapper who appeared in the same show was Rosy Stoy.

The Fort Cumberland Hotel tonsorial artist staged his last show here April 25, 1949—yes it's been almost 10 years ago—and one of the fellows who boxed here that night was Holly Mims who bobs up occasionally in TV bouts.

COACH Johnny Meyers of Valley High says one of the unsung stars of his team this season is Jim Chappell.

Meyers refers to Chappell as the "wheelhorse" of his classy quint and calls him one of the best rebounders in the W. M. I. League.

Praise For Chappell — The "Quick Frisk"

By C. V. BURNS

"ECK" MIERS is going to have a basketball team at Warren County High School, Front Royal, Va., after all in spite of the fact that the school is closed and no games can be played there.

Games will be staged at the Union Hall in Front Royal.

With the high school padlocked, due to the desegregation squabble, "Eck" took over as physical ed teacher at the nearby Riverton, Va., elementary school so as not to break his contract.

Here's a coincidence. Warren county's players must be white while the Piedmont High (W. Va.) team, coached by "Huck" Miers, brother of "Eck," boasts several negro players who are standouts in the area, especially Joe Taylor.

ONE of the most faithful followers of Valley High teams is Miss Anne Sloan, who is prevented from attending the games because of illness.

A nurse of World War I, Miss Sloan served many years in Red Cross work and she is known statewide because of her connection with the child welfare program of the Maryland Department, American Legion, for many years.

Miss Marie Merrbach, secretary of Valley High, keeps in touch with Miss Anne to let her know the Valley scores after each game.

GUS BENEDICT, of the Winged Foot Golf Club, Mamaroneck, N. Y., scene of the 1959 U. S. Open (June 11-13) has perfected a gadget to help his efforts during the cold months.

An engineer, Benedict devised a metal container with a "hand-warmer" which allows him to carry two extra golf balls. A warm ball travels twice as far as a cold one because of the latter's loss of resiliency, and Gus wants to get every yard possible by changing to a warm ball on each tee.

RED SMITH, the noted sports columnist of the New York Herald Tribune, refers to the action taken by the New York Racing Commission in increasing daily programs from eight to nine races as the "quick frisk."

Time between the races will be shortened so that nine races can be run in the time it now takes to run eight. The horseplayer will be returned to his loved ones each evening, poorer but not later than in the past.

Smith says that with additional races and more days of racing there will be 255 more opportunities to pick a stiff. "By betting a minimum of $2 a race, the horse player will be in a position to blow an additional $510 a year that might otherwise be squandered on milk, medical fees or shoes," he adds.

Red suggests a way to deal with those who skulk out after the daily double. "Just run the double on the first and ninth races so they are forced to stay for the entire program. There is no estimating how many millions could be sweated out of them, "Smith concludes.

Ebright To Retire

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—California crew Coach Ky Ebright, whose rowers have won six national championships and three Olympic titles, will retire at the end of next season. He reaches the retirement age of 65 in April. He has directed California crews since 1924.

Joey Giardello Is 13-5 Choice To Whip Jones

Fight Set Tonight At Louisville, Ky.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) —Joey Giardello, who used to hit like a ton of bricks, and Ralph (Tiger) Jones, who never did, meet here Wednesday night in a middleweight bout with both sorely in need of a victory to stay in the big time.

Between them, Jones and Giardello have gone zero-for-three in the past few months. Giardello, although still the fourth ranking middleweight, was whipped by Spider Webb Nov. 19 and by Joey Giambra last June 30, while Jones dropped clear out of the rankings when Rory Calhoun outpointed him Dec. 15.

Giardello stacked up a 13-5 favorite for this one, since the Brooklyn brawler already holds two decisions over Jones, one in 1954 and another in December of 1957.

The contestants between them have climbed into the ring 172 times. Giardello has a record in 98 fights of 77 victories, 28 knockouts, 15 defeats, five draws and one no-decision affair. He has been stopped three times.

Jones, with 74 fights on the books, has won 46, lost 23, and drawn four. He has won 12 by koy's, and has been stopped himself only once.

Berkeley High Beats Hancock

Indians Post 4th Triumph, 60 To 44

BERKELEY SPRINGS, W. Va. —Berkeley Springs High School rang up its fourth win of the season on its home floor last night in convincing fashion by trimming Hancock High, 60-44. The West Virginians have lost seven.

The winners' Vernon Roman was the evening's "big gun" as he slammed in seven field goals and the same number of fouls for 21 points. Kerns was his runnerup with 11. Pacing the losers' attack was forward Jones and pivotman Jim Shives, who rimmed 13 and 11 points, respectively. Box score:

Wall Wins El Dorado Golf Title

Venturi, Palmer Tie For 2nd Spot

PALM DESERT, Calif. (UPI)—Art Wall, firing some of the best iron shots of his career, spread-eagled the field Tuesday to win the two-day, $7,500 El Dorado Invitational with a 36-hole score of 137.

Wall, leading money-winner of 1959, fashioned a five under par 67 on his final round as he won the tournament first prize in the pro division. Ken Venturi, San Francisco, and Arnold Palmer, Latrobe, Pa., tied for second with 142 totals. Venturi had a 69 Tuesday, Palmer a 71.

The lean Wall, from Pocono Manor, Pa., picked up $750 for first place in the pro division and added another $350 for fourth in the pro-amateur. That brought his total money winnings for less than a month in 1959 to $11,260.

"I hit some of the nicest iron shots any person ever would want to hit," said Wall after scoring four birds on the last five holes for his 67, one stroke off the course record.

Bud Hyland Named Assistant Registrar Of The Jockey Club

NEW YORK (AP) — Appointment of Nathaniel J. (Bud) Hyland as assistant registrar of The Jockey Club was announced Tuesday by George D. Widener, chairman.

Hyland has served as an official at race tracks in New York, Maryland and Delaware during the summer, and has been connected with the jockey club registration department during winter months for more than 10 years.

"Bud" Hyland served as clerk of the scales during the 1955 race meeting of the Cumberland Fair Association.

Leavitt Resigns

WHEELING, W. Va. (AP) — Robert G. Leavitt, general manager of the Wheeling Race Downs for the past two years, resigned Tuesday to accept a similar post at Shenandoah Downs, near Charles Town, W. Va.

Stengel Says:

Mickey Mantle Kept Himself From Making $125,000 A Year

Yankee Holdouts Are Warned Club Is Open To Deals

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mickey Mantle has kept himself from earning $125,000 a year, Manager Casey Stengel said Tuesday as he warned his holdout New York Yankees of a new crack the whip policy against laggards and training rule violators.

"They had better be ready to tell midnight from noon," Stengel snapped, adding that, in a mass Yankee holdout in which only Hank Bauer is signed, "habits and rules hurt some men on compensation."

Mantle and Whitey Ford, by innuendo, drew his wrath and the gnarled and garrulous Yankee skipper gave little support to Gil McDougald's demands for a substantial salary increase.

"Two players on this club should be making from $75,000 to $125,000 a year," said Stengel, obviously referring to Mantle and Ford. "They have kept themselves from earning it."

Stengel added that he didn't want any dissatisfied players and "if they don't have that 100 per cent feeling, I'd say we are open for deals."

Sees Stricter Rules

"Some individuals had better not think they are bigger than the club," he said in emphasizing that rules would be more strictly enforced this season. "If they do, a big moving van might come along and hit them right in the tail."

At the start of last season, Ford was the Yankees' number one pitcher but at year's end Bob Turley had taken over, Stengel pointed out.

"As for Mantle," he said of the outfielder who is holding out for a raise of from $75,000 to $90,000, "he led the league in three departments but should have led in five. Certainly he has the points to do it. McDougald played well in the first 16 games of the season and in the World Series but he wasn't up to two years ago over the season."

Stengel struck out sharply at those who break training and "don't put out like they should."

Issues Warning

"We shouldn't be robbed because a guy is tired from staying out too late or doing three or four other things he shouldn't," he barked. "If a man is too tired to run it out for 90 feet on this club he's going to be fined. And if they don't put out, I'll have to change my mind and get rid of two or three players I don't want to get rid of."

Stengel said the salary squabbles were out of his jurisdiction and that "it isn't a question of going to bat for anybody."

"Besides," he said, "a number of players haven't gone to the front for me. I've heard and read where some of them said they didn't like the manager."

Looking ahead to the season, Stengel said Detroit would be stronger because of added pitching; Cleveland "has a good chance to be much better;" Boston has fine pitching, and the Chicago White Sox have a manager "who has always been second or better."

"I'd like to have Jackie Jensen and Gus Triandos back," he said of the former Yankees, "but we'll do all right-and we'll hustle, too, or else."

Campers Given 68-46 Drubbing At Hagerstown

Allegany Suffers Fourth Defeat Of Campaign In CVAL

HAGERSTOWN, Jan. 27—Previously tame South Hagerstown High School rose to its greatest height of the season and pinned back the ears of Allegany's Campers, 68-46, in a Cumberland Valley Athletic League contest here tonight.

The Rebels went into tonight's battle with a lacklustre 3-9 record, which included one victory in CVAL play, a 49-47 decision over Frederick. The loss was Allegany's sixth in 11 starts and dropped the Campers below the .500 mark for the first time since their opening game 60-56 loss to North Hagerstown. The locals' CVAL record now stands at 2-4.

Allegany was never in contention in the one-sided affair, as the Rebels jumped off to a quick 13-3 lead in the opening quarter and steadily increased their advantage.

A total of 42 personal fouls was called on the two teams, with 26 being plastered on the home team and 16 on the Cumberland quint. South Hagerstown's Tom Ecton and Allegany's Gary Frisby fouled out in the final period.

Reggie Keyes tossed in 15 points to spark the winners' assault and was assisted in the scoring department by Leon Poffenberger and Johnson with 12 tallies apiece, and Cowden with 10. Gerald Horton, substitute center Bob Gaffney, and Frisby collected 13, 12, and 10 points, respectively, for the Campers. Box score:

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—The name Jacques Tati is becoming very well known in this country with "My Uncle." This picture earned $1,400,000 in France and is doing great business at our Fine Arts Theatre delighting all who have seen it.

Tati both writes and directs his pictures and is now assembling an international cast for "Mon Ami" which will be shot in America and Europe. Dolores Del Rio will appear as the glamorous young mother of an equally glamorous 'teen-age' daughter.

Tati, who has had many Hollywood offers, doubts if the American movie industry would approve his leisurely manner of filming. He spent five months shooting "My Uncle," but it's well worth it.

Director George Stevens paused long enough from editing "The Diary of Anne Frank" to talk about his next, "The Greatest Story Ever Told." He told me that he is going to the Holy Land, to Persia and to the Middle East in July to get the color and atmosphere and to arrange for the production.

"I intend to do with 'The Greatest Story Ever Told' what I did with 'The Diary of Anne Frank,' and select unknowns. Wait until you see Millie Perkins as Anne. She proves that very often complete unknowns are better in certain types of stories than recognized stars."

George will be in New York March 17 when "The Diary of Anne Frank" has its premiere.

Leave it to Joseph Schenck to pick a winner! His Joseph Schenck Enterprises sold Alcoa a TV series, "One Step Beyond," which tells true stores of phenomena. Collier Young produced last Tuesday night's show, which was the kickoff, and it was so good that everyone is talking about it.

There is a strong feeling in Hollywood that if Deborah Kerr will return from her European vacation and get herself some of the same publicity that David Niven is promoting in his bid for an Academy Award nomination for "Separate Tables"—she will rate a nomination, too, in the same picture, of course.

This belief has been intensified since the showing of "The Journey," Debbie's latest film in which she co-stars with Yul Brynner. "Journey" is a fine, suspenseful love story which Deborah made in Vienna last year, where she announced her separation from Tony Bartley. Although she shows a little strain, she is excellent. And Yul has never been better, not even in "The King and I."

It was such a shock when word came that Gene Tierney had backed out of "Holiday for Lovers" and was resting at Minninger's. I had talked to Gene over the long-distance telephone and she seemed so happy and so relaxed, and delighted to be returning to work.

Someone close to the situation says she was emotionally worried over her comeback to the screen after all her many years away. That's understandable because people less nervous than Gene get worried when they are called upon to appear before the public.

I am so sorry for her. It's such a tragedy, she is so beautiful and so sweet. Clifton Webb, who is so fond of her, was bitterly disappointed because he had looked forward to having her again as his co-star.

George Sidney takes off this week for Mexico to see Cantinflas about "Pepe," their picture which goes into production before many moons. Cantinflas leaves in about 10 days for Madrid where he will dub "Around the World in 80 Days" in Spanish.

Board Of Directors Re-elected At Bank

They are Harry J. Barton, U. S. Sen. J. Glenn Beall, G. William Bibby, W. Earl Cobey, Dr. J. Russell Cook, William A. Douglas, Charles Z. Heskett, Owen E. Hitchens, Henry W. Miller Jr., John H. Mosner, Joseph M. Naughton, and Fulcher P. Smith.

Officers of the bank will be elected at a directors' meeting Friday morning.

Naughton, president, announced that present, in person or by proxy, were 16,228 shares or 81 per cent of the total of 20,000 of outstanding stock.

COUNT INJURED

LONDON (UPI)—Count Bertil Bernadotte of Sweden did not suffer serious injuries when his car collided with another automobile Sunday and probably will be released Tuesday, a Middlesex Hospital spokesman said Monday.

PERFORMER'S PARADISE—MIAMI

The vast and posh and immensely impressive corridors and pools and gardens and restaurants of the Hotel Fontainebleau here are awash at the moment with television folk. On any morning, if you amble down to the pool, you'll hear the bell-like tones of Jan Murray's director coaching a pickup audience in how to squeal: "Take the money!" This is well rehearsed before air time which is 11:30 a. m. every morning, and put on tape.

If you drift down to the ocean front—and the Atlantic ocean seems to be just another of the Fontainebleau's bathing facilities—you'll find Murray's three writers, a scowling sullen bunch, huddled over their lone typewriter, thinking up ad libs. Down here practically every vista pleases except that of the comedy writers, living in their special hell of jokes and pleasantries.

Up on the upper deck of the pool are Red Skelton's producers and as I watched the other day, Skelton's writers collared their producer and the following conversation ensued:

"We're going to need sound effects."

"What kind of sound effects?"

"A noon whistle."

"A noon whistle? In Miami Beach?"

"A one o'clock whistle will do."

Around the rest of the pool, all that could be heard was the soft swish of the surf and the gentle plop of plugs for Picciolo's restaurant being dropped into the script of the Murray show. A few weeks ago, the Fontainebleau played host to "You Asked For It," an ABC show. With Murray's "Treasure Hunt," an NBC show on the premises, and Skelton's CBS show filming Monday, this gives the hotel the true air of a Television City, the only one originating shows for all three networks.

Miami Beach, which was built by publicity, has always had a passionate crush on television performers with their unrivalled capacity for spreading the good word. And the television performers have reciprocated this passion. They love to do their shows reclining at the pool under the azure Florida skies. But this mad and mutual passion presents great problems.

Besides tying up the pool, the Murray show is a huge octopus of a dozen or so writers and technicians and so forth eating its head off and living in the best rooms right in the middle of a very good season. For another, the azure skies of Florida sometimes turn black with rain—and always right on camera. The other day the rains came right in the middle of Mr. Murray's show. Mr. Murray, whose smile is as azure as anything in Florida advertising, declared that the sun would be back in a minute or two. And darned if the sun didn't come out again.

But it won't always cooperate that way. The following day the rains poured down throughout the show—hardly a good advertisement for Florida. This has always been a sore trial for the Floridian. Florida weather is great joke material for a comedian, topped only by California weather. The tremendous audience TV has at its disposal is eagerly wooed by the Florida hotel keepers but that vast audience has been at various times entertained by the sight of Jack Paar explaining how cold he is, by Steve Allen showing his goose pimples, by Arlene Francis, frankly swathed to the ankles. If you're playing with that coaxial cable, you have to take the rough with the smooth.

Up the beach a-ways, Arthur Godfrey has been gleefully taping his morning and evening shows from his own hotel, The Kenilworth. The performers happily trot back and forth, guesting on one another's shows. The other day Red Skelton, who has been packing them in at the nightclub in the Fontainebleau here, journeyed north and told wonderful animal stories on the Godfrey show. Godfrey in turn will journey south today and do a bit of acting on the Red Skelton show, which will be filmed at the Fontainebleau.

Sitting around watching the Godfrey tape with Skelton the other day was Pat Boone. Boone has been appearing on the Godfrey morning show, talking about his book and his life and not very hard times, until ABC huffily reminded him that he was an ABC star, not a CBS one, and benched him at the Kenilworth, where, like the Fontainebleau, you're likely to be run over by TV cameras unless you're very careful. At both places the performers put a crimp in the facilities. The pool has to be cleared while they're doing TV shows and the putting green has to be emptied. The customers don't seem to mind. Television has accustomed all of us to watch rather than to do. Even in Florida, people seem to enjoy watching Jan Murray fall into a pool rather than falling into it themselves.

Sewage Complaints Given Approval

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners has approved two complaints of J. B. Dowling, state sanitarian, on sewage running onto county roads in the Charlestown section of Lonaconing.

The owners of the two properties have been notified to eliminate the health hazard within 30 days.

Secrets Of Charm

The Mark Of Femininity

Clump - clump - clump - clump . . . When I hear a sound like that approaching down the long corridor to my office I guess at once that the sound's owner is a domineering sort of woman, perhaps a bit thoughtless.

A clickey-clack tells me that the owner's shoes scarcely fit and she's, perhaps, careless.

A bad scuff leaves me with an irresistible desire to say, "For goodness sake, pick up your heels!"

But when I hear a soft footfall with almost no interruption of sound between the placement of heel and toe, I know my visitor will be well turned out and pleasant to talk with. No sound at all prior to a light knock on my door, means I have a caller who knows how to act like a queen . . . and I roll down my mental red carpet.

How can you acquire that soft, rhythmic glide, the mark of the truly feminine woman? It's all a matter of muscular control: The command that you have over every move you make with your legs and feet. And that depends on how you exercise the muscles of your thighs, ankles and joints!

Here's an exercise that will give you greater control in those areas that produce a beautiful sounding walk:

Hold on to the back of a chair with your left hand and put all your weight on your left foot. Now, move your right leg as though you were pedaling a bicycle but with this difference: Get your knee way up to the height of your waist as your leg comes up and then, as it goes down, let your heel touch the floor so lightly that it makes hardly any sound at all. Keep up a good, brisk rhythm for twenty-five imaginary rotations of the pedal. Then switch to your left foot.

Try it for a week. In no time at all, you'll be able to put your heels down on a marble floor with a kitten tread!

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—The name Jacques Tati is becoming very well known in this country with "My Uncle." This picture earned $1,400,000 in France and is doing great business at our Fine Arts Theatre delighting all who have seen it.

Tati both writes and directs his pictures and is now assembling an international cast for "Mon Ami" which will be shot in America and Europe. Dolores Del Rio will appear as the glamorous young mother of an equally glamorous 'teen-age' daughter.

Tati, who has had many Hollywood offers, doubts if the American movie industry would approve his leisurely manner of filming. He spent five months shooting "My Uncle," but it's well worth it.

Director George Stevens paused long enough from editing "The Diary of Anne Frank" to talk about his next, "The Greatest Story Ever Told." He told me that he is going to the Holy Land, to Persia and to the Middle East in July to get the color and atmosphere and to arrange for the production.

"I intend to do with 'The Greatest Story Ever Told' what I did with 'The Diary of Anne Frank,' and select unknowns. Wait until you see Millie Perkins as Anne. She proves that very often complete unknowns are better in certain types of stories than recognized stars."

George will be in New York March 17 when "The Diary of Anne Frank" has its premiere.

Leave it to Joseph Schenck to pick a winner! His Joseph Schenck Enterprises sold Alcoa a TV series, "One Step Beyond," which tells true stores of phenomena. Collier Young produced last Tuesday night's show, which was the kickoff, and it was so good that everyone is talking about it.

There is a strong feeling in Hollywood that if Deborah Kerr will return from her European vacation and get herself some of the same publicity that David Niven is promoting in his bid for an Academy Award nomination for "Separate Tables"—she will rate a nomination, too, in the same picture, of course.

This belief has been intensified since the showing of "The Journey." Debbie's latest film in which she co-stars with Yul Brynner. "Journey" is a fine, suspenseful love story which Deborah made in Vienna last year, where she announced her separation from Tony Bartley. Although she shows a little strain, she is excellent. And Yul has never been better, not even in "The King and I."

It was such a shock when word came that Gene Tierney had backed out of "Holiday for Lovers" and was resting at Minninger's. I had talked to Gene over the long-distance telephone and she seemed so happy and so relaxed, and delighted to be returning to work.

Someone close to the situation says she was emotionally worried over her comeback to the screen after all her many years away. That's understandable because people less nervous than Gene get worried when they are called upon to appear before the public.

I am so sorry for her. It's such a tragedy, she is so beautiful and so sweet. Clifton Webb, who is so fond of her, was bitterly disappointed because he had looked forward to having her again as his co-star.

George Sidney takes off this week for Mexico to see Cantinflas about "Pepe," their picture which goes into production before many moons. Cantinflas leaves in about 10 days for Madrid where he will dub "Around the World in 80 Days" in Spanish.

Godfrey in turn will journey south today and do a bit of acting on the Red Skelton show, which will be filmed at the Fontainebleau.

Sitting around watching the Godfrey tape with Skelton the other day was Pat Boone. Boone has been appearing on the Godfrey morning show, talking about his book and his life and not very hard times, until ABC huffily reminded him that he was an ABC star, not a CBS one, and benched him at the Kenilworth, where, like the Fontainebleau, you're likely to be run over by TV cameras unless you're very careful. At both places the performers put a crimp in the facilities. The pool has to be cleared while they're doing TV shows and the putting green has to be emptied. The customers don't seem to mind. Television has accustomed all of us to watch rather than to do. Even in Florida, people seem to enjoy watching Jan Murray fall into a pool rather than falling into it themselves.

Sewage Complaints Given Approval

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners has approved two complaints of J. B. Dowling, state sanitarian, on sewage running onto county roads in the Charlestown section of Lonaconing.

The owners of the two properties have been notified to eliminate the health hazard within 30 days.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

The Mark Of Femininity

Clump - clump - clump - clump . . . When I hear a sound like that approaching down the long corridor to my office I guess at once that the sound's owner is a domineering sort of woman, perhaps a bit thoughtless.

A clickey-clack tells me that the owner's shoes scarcely fit and she's, perhaps, careless.

A bad scuff leaves me with an irresistible desire to say, "For goodness sake, pick up your heels!"

But when I hear a soft footfall with almost no interruption of sound between the placement of heel and toe, I know my visitor will be well turned out and pleasant to talk with. No sound at all prior to a light knock on my door, means I have a caller who knows how to act like a queen . . . and I roll down my mental red carpet.

How can you acquire that soft, rhythmic glide, the mark of the truly feminine woman? It's all a matter of muscular control: The command that you have over every move you make with your legs and feet. And that depends on how you exercise the muscles of your thighs, ankles and joints!

Here's an exercise that will give you greater control in those areas that produce a beautiful sounding walk:

Hold on to the back of a chair with your left hand and put all your weight on your left foot. Now, move your right leg as though you were pedaling a bicycle but with this difference: Get your knee way up to the height of your waist as your leg comes up and then, as it goes down, let your heel touch the floor so lightly that it makes hardly any sound at all. Keep up a good, brisk rhythm for twenty-five imaginary rotations of the pedal. Then switch to your left foot.

Try it for a week. In no time at all, you'll be able to put your heels down on a marble floor with a kitten tread!

Card of Thanks

We desire to extend our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our friends, neighbors and relatives who were so kind to us during our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved son, Douglas James Kreger. We especially wish to thank the pallbearers, those who sent floral tributes and those who donated the use of the cars for the funeral. To all others who in any manner rendered assistance, we are indeed grateful.

Parents, MR. AND MRS. ROY KREGER and FAMILY

Card of Thanks

We desire to extend our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our friends, neighbors and relatives who were so kind to us during our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved son, Douglas James Kreger. We especially wish to thank the pallbearers, those who sent floral tributes and those who donated the use of the cars for the funeral. To all others who in any manner rendered assistance, we are indeed grateful.

Parents, MR. AND MRS. ROY KREGER and FAMILY

Ingenuity Takes Hialeah Feature On Sloppy Track

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 27 (AP)—Ogden Phipps' Ingenuity led throughout the $5,000 Calendula Purse before 14,493 rain-soaked patrons today at Hialeah.

The $6 favorite defeated Loyal Lady 2nd, owned by Louis E. Wolfson's Harbor View Farm, by one length in 1:12 1/5 over the sloppy track.

Bwamazon Farm's Book of Verse was four lengths behind Loyal Lady 2nd and a nose to the fore of J. S. Kroese's Tagama.

Ingenuity Takes Hialeah Feature On Sloppy Track

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 27 (AP)—Ogden Phipps' Ingenuity led throughout the $5,000 Calendula Purse before 14,493 rain-soaked patrons today at Hialeah.

The $6 favorite defeated Loyal Lady 2nd, owned by Louis E. Wolfson's Harbor View Farm, by one length in 1:12 1/5 over the sloppy track.

Bwamazon Farm's Book of Verse was four lengths behind Loyal Lady 2nd and a nose to the fore of J. S. Kroese's Tagama.

Narrow-Moving Market Prices Close Irregular

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sharp gains in a few top stocks lifted the industrial average in a basically narrow-moving, irregular market.

The list as a whole continued to meet resistance, although no heavy selling pressure, and turnover dropped to 3,480,000 shares from 3,980,000 on Monday.

Goodyear stood out at the close with a 4¼ point rise. General Foods was up 2¼ and Du Pont, Eastman Kodak, International Nickel, Westinghouse Electric rose a point or more in the group used in compiling the average.

A group of wide-moving specials moved in line with corporate news. Allied Kid ran up nearly 2 on a stock split proposal and dividend increase. Warner Lambert ran up to 99 on announcement of a proposed two-for-one split and then backed off on profit-taking sales which cut the prices to 96, off 1⅛.

And on the American Stock Exchange, trading in Borne Chemical was a hectic affair. The stock, which ran up more than 40 points in a week to a high of 80 on Monday, was sold heavily when the American Stock Exchange announced a routine investigation into the rise. It lost 27¼ points net to 42¼. Trading in the issue was so heavy it caused a delayed opening and then later in the day forced temporary suspension of dealings.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. each day the code letters are different.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 ♠	Pass	2 NT.	3 ♥
Pass	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Three of ♥.

Today's hand presents an unusual safety play which declarer designed for himself to protect against an undesired trump break.

The bidding will pass muster though South's two spade opening may offend some purists since it is a mite short of the technical requirements for a demand bid.

Against the four spade contract, West led the three of hearts and East won with the queen. To some players it would appear tempting to return the singleton club on the chance of obtaining a ruff, but in the face of South's vigorous bidding, East held forth little hope of finding West with the ace. He decided rather to attack dummy's entry on the remote chance that he could in this manner prevent the run of the club suit. Dummy's entry was the fourth spade which East hoped to force out by returning a heart. East knew, of course, that declarer held one more of the suit for West's play of the three followed by the nine showed that he could have only the jack left.

Lack of foresight will result in defeat of the contract if declarer in his anxiety to win all the tricks, ruffs in dummy, for when the spades break 3-1 he will be unable to reach the North hand to cash the two club tricks. Declarer cautiously refused to win the trick, discarding a diamond from dummy, and East could find no effective defense.

On a casual analysis it may appear that declarer could bring home the contract even if he ruffs the heart return, but actually he cannot do so against sound defense. After ruffing the heart, presumably declarer draws only two trumps and then plays the ace and king of clubs. If East trumps, declarer is home, but if East discards declarer will be forced to give up two diamond tricks.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Wheat staged a last-minute rally to close strong, but other grains fell to weak and steady prices on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat closed off ⅜ to up ⅞ cent; corn (old) off ⅜ cent; (new) off ¼ to ⅝ cent; oats off ⅛ to ½ cent; rye off 1¾ to up ¼ cent; soybeans off ⅝ TO UP ⅜ cent.

With increased wheat marketings in the Southwest, hedging also became apparent in trade Tuesday. The March contract, despite local buying, declined. Towards the close, however, commission houses, who had been on both sides of the market, began a strong buying movement. July, September and December deliveries all advanced ¾ to ⅞ cent. No export business was reported Tuesday and some seaboard agencies said vessel space was becoming more limited.

Corn slumped into easy ranges throughout the day. Old March dropped ⅝ and new March ½ cent. Observers are fearful that country selling may be on the increase. Spot trade saw the basis slip ½ cent lower. Commercial houses were fairly active, but ran up against limited offerings.

More commission houses selling entered the oats trade. Old March dropped ⅝ and other contracts ⅛ to ¼ cent. Cash houses bought some March, but the general selling trend pushedt he basis down ½ cent.

In rye, selling by local longs helped drive the market into considerable stop-loss selling. March was the center of attraction in trade, but dropped ⅛st o ¼ cent in futures.

Easy tones dominated soybeans until the closing moments. Rallies helped March advance ½, May ⅝, and July ½ cent. Meal and oil prices showed little inclination to advance.

One Eastern house bought March beans against sales of May at 1¼ c nedtfiference.

Narrow-Moving Market Prices Close Irregular

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sharp gains in a few top stocks lifted the industrial average in a basically narrow-moving, irregular market.

The list as a whole continued to meet resistance, although no heavy selling pressure, and turnover dropped to 3,480,000 shares from 3,980,000 on Monday.

Goodyear stood out at the close with a 4¼ point rise. General Foods was up 2¼ and Du Pont, Eastman Kodak, International Nickel, Westinghouse Electric rose a point or more in the group used in compiling the average.

A group of wide-moving specials moved in line with corporate news. Allied Kid ran up nearly 2 on a stock split proposal and dividend increase. Warner Lambert ran up to 99 on announcement of a proposed two-for-one split and then backed off on profit-taking sales which cut the prices to 96, off 1⅛.

And on the American Stock Exchange, trading in Borne Chemical was a hectic affair. The stock, which ran up more than 40 points in a week to a high of 80 on Monday, was sold heavily when the American Stock Exchange announced a routine investigation into the rise. It lost 27¼ points net to 42¼. Trading in the issue was so heavy it caused a delayed opening and then later in the day forced temporary suspension of dealings.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. each day the code letters are different.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 ♠	Pass	2 NT.	3 ♥
Pass	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Three of ♥.

Today's hand presents an unusual safety play which declarer designed for himself to protect against an undesired trump break.

The bidding will pass muster though South's two spade opening may offend some purists since it is a mite short of the technical requirements for a demand bid.

Against the four spade contract, West led the three of hearts and East won with the queen. To some players it would appear tempting to return the singleton club on the chance of obtaining a ruff, but in the face of South's vigorous bidding, East held forth little hope of finding West with the ace. He decided rather to attack dummy's entry on the remote chance that he could in this manner prevent the run of the club suit. Dummy's entry was the fourth spade which East hoped to force out by returning a heart. East knew, of course, that declarer held one more of the suit for West's play of the three followed by the nine showed that he could have only the jack left.

Lack of foresight will result in defeat of the contract if declarer in his anxiety to win all the tricks, ruffs in dummy, for when the spades break 3-1 he will be unable to reach the North hand to cash the two club tricks. Declarer cautiously refused to win the trick, discarding a diamond from dummy, and East could find no effective defense.

On a casual analysis it may appear that declarer could bring home the contract even if he ruffs the heart return, but actually he cannot do so against sound defense. After ruffing the heart, presumably declarer draws only two trumps and then plays the ace and king of clubs. If East trumps, declarer is home, but if East discards declarer will be forced to give up two diamond tricks.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Wheat staged a last-minute rally to close strong, but other grains fell to weak and steady prices on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat closed off ⅜ to up ⅞ cent; corn (old) off ⅜ cent; (new) off ¼ to ⅜ cent; oats off ¼ to ½ cent; rye off 1¾ to up ¼ cent; soybeans off ⅝ TO UP ⅜ cent.

Business was mostly quiet and volume light throughout the session.

Liquidation and hedging sales, together with only a limited buying interest, were the main factors in the day's general decline.

With increased wheat marketings in the Southwest, hedging also became apparent in trade Tuesday. The March contract, despite local buying, declined. Towards the close, however, commission houses, who had been on both sides of the market, began a strong buying movement. July, September and December deliveries all advanced ¾ to ⅞ cent. No export business was reported Tuesday and some seaboard agencies said vessel space was becoming more limited.

Corn slumped into easy ranges throughout the day. Old March dropped ⅜ and new March ½ cent. Observers are fearful that country selling may be on the increase. Spot trade saw the basis slip ½ cent lower. Commercial houses were fairly active, but ran up against limited offerings.

More commission houses selling entered the oats trade. Old March dropped ⅜ and other contracts ⅛ to ¼ cent. Cash houses bought some March, but the general selling trend pushedt he basis down ½ cent.

In rye, selling by local longs helped drive the market into considerable stop-loss selling. March was the center of attraction in trade, but dropped ¼st o ¼ cent in futures.

Easy tones dominated soybeans until the closing moments. Rallies helped March advance ½, May ⅜, and July ½ cent. Meal and oil prices showed little inclination to advance.

One Eastern house bought March beans against sales of May at 1¼ c nedtfiference.

Budget Pruned Into Balance

Boosts Spending By $48,332,542

By HERB THOMPSON

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Gov. Tawes Tuesday proposed a budget which would increase Maryland spending by $48,332,542 in fiscal 1960, yet is considered by state fiscal experts to be one of the tightest they've seen.

The $447,869,484 budget calls for no increases in taxes. The boost will be met through $26,615,797 additional in federal grants and $21,716,745 in extra state revenue gained from taxes boosted by the 1958 Legislature.

Tawes told the Assembly that he had cut $12,617,113 from the general fund requests over which he exercises direct control in order to bring the big spending bill into balance. This is nearly twice the amount pruned in recent years.

Tawes said the budget will increase "all essential state services" to meet the demands of a growing population and expanding school enrollment and hold the line on most other expenditures.

May Aid Teachers

He left a surplus of $836,075 and expressed hope that a rising economy will permit an upward revision of expected revenues later in this session of the Legislature. The governor told newsmen at a briefing on the budget that if more revenue is picked up he will approve a "modest" pay raise for school teachers and advance the date of a pay raise state employes are scheduled to start receiving May 1.

The 64-year-old former state comptroller laid his spending proposals before a joint session of the Senate and House in his first appearance before the Legislature since his inauguration Jan. 14.

He said he found his hands tied by previously enacted laws and policies of the previous administration in putting the spending bill together since his election last Nov. 4.

Hands Not Free

"For example, I fall heir to the executive leadership of a state which is committed to the extension of its participation in public education and to an expansion of its activities in the fields of criminal correction, health and public welfare.

"It is a state which continues to share an ever increasing amount of its revenues with political subdivisions under formulae which were conceived many years ago.

"Under laws enacted previously, it is required to increase its payments yearly for essentially the same services it received in the past.

"I have no dispute with the system we have established. I simply want to point out that a new executive has less than a free hand in the creation of his first budget."

Most Items Mandatory

He said 75 per cent of the appropriations are mandatory or near-mandatory items "which to me as governor are virtually untouchable."

These include fixed formulae for state aid to schools, distributing revenues to civil divisions, automatic salary increments for state employes, additional support for retirement and statutory requirements that gasoline and motor vehicle revenues finance the highway program.

Tawes did not indicate he wanted to change any of these formulae, but he did tell the Assembly:

"When I return here a year from now with a budget for the second year of my administration, I hope to be able to offer you a reappraisal of policies, a reassessment of governmental functions and a new evaluation of our resources to guide us in the proper course for the future."

Will Screen Budget

Tawes told the legislators that budget making is a joint responsibility of the governor and the General Assembly and theirs is a joint responsibility to find and erase any flaws that might be in it.

He thus issued an open invitation to the predominantly Democratic Legislature not to "rubber stamp" the program because it came from a Democratic governor for the first time in eight years.

Finance chairmen of the two houses, Sen. Northrop (D-Montgomery), and Del. Boone (D-Balto County), said they would take him at his word. Their committees begin screening the budget Wednesday.

Budget Director James G. Rennie and legislative fiscal aids have predicted they'll find the pickings slim. "This is the tightest budget I've seen," Rennie said.

See Introduces Bill To Boost Burial Benefits

Garrett Jury Duty Bill Passes House

State Senator Charles M. See yesterday introduced a bill to boost the funeral benefits for recipients of old age assistance from $100 to $150.

He said the $150 allowance is the same as is now provided for needy blind persons.

Senator See said the bill boosting burial allowances for the blind was adopted in 1957 but that a bill to provide the same allowance for old age recipients died in the Senate Finance Committee last year.

The legislation was requested by funeral directors of this area recently.

A bill to cut down the representation of Republicans on the Legislative Council passed its second reading in the Senate yesterday.

Four Seats Involved

Introduced by House Majority Leader A. Gordon Boone (D-Ba. County), it would reduce Republican representation on the council from six to two.

Senator See made a plea for a less drastic cut in the GOP seats on the council yesterday.

He told the Senate Finance Committee figures compiled by the Secretary of State show there are 346,246 registered Republicans in Maryland as opposed to some 800,000 Democrats.

The Allegany County Republican said the fact thtat the Republican legislators were small in number does not justify their being "pushed around" and suggested Democrats might better take a "big brother" attitude.

"Just because we're down," he told the Senators, there's "no use to give us the leather."

Senator See suggested that Republican representation on the Legislative Council might, as a fair compromise, be reduced to four, instead of two, giving the minority party one-fifth, instead of a tenth of the seats on the council.

He said he would try to do something when the bill goes up for its final reading.

Garrett Bill Passes

The House of Delegates Monday night passed House Bill 22 which would permit women to serve on juries in Garrett and Howard counties.

The measure is sponsored by the delegations of those two counties.

Conservation Lab Funds To Be Sought

Western Maryland legislators will ask Governor J. Millard Tawes to provide funds for an area branch of the Department of Research and Education in his supplementary budget bill.

The decision was made yesterday in Annapolis as senators and delegates from Garrett, Allegany, Washington and Frederick counties met to discuss the proposal.

State Senator Charles M. See said the legislators agreed that if the funds cannot be provided through the supplimental budget, bills will be introduced simultaneously in the Senate and House under sponsorship of the four counties.

Senator See opened the meeting and Del. Fred B. Driscoll, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation, presided.

Among those attending were Dr. L. Eugene Cronin, director of the state department; Dón A. Emerson, instructor in conservation and natural resources at Frostburg State Teachers College, who brought the proposal to the attention of area legislators last fall.

Sen. See told the group that the benefits from such a facility cannot be estimated and that it would provide conservation services which this area has long needed.

News Blackout On PPG Pact Talks Lifted

Report Presented By Works 7 Manager

A report on the status of contract negotiations between the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company and the United Glass and Ceramics Workers Union was presented last night by J. B. White, Works 7 manager, after the news blackout on the negotiations was lifted.

"Until now the company and union, together with members of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service have agreed to work under a news blackout," Mr. White said. However, the union has terminated this agreement in order to give its position to plant communities and to its members at the local plants. The company, therefore, feels that it now has the same right to inform its employes and the public about the current negotiations.

"The negotiations have been practically stalemated on three fundamental issues: (1) Incentive procedures, which are applicable only in the other plants and not at Cumberland, (2) speeds of operation and restrictions on production, which are not problems at the Cumberland plant, (3) seniority program at the Creighton, Pa., plant.

Three Issues Basic

Although there are still other items not yet fully resolved, these three are the basic problems preventing the company and union from reaching an agreement.

"On January 13, the company, in an all-out effort to settle the strike, proposed an unprecedented and novel five-year plan to permit its employes to return to their jobs immediately, and to insure labor peace.

"The company proposed a five-year contract with a three-man commission, chosen by the company and union, as a mediating body for the five-year period. The company felt that a five-year contract would give its employes an assurance of future security for themselves and their families, and the company an opportunity to recover the markets it has lost," Mr. White said.

"This commission would, promptly after employes return to work, undertake to resolve the three issues which now prevent an agreement being reached. The commission would also have authority to make a final and binding decision upon the company's proposal for elimination of excess manpower.

Includes Wage Boost

"The company proposal included a wage increase which would mean 13 cents per hour for the first year and an additional 12 cents per hour the second year for Cumberland employes, and a wage reopening each year for the succeeding three years on wage and fringe benefits.

"The company also offered substantial increases in benefits under the present plan, a liberal job security plan at each plant which would increase the job protection at that plant to senior employes when there are reductions in force, to continue existing seniority programs at all plants for two years unless changed by mutual agreement, and to re-instate all local plant agreements and prac-

Twin Polishing Addition Planned At Works 7 Here

The Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company is scheduled to open bids February 16 in Pittsburgh for an addition to its Works 7 facilities here, according to industry sources.

The addition, estimated to cost about $300,000 will provide facilities for housing an experimental twin polishing unit at the plant.

Two firms, including the George F. Hazelwood Company here, are reported to be interested in the project.

Small Boy Hurt When Sled Hits Tombstone

A four-year-old local boy who was sled riding with an older brother yesterday afternoon was injured when the sled rammed into a tombstone.

Jeffrey Lindner was reported to have suffered a fractured skull and a laceration of his forehead, according to attaches of Memorial Hospital, where the lad was taken about 5:10 p. m.

His condition last night was reported as "fair." He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Lindner, 511 Princeton Street.

Engineer Moore At The Controls

Retired Engineer On B&O Figured In Train Robbery

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

B&O Engineer Charles C. Moore, of 37 Wempe Drive, who figured in a daring train robbery a decade ago near Martinsburg, W. Va., ended his railroading career here yesterday afternoon.

He was an employe of the company for 47 years.

The armed robbery, which drew nationwide attention, occurred on March 9, 1949 when the local engineer was at the controls of Train 19, the Ambassador, which was traveling west from Washington to Cumberland.

Two Youngstown, Ohio men, George L. Ashton, then 21, and Luman Ramsdell, 23 at the time, were captured the following day in a pawn shop in Washington, D. C. and admitted they had planned the spectacular robbery.

Following the style of Jesse James, the two men took about $1,000 in cash and jewelry from the terrified passengers, including a number of local and area residents.

After leaving the cab of the locomotive to investigate why the train had been stopped, Mr. Moore was struck several times by one of the robbers.

Started In 1911

On December 13, 1911, Mr. Moore started to work for the B&O Railroad Company as a fireman and shoveled coal to build up necessary steam to operate 2800s, 4000s and Snappers.

He became a regular freight engineer in 1938 and hauled cargo from here to Brunswick, Keyser, and Hagerstown. In 1944 he was promoted to a passenger engineer with runs on Train 21 from Washington to Cumberland and Train 10 from Chicago to Washington.

About five years ago he was transferred to "shifter" duty in local yards and has been working in the South Cumberland yards as well as the run to the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant.

Is Nearing 70

Mr. Moore, who will celebrate his 70th birthday on February 3, is a native of Elk County, Pa., where he received his elementary education. He also attended school in North Carolina and went as far as the eighth grade.

When he was 16 years old, he began working in the Pennsylvania woods, and later chopped trees, rolled logs and drove a team in woods near McNeill in the Romney, W.Va., area.

During his railroading career, Mr. Moore was in a number of accidents, although he escaped injury. On one occasion he was firing on a freight train which derailed near Rawlings. Some 37 coal cars left the rails, he said.

And quite a while ago, a train on which he was firing side-

Helen Sellers Will Address Scout Council

Miss Helen Sellers, a member of the National Girl Scout field staff and advisor to the Cumberland Council, Girl Scouts, will be guest speaker at the annual dinner meeting of the council, in Central YMCA, Thursday at 6:15 p. m.

A varied program of music, talks, presentations and the annual election of officers has been arranged by Mrs. George J. Miller, president, and Miss Olive Hurlburt, scout executive and their dinner committee.

Miss Hurlburt said last evening that advance dinner reservations indicate this will be the largest attendance at any annual dinner in the history of the county. A number of persons who cannot attend the dinner plan to attend for the entertainment and business session, including the election, at 7:15 p. m. All registered adult members of the council are entitled to vote. This includes leaders, assistant leaders, troop committee members, board members and council committee members.

Miss Sellers is expected to outline a glimpse into the future, telling of national plans for the movement and progress of the whole organization.

After the election, Mrs. Ralph Isiminger, a past president, will conduct the installation of new officers and board members. The leaders chorus will climax the program with a presentation, the "Challenge of the Future."

Weather Delays Mothers Dimes March

The Mothers March of Dimes, scheduled last night, was postponed due to bad weather.

Mrs. Elizabeth Nave, general chairman, said the drive will be held in South Cumberland Thursday from 1 to 3 p. m., on the East Side Friday evening and in other sections of the city this evening.

Rice Says Dentists Would Put Him Out Of Business

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A Cumberland technician protested Tuesday that state dentists want to put him out of business.

In turn, the president of the Maryland State Dental Society said the technician already had been in court on a charge of violating the law.

"I'm surprised he would even appear here," Dr. G. B. Clendenin told the House Judiciary Committee.

The committee was listening to views on a bill that would generally revise the Maryland law on dentists and dental hygienists.

Robert Rice and his associate, Alan Porter, of Cumberland were the only protestants heard.

Their complaint was against a proposal that no one would be allowed to make, alter, repair or duplicate a denture or plate without "authorization or prescription given by a registered licensed dentist."

"Not Up To Sub-Par"

Rice, who has been making dentures and plates for 34 years, said all of his 10,000 customers in Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania have come to him directly.

Dr. William Ryan of Allegany County told the committee he had seen many dentures made by Rice and "they haven't been up to even sub-par."

Committee Chairman Melvin (D-Anne Arundel) blocked efforts to bring out details of Dr. Clendenin's statement concerning Rice's court case.

Later, Del. Walsh (D-Allegany) explained briefly to the committee that the Allegany County Circuit Court had decided the present law "means that if you don't touch the patient's mouth, you are not practicing dentistry and it is legal."

Schindler Says Law Unjust

Rice said he did not take impressions to manufacture plates, but that sometimes his customers took their own and he used them.

Julius S. Schindler, Cumberland attorney who represented Rice, said his client was willing to have the law amended to restrict dental technicians to repair or duplicate plates without authorization from registered dentists.

He also said he would favor setting up qualifications for future dental technicians, but that to prohibit customers from going to established businessmen such as Rice was unjust.

Porter told the committee the reason many people go directly to technicians is because the dentists "charge exhorbitant prices and they can't afford to pay them."

He said the average cost of a denture is $20 to $30 and dentists charge from $75 up for them.

Cemetery Group Plans To Erect Wall And Fence

The Sumner Cemetery Improvement Association is planning to build a concrete block retaining wall which would be parallel with the roadway of the cemetery and also a fence which would enclose the property.

Plans for the proposed work were discussed at a recent dinner at Ebenezer Baptist Church, which was held in honor of some 20 volunteer workers responsible for cleaning up the cemetery grounds.

John Wormack, financial secretary of the association, went over the proposed plans for the wall and fence. Toastmaster was Rev. Charles H. Walden Sr., pastor of the Metropolitan A. M. E. Church.

Mrs. Nina Yates was chairman of a committee of women who prepared and served the dinner to 35 persons.

Ambulance Fees Involved In Another Round

Welfare Department Stand Clarified

There was another inconclusive round yesterday in the dispute over who, if anybody, should pay for the ambulance service in transporting indigent people to local hospitals.

Miss Ethel Wilderman, acting director of the Allegany County Welfare Department, clarified one point when she told the Board of County Commissioners that her department does not pay the hospital bills of indigent persons.

She said the County Welfare Department simply certifies to the State Welfare Department that a particular hospital patient had no funds to pay his hospital bill.

Fred W. Jenkins, operator of the Astor Ambulance Service, had said last Friday that he thought it strange the County Welfare Department had funds to pay the hospital bills of certain indigent persons but could not pay for the ambulance which took the patients to the hospital.

The county commissioners announced January 20 that they will adhere to the stand taken in August 1956 by Gorman E. Getty, then county attorney, that the county commissioners cannot pay such ambulance fees for indigent persons.

Sheriff Paul C. Haberlein appeared at yesterday's meeting of the county commissioners to request that action be taken to have the law amended which prevents on-duty deputies from eating food prepared essentially for prisoners at the County Jail.

The new sheriff said he felt that on-duty deputies should be allowed to eat their meals at the jail while working there. Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the county commissioners, was requested to investigate.

Commissioner John T. Mason and Mr. Clark were instructed to confer with bank officials for suggestions as to how the $180,000 being withdrawn from the checking accounts of five banks should be invested in U. S. government securities paying at least three per cent interest. There is no interest drawn on the $180,000 now.

Brothers Sentenced In Assault Case

Two Wiley Ford brothers were sentenced at Keyser, Monday on charges of felonious assault.

William Lloyd was sentenced to two one-to-10 year terms in the penitentiary for felonious assault on Raymond Delmar Cook and Dewey Edgar Campbell on the parking lot of a Route 28 tavern, and for violation of parole.

Lloyd was on parole from a one-to-10-year sentence for armed robbery near the Cumberland Airport at Wiley Ford.

Robert Lloyd, charged with felonious assault on the same two men, was given 30 days in jail because of his previous good record and the fact that he is a member of the U.S. Marine Corps.

Mason Charged With Assault

Former Police Officer James J. Mason, who has been charged with the assault of a 21-year-old local woman, yesterday waived a preliminary hearing in Trial Magistrates's Court and posted $500 bond pending action of the grand jury of the April term of Allegany County Circuit Court.

A state warrant charging Mason with the assault was sworn by Edwin R. Lilya, county criminal investigator. Mason was taken before Trial Magistrate Morris Baron, who set bond. Harold Naughton is attorney for Mason.

Statements have been taken from two witnesses to the alleged assault early Sunday morning in Mason's parked car at 12 West Second Street, where the victim, Miss Eleanor Williams resides. She was hospitalized.

Local Firm Fined For ICC Violation

The Interstate Commerce Commission has been advised that Floyd Thomas Grapes, doing business as Grapes Transfer here, was fined $300 and costs January 23 after he pleaded guilty to an information charging him with violations of Part II of the Interstate Commerce Act.

Mr. Grapes was charged in the United States District Court in Baltimore with operating as a common carrier by motor vehicle without an ICC certificate authorizing the operations described in the information.

City Will Seek $22,025 Aid For Fire Dept.

Legislators Asked To Support Bill

The City of Cumberland will ask Allegany County legislators to back a proposed bill which would direct the Allegany County Commissioners to contribute $22,025 a year toward the maintenance of Cumberland's Fire Department.

Copies of the bill are being mailed by Mayor J. Edwin Keech to Del. Fred B. Driscoll, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation, Minority House Leader Lester B. Reed, Senator Charles M. See, members of the Allegany County Delegation and County Commissioners and the county attorney.

The financial aid would be provided by adding the phrase "and shall pay an equal amount to the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland" to a local law providing appropriations totaling $22,025 to volunteer fire companies of this county.

Ask Equal Share

The clause would follow a provision that "The County Commissioners are . . . . directed to pay . . . . $22,025 annually to the several volunteer fire companies so long as the said fire companies remain incorporated bodies."

The law provides that the funds be used for the purchase, repair and maintenance of fire-fighting equipment or buildings.

The law provides aid ranging from a high of $1,772.40 to the Frostburg Fire Department to a low of $150 to the Chapel Hill Hose Company and the Cumberland Hose Company.

Mayor Keech pointed out that the City of Cumberland pays over half of the Allegany County taxes.

The County Commissioners, he added, last year contributed $22,025 to volunteer fire companies throughout the county.

"It is felt," he said, "that the same amount as is paid to the volunteer fire companies should be paid to the City of Cumberland."

Other Changes Set

He said that if this procedure is followed, taxpayers of Cumberland will be receiving for their tax dollar the same amount that the other residents of the county receive for their tax dollar.

He said a copy of the bill is being sent to the County Commissioners so they will be informed the Mayor and City Council has asked that the legislation be enacted.

Mayor Keech pointed out that the bill enclosed was only a rough draft since he understands that there is now under consideration a bill to increase the payment made by the County Commissioners and to add the Oldtown Volunteer Fire Department to the list.

The city also asked that if a hearing is to be held on the bill it be scheduled some weekend here, so all concerned may attend.

Mayor Urges Action On Demolition Work

Mayor J. Edwin Keech yesterday urged the Public Housing Authority to expedite the demolition of dwellings on the site of this city's proposed third housing project.

He told Washington regional authorities he was pleased to note that multiple bids for razing the structures were received by the local authority last week.

Mayor Keech said city officials hope the site may be cleared in the near future.

The present condition of the site, he added, constitues a definite health hazard to all residents of the city and continues to be a major fire hazard.

Judge See Paroles Six Keyser Youths

Six of 13 youths involved in a series of thefts and breakings and enterings have been paroled by Judge Ernest A. See in Keyser Circuit Court. It was indicated that six others face possible paroles, but a 13th may have to serve time.

The 13th, Otis Franklin Eversole, 34, of Potomac Heights, Keyser, received two sentences of one to 10 years for two cases of breaking and entering. The judge told Eversole he would not consider a parole because. "You lied to me, and you have a previous record of theft and parole."

The six boys who were sentenced to a year in jail and then paroled are Charles Cook, 20; Roy Mayhew, 18; Donald Mayhew, 20; Donald Cook, 19, and two 16-year-old juveniles.

Budget Pruned Into Balance

Boosts Spending By $48,332,542

"Just because we're down," he told the Senators, there's "no use to give us the leather."

Senator See suggested that Republican representation on the Legislative Council might, as a fair compromise, be reduced to four, instead of two, giving the minority party one-fifth, instead of a tenth of the seats on the council.

He said he would try to do something when the bill goes up for its final reading.

Garrett Bill Passes

The House of Delegates Monday night passed House Bill 22 which would permit women to serve on juries in Garrett and Howard counties.

The measure is sponsored by the delegations of those two counties.

Conservation Lab Funds To Be Sought

Western Maryland legislators will ask Governor J. Millard Tawes to provide funds for an area branch of the Department of Research and Education in his supplementary budget bill.

The decision was made yesterday in Annapolis as senators and delegates from Garrett, Allegany, Washington and Frederick counties met to discuss the proposal.

State Senator Charles M. See said the legislators agreed that if the funds cannot be provided through the supplimental budget, bills will be introduced simultaneously in the Senate and House under sponsorship of the four counties.

Senator See opened the meeting and Del. Fred B. Driscoll, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation, presided.

Among those attending were Dr. L. Eugene Cronin, director of the state department; Don A. Emerson, instructor in conservation and natural resources at Frostburg State Teachers College, who brought the proposal to the attention of area legislators last fall.

Sen. See told the group that the benefits from such a facility cannot be estimated and that it would provide conservation services which this area has long needed.

News Blackout On PPG Pact Talks Lifted

Report Presented By Works 7 Manager

A report on the status of contract negotiations between the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company and the United Glass and Ceramics Workers Union was presented last night by J. B. White, Works 7 manager, after the news blackout on the negotiations was lifted.

"Until now the company and union, together with members of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service have agreed to work under a news blackout," Mr. White said. However, the union has terminated this agreement in order to give its position to plant communities and to its members at the local plants. The company, therefore, feels that it now has the same right to inform its employes and the public about the current negotiations.

"The negotiations have been practically stalemated on three fundamental issues: (1) Incentive procedures, which are applicable only in the other plants and not at Cumberland, (2) speeds of operation and restrictions on production, which are not problems at the Cumberland plant, (3) seniority program at the Creighton, Pa., plant.

Three Issues Basic

Although there are still other items not yet fully resolved, these three are the basic problems preventing the company and union from reaching an agreement.

"On January 13, the company, in an all-out effort to settle the strike, proposed an unprecedented and novel five-year plan to permit its employes to return to their jobs immediately, and to insure labor peace.

"The company proposed a five-year contract with a three-man commission, chosen by the company and union, as a mediating body for the five-year period. The company felt that a five-year contract would give its employes an assurance of future security for themselves and their families, and the company an opportunity to recover the markets it has lost," Mr. White said.

"This commission would promptly after employes return to work, undertake to resolve the three issues which now prevent an agreement being reached. The commission would also have authority to make a final and binding decision upon the company's proposal for elimination of excess manpower.

Includes Wage Boost

"The company proposal included a wage increase which would mean 13 cents per hour for the first year and an additional 12 cents per hour the second year for Cumberland employes, and a wage reopening each year for the succeeding three years on wage and fringe benefits.

"The company also offered substantial increases in benefits under the present plan, a liberal job security plan at each plant which would increase the job protection at that plant to senior employes when there are reductions in force, to continue existing seniority programs at all plants for two years unless changed by mutual agreement, and to re-instate all local plant agreements and prac-

Twin Polishing Addition Planned At Works 7 Here

The Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company is scheduled to open bids February 16 in Pittsburgh for an addition to its Works 7 facilities here, according to industry sources.

The addition, estimated to cost about $300,000 will provide facilities for housing an experimental twin polishing unit at the plant.

Two firms, including the George F. Hazelwood Company here, are reported to be interested in the project.

Small Boy Hurt When Sled Hits Tombstone

A four-year-old local boy who was sled riding with an older brother yesterday afternoon was injured when the sled rammed into a tombstone.

Jeffrey Lindner was reported to have suffered a fractured skull and a laceration of his forehead, according to attaches of Memorial Hospital, where the lad was taken about 5:10 p. m.

His condition last night was reported as "fair." He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Lindner, 511 Princeton Street.

Engineer Moore At The Controls

Retired Engineer On B&O Figured In Train Robbery

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

B&O Engineer Charles C. Moore, of 37 Wempe Drive, who figured in a daring train robbery a decade ago near Martinsburg, W. Va., ended his railroading career here yesterday afternoon.

He was an employe of the company for 47 years.

The armed robbery, which drew nationwide attention, occurred on March 9, 1949 when the local engineer was at the controls of Train 19, the Ambassador, which was traveling west from Washington to Cumberland.

Two Youngstown, Ohio men, George L. Ashton, then 21, and Luman Ramsdell, 23 at the time, were captured the following day in a pawn shop in Washington, D. C. and admitted they had planned the spectacular robbery.

Following the style of Jesse James, the two men took about $1,000 in cash and jewelry from the terrified passengers, including a number of local and area residents.

After leaving the cab of the locomotive to investigate why the train had been stopped, Mr. Moore was struck several times by one of the robbers.

Started In 1911

On December 13, 1911, Mr. Moore started to work for the B&O Railroad Company as a fireman and shoveled coal to build up necessary steam to operate 2800s, 4000s and Snappers.

He became a regular freight engineer in 1938 and hauled cargo from here to Brunswick, Keyser, and Hagerstown. In 1944 he was promoted to a passenger engineer with runs on Train 21 from Washington to Cumberland and Train 10 from Chicago to Washington.

About five years ago he was transferred to "shifter" duty in local yards and has been working in the South Cumberland yards as well as the run to the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant.

Is Nearing 70

Mr. Moore, who will celebrate his 70th birthday on February 3, is a native of Elk County, Pa., where he received his elementary education. He also attended school in North Carolina and went as far as the eighth grade.

When he was 16 years old, he began working in the Pennsylvania woods, and later chopped trees, rolled logs and drove a team in woods near McNeill in the Romney, W.Va., area.

During his railroading career, Mr. Moore was in a number of accidents, although he escaped injury. On one occasion he was firing on a freight train which derailed near Rawlings. Some 37 coal cars left the rails, he said.

And quite a while ago, a train on which he was firing side-

Helen Sellers Will Address Scout Council

Miss Helen Sellers, a member of the National Girl Scout field staff and advisor to the Cumberland Council, Girl Scouts, will be guest speaker at the annual dinner meeting of the council, in Central YMCA, Thursday at 6:15 p. m.

A varied program of music, talks, presentations and the annual election of officers has been arranged by Mrs. George J. Miller, president, and Miss Olive Hurlburt, scout executive and their dinner committee.

Miss Hurlburt said last evening that advance dinner reservations indicate this will be the largest attendance at any annual dinner in the history of the county. A number of persons who cannot attend the dinner plan to attend for the entertainment and business session, including the election, at 7:15 p. m. All registered adult members of the council are entitled to vote. This includes leaders, assistant leaders, troop committee members, board members and council committee members.

Miss Sellers is expected to outline a glimpse into the future, telling of national plans for the movement and progress of the whole organization.

After the election, Mrs. Ralph Isiminger, a past president, will conduct the installation of new officers and board members. The leaders chorus will climax the program with a presentation, the "Challenge of the Future."

Weather Delays Mothers Dimes March

The Mothers March of Dimes, scheduled last night, was postponed due to bad weather.

Mrs. Elizabeth Nave, general chairman, said the drive will be held in South Cumberland Thursday from 1 to 3 p. m., on the East Side Friday evening and in other sections of the city this evening.

Rice Says Dentists Would Put Him Out Of Business

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A Cumberland technician protested Tuesday that state dentists want to put him out of business.

In turn, the president of the Maryland State Dental Society said the technician already had been in court on a charge of violating the law.

"I'm surprised he would even appear here," Dr. G. B. Clendenin told the House Judiciary Committee.

The committee was listening to views on a bill that would generally revise the Maryland law on dentists and dental hygienists.

Robert Rice and his associate, Alan Porter, of Cumberland were the only protestants heard.

Their complaint was against a proposal that no one would be allowed to make, alter, repair or duplicate a denture or plate without "authorization or prescription given by a registered licensed dentist."

"Not Up To Sub-Par"

Rice, who has been making dentures and plates for 34 years, said all of his 10,000 customers in Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania have come to him directly.

Dr. William Ryan of Allegany County told the committee he had seen many dentures made by Rice and "they haven't been up to even sub-par."

Rice retorted he had the same opinion of plates made from impressions taken by Dr. Ryan.

Committee Chairman Melvin (D-Anne Arundel) blocked efforts to bring out details of Dr. Clendenin's statement concerning Rice's court case.

Later, Del. Walsh (D-Allegany) explained briefly to the committee that the Allegany County Circuit Court had decided the present law "means that if you don't touch the patient's mouth, you are not practicing dentistry and it is legal."

Schindler Says Law Unjust

Rice said he did not take impressions to manufacture plates, but that sometimes his customers took their own and he used them.

Julius S. Schindler, Cumberland attorney who represented Rice, said his client was willing to have the law amended to restrict dental technicians to repair or duplicate plates without authorization from registered dentists.

He also said he would favor setting up qualifications for future dental technicians, but that to prohibit customers from going to established businessmen such as Rice was unjust.

Porter told the committee the reason many people go directly to technicians is because the dentists "charge exhorbitant prices and they can't afford to pay them."

He said the average cost of a denture is $20 to $30 and dentists charge from $75 up for them.

Cemetery Group Plans To Erect Wall And Fence

The Sumner Cemetery Improvement Association is planning to build a concrete block retaining wall which would be parallel with the roadway of the cemetery and also a fence which would enclose the property.

Plans for the proposed work were discussed at a recent dinner at Ebenezer Baptist Church, which was held in honor of some 20 volunteer workers responsible for cleaning up the cemetery grounds.

John Wormack, financial secretary of the association, went over the proposed plans for the wall and fence. Toastmaster was Rev. Charles H. Walden Sr., pastor of the Metropolitan A. M. E. Church.

Mrs. Nina Yates was chairman of a committee of women who prepared and served the dinner to 35 persons.

Putman In Hospital

R. E. L. Putman, maintenance engineer for the Maryland State Roads Commission, is a surgical patient at Memorial Hospital. Mr. Putman, who resides on Braddock Road, entered the hospital Sunday.

Ambulance Fees Involved In Another Round

Welfare Department Stand Clarified

There was another inconclusive round yesterday in the dispute over who, if anybody, should pay for the ambulance service in transporting indigent people to local hospitals.

Miss Ethel Wilderman, acting director of the Allegany County Welfare Department, clarified one point when she told the Board of County Commissioners that her department does not pay the hospital bills of indigent persons.

She said the County Welfare Department simply certifies to the State Welfare Department that a particular hospital patient had no funds to pay his hospital bill.

Fred W. Jenkins, operator of the Astor Ambulance Service, had said last Friday that he thought it strange the County Welfare Department had funds to pay the hospital bills of certain indigent persons but could not pay for the ambulance which took the patients to the hospital.

The county commissioners announced January 20 that they will adhere to the stand taken in August 1956 by Gorman E. Getty, then county attorney, that the county commissioners cannot pay such ambulance fees for indigent persons.

Sheriff Paul C. Haberlein appeared at yesterday's meeting of the county commissioners to request that action be taken to have the law amended which prevents on-duty deputies from eating food prepared essentially for prisoners at the County Jail.

The new sheriff said he felt that on-duty deputies should be allowed to eat their meals at the jail while working there. Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the county commissioners, was requested to investigate.

Commissioner John T. Mason and Mr. Clark were instructed to confer with bank officials for suggestions as to how the $180,000 being withdrawn from the checking accounts of five banks should be invested in U. S. government securities paying at least three per cent interest. There is no interest drawn on the $180,000 now.

Brothers Sentenced In Assault Case

Two Wiley Ford brothers were sentenced at Keyser, Monday on charges of felonious assault.

William Lloyd was sentenced to two one-to-10 year terms in the penitentiary for felonious assault on Raymond Delmar Cook and Dewey Edgar Campbell on the parking lot of a Route 28 tavern, and for violation of parole.

Lloyd was on parole from a one-to-10-year sentence for armed robbery near the Cumberland Airport at Wiley Ford.

Robert Lloyd, charged with felonious assault on the same two men, was given 30 days in jail because of his previous good record and the fact that he is a member of the U.S. Marine Corps.

Mason Charged With Assault

Former Police Officer James J. Mason, who has been charged with the assault of a 21-year-old local woman, yesterday waived a preliminary hearing in Trial Magistrates's Court and posted $500 bond pending action of the grand jury of the April term of Allegany County Circuit Court.

A state warrant charging Mason with the assault was sworn by Edwin R. Lilya, county criminal investigator. Mason was taken before Trial Magistrate Morris Baron, who set bond. Harold Naughton is attorney for Mason.

Statements have been taken from two witnesses to the alleged assault early Sunday morning in Mason's parked car at 12 West Second Street, where the victim, Miss Eleanor Williams resides. She was hospitalized.

Local Firm Fined For ICC Violation

The Interstate Commerce Commission has been advised that Floyd Thomas Grapes, doing business as Grapes Transfer here, was fined $300 and costs January 23 after he pleaded guilty to an information charging him with violations of Part II of the Interstate Commerce Act.

Mr. Grapes was charged in the United States District Court in Baltimore with operating as a common carrier by motor vehicle without an ICC certificate authorizing the operations described in the information.

City Will Seek $22,025 Aid For Fire Dept.

Legislators Asked To Support Bill

The City of Cumberland will ask Allegany County legislators to back a proposed bill which would direct the Allegany County Commissioners to contribute $22,025 a year toward the maintenance of Cumberland's Fire Department.

Copies of the bill are being mailed by Mayor J. Edwin Keech to Del. Fred B. Driscoll, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation, Minority House Leader Lester B. Reed, Senator Charles M. See, members of the Allegany County Delegation and County Commissioners and the county attorney.

The financial aid would be provided by adding the phrase "and shall pay an equal amount to the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland" to a local law providing appropriations totaling $22,025 to volunteer fire companies of this county.

Ask Equal Share

The clause would follow a provision that "The County Commissioners are . . . . directed to pay . . . . $22,025 annually to the several volunteer fire companies so long as the said fire companies remain incorporated bodies."

The law provides that the funds be used for the purchase, repair and maintenance of fire-fighting equipment or buildings.

The law provides aid ranging from a high of $1,772.40 to the Frostburg Fire Department to a low of $150 to the Chapel Hill Hose Company and the Cumberland Hose Company.

Mayor Keech pointed out that the City of Cumberland pays over half of the Allegany County taxes.

The County Commissioners, he added, last year contributed $22,025 to volunteer fire companies throughout the county.

"It is felt," he said, "that the same amount as is paid to the volunteer fire companies should be paid to the City of Cumberland."

Other Changes Set

He said that if this procedure is followed, taxpayers of Cumberland will be receiving for their tax dollar the same amount that the other residents of the county receive for their tax dollar.

He said a copy of the bill is being sent to the County Commissioners so they will be informed the Mayor and City Council has asked that the legislation be enacted.

Mayor Keech pointed out that the bill enclosed was only a rough draft since he understands that there is now under consideration a bill to increase the payment made by the County Commissioners and to add the Oldtown Volunteer Fire Department to the list.

The city also asked that if a hearing is to be held on the bill it be scheduled some weekend here, so all concerned may attend.

Mayor Urges Action On Demolition Work

Mayor J. Edwin Keech yesterday urged the Public Housing Authority to expedite the demolition of dwellings on the site of this city's proposed third housing project.

He told Washington regional authorities he was pleased to note that multiple bids for razing the structures were received by the local authority last week.

Mayor Keech said city officials hope the site may be cleared in the near future.

The present condition of the site, he added, constitues a definite health hazard to all residents of the city and continues to be a major fire hazard.

Judge See Paroles Six Keyser Youths

Six of 13 youths involved in a series of thefts and breakings and enterings have been paroled by Judge Ernest A. See in Keyser Circuit Court. It was indicated that six others face possible paroles, but a 13th may have to serve time.

The 13th, Otis Franklin Eversole, 34, of Potomac Heights, Keyser, received two sentences of one to 10 years for two cases of breaking and entering. The judge told Eversole he would not consider a parole because. "You lied to me, and you have a previous record of theft and parole."

The six boys who were sentenced to a year in jail and then paroled are Charles Cook, 20; Roy Mayhew, 18; Donald Mayhew, 20; Donald Cook, 19, and two 16-year-old juveniles.
